HEINZE PUTS OUT HIS OLD DIRECTORS

Thus Forestalling Proposed Action to Oust Him as President of United Copper Company.

INSTALLS ENTIRE NEW BOARD

Election's Legality Questioned and Old Board May Depose Him To-day—Baglin Freed—Respite for Robinson.

At one of the most remarkable meetings ever held by the stockholders of a fifty-million-dollar corporation, F. A. Heinze, through his representatives in Hoboken, threw out the old Directors of the United Copper Company yesterday and elected in their stead Directors of his own choosing. The old Directors for the last week have been in various stages of contempt before Judge Lacombe in the United States Circuit Court on account of their failure to produce the missing books of the United Copper Company. These books are badly needed by United States District Attorney Wise in his investigations of the doings of F. A. Heinze while President of the Mercantile Bank.

The old Directors were scheduled to meet to-day to take action on the removal of F. A. Heinze from the Presidency of the United Copper Company, so that by removing them yesterday Heinze beat them at the removal game by twenty-four hours. Nevertheless the methods used in yesterday's meeting were such that several lawyers representing minority stockholders, who were present, declared the election of the new board illegal. Hence it is not improbable that the old Directors will meet to-day after all and go throught the form of ousting Heinze, then causing a suit to be instituted in the name of the company to replevin the missing books from Heinze's possession.

Nor will the new Directors find their pathway one of roses, in so far as they are within reach of the United States Circuit Court. United States District Attorney Wise has announced his intention of bringing the new board and any other new boards that Heinze may elect to succeed his present nominees before the Grand Jury and into court on contempt proceedings for failure to produce the books of the company.

Following are the members of the new board: David Micheljohn of Butte, L. A. Dunham of Salt Lake, Stanley Gifford of New York, (now on his way to Europe,) F. A. Heinze and M. M. Joyce of New York, Richard R. Kilroy of Butte, George Lane of Montreal, and Abraham V. Wyckoff of Newark.

Baglin Out of the Tombs.

In addition to the election of Directors there were developments in the United States courts in the Heinze matter yesterday. George Baglin, Heinze's Secretary and Vice President of the United Copper Company, who was sent to the Tombs in contempt proceedings the day before, was released at 4 o'clock in the afternoon because of the certainty that he would be ousted from office at the meeting and thereby placed in a position where he could not produce the missing books if he would.

Other Directors who were in danger of contempt punishment also got relief by the action of Heinze's representatives in the meeting yesterday afternoon, but not so Sanford Robinson, who has been a Director of the United Copper Company since 1906, and counsel for Heinze in all of his copper deals for years before that. Mr. Wise read to Judge Lacombe yesterday the testimony of Baglin before the Grand Jury, in which Baglin declared that he overheard Robinson and Arthur P. Heinze, brother of F. A. Heinze, discussing the removal of the books on May 19, the day before Mr. Wise discovered that they were gone. Mr. Robinson's testimony was also read, including some contradictory statements as to why he refused to testify about the conversation referred to by Baglin. A respite until Friday was given him to obtain further advice of counsel, but at that time, unless he produces the books or otherwise exculpates himself, he will face immediate commitment to the Tombs.

At yesterday's meeting in Hoboken there were present in the board room at 3 o'clock Charles W. Saacke, an employe of the United Copper Company; a woman stenographer, four or five stockholders, Edward T. Stice, a lawyer of this city, representing other stockholders, another New York lawyer with some stockholders among his clients, and about fifteen newspaper men. Half an hour went by and there was no action other than the arrival of John A. Sleicher. Then arrived Mr. Kilroy, W. T. English, a law partner of Attorney General Robert McCarter of New Jersey, counsel for the United Copper Company, and a young man named Isaac Levy, who said he was a lawyer in this city, and counsel for Mr. Heinze.

Mr. English got up and announced that this was the annual meeting for the election of Directors, whereupon Mr. Sleicher suggested that an orderly procedure be taken, and that announcement be made first by a responsible official of the company that a majority of the stock was represented. Mr. Sleicher remarked also that reports of officers were in order, and asked whether a list of stockholders was on hand, as required by law. Mr. English said he did not know, and none of the other Heinze representatives helped him out.

"Is any official of the company present?" came from another stockholder.

No answer.

"Is there anybody here from Mr. Tomlinson's office?" asked Mr. English, referring to the attorney whose name has been featured among the legal talent engaged in the Heinze defense.

Farcical Proceedings at Meeting.

By way of reply a small boy with a squeaky voice arose in one corner of the room.

"I am from Mr. Tomlinson's office," he began, when a shout went up that drowned his further announcement of the function which he had come to perform. He told reporters that his last name was Nackey, then declined "to give any further information." Nackey is about 17 years old.

"Where are the books of the company?" shouted a stockholder.

"In the Tombs," yelled another stockholder.

"We have sent downstairs to the Hudson Trust Company for a list of stockholders," said Mr. English.

"Are the by-laws here?" demanded Mr. Rice.

"We are trying to get them from the Trust Company," explained Mr. English.

"Are the inspectors of election here?" Mr. Rice persisted.

No answer.

"Is there anybody here who knows where the inspectors of election are?" was the next question.

A stockholder answered on behalf of the management.

"One has skipped to Canada and the other has resigned."

"I know they have the Vice President in the Tombs," yelled somebody else. "You might bring him over. I am sure he would be glad to get out."

"I suggest that the indictments against the President be spread on the minutes in lieu of the list of stockholders," another one moved.

About this time Mr. English and Mr.

STRETCHED MIDDY SUCCEEDS.

Boy Whose Height Was Increased Stands Fourth in His Class.

Special to The New York Times.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2.—Luther Welsh of Kansas City, who had to stretch himself to get into the Naval Academy four years ago, will be graduated on Friday as No. 4 among the 174 picked men of his class, and with as good a record in athletics and as a drill commander.

Welsh had passed the mental examination and had an appointment as midshipman within his grasp, when it was found he was short of the required height by an inch. He submitted himself to a specially constructed instrument similar to the rack of inquisition days, and the reefs in his spinal column were pulled out until he measured up to the full standard of an American midshipman.

He has shown great proficiency in mathematics and kindred subjects, and scarcely less aptitude in languages. Every year since he has been a midshipman he has obtained star grade, that is, over 85 per cent., and such is his graduating rank. He has been midshipman commander of one of the twelve companies, and last year he was Captain of the lacrosse team, which had a successful season, ending with a victory over the Harvard twelve in a game in which Welsh did fine work.

OFF THE FERRYBOAT.

"Here Goes!" Cried the Suicide as He Leaped—Apparently on Probation.

A man believed to have been William Holdreid of Woodmere, L. I., committed suicide last night by jumping from the deck of the ferryboat Bay Ridge of the Thirty-ninth Street Municipal Ferry while she was about 800 feet from the foot of Whitehall Street. Just before jumping the man pulled off his coat and threw a fifty-cent piece on the deck, exclaiming:

"Here goes; I won't need that any more."

Then he sprang over the rail into the river. A card bearing Holdreid's name was found in the coat, and with it a probation officer's card with the name Nora C. Burke, and the address 375 Lafayette Street. On the back was a memorandum showing that Holdreid was expected to report to Probation Officer Nora C. Burke in General Sessions last night at 7 o'clock.

The Bay Ridge was under fair headway when the cry, "Man overboard!" was raised. She was stopped as soon as possible, and a lifeboat was lowered. The deckhands who went in search of the suicide rowed around for some minutes and tried to locate him, but their efforts were of no avail. They continued the search for some time, and then returned to the Bay Ridge.

The suicide was about 35 years old, about 5 feet 7 inches tall, and of fair complexion. In addition to the memorandum book and card, a woman's photograph was found in one of the pockets of his coat.

At 375 Lafayette Street, the Mission of the Immaculate Virgin, Wednesday evenings, from 7:30 to 9 o'clock, Mrs. Nora C. Burke and John Conway, who are probation officers for the St. Vincent de Paul Society, receive a group of twenty or thirty men and women assigned to their supervision. It is supposed that the suicide was one of these.

NEW INSURANCE LAW TEST.

Mr. Hotchkiss Wants to Take Charge of Traders and Travelers' Company.

An important step was taken yesterday by the State Insurance Department when Superintendent of Insurance Hotchkiss asked Supreme Court Justice Guy for permission to take charge of the affairs of the Traders and Travelers' Accident Company, under the law passed last month, which gives the department the right to step in and take charge of the affairs of an insurance company for the benefit of policy holders. Decision was reserved.

This was the first case under the new law. It is understood that on Monday next Mr. Hotchkiss will take a similar step in the case of a prominent fraternal organization doing a fairly large business.

In the present case it was urged by Mr. Hotchkiss that his department had investigated the affairs of the Traders and Travelers' Accident Company and came to the conclusion that the business was being carried on at a loss. There are about 700 policy holders affected, and Mr. Hotchkiss asserts that there is a deficit of $1,400, with $800 worth of claims outstanding unpaid.

The Traders and Travelers' Accident Company has offices at 99 Nassau Street. According to the copartnership directory, Edward A. Brown is President and George E. Keeler Secretary. Further information refused, says the directory.

COLLEGE ATHLETE CRIPPLED.

Goode of Rutgers Struck by an Iron Bolt and His Knee Shattered.

Special to The New York Times.

NEW BRUNSWICK, June 2.—E. Trescott Goode, a sophomore at Rutgers College, had a narrow escape from death while waiting for a train at Rahway last evening. He was leaning against the station railing when an express train passing hurled a two-pound head bolt with great force against his knee.

Mr. Goode fell and fainted from the pain. When he came to he found his leg covered with blood. He got the owl train, and arrived at his room at Winant's Hall suffering intensely. Physicians were summoned, and it was found that Mr. Goode's knee was shattered, and it is feared that he will never be able to use the leg as well as before the accident.

Mr. Goode is one of Rutgers' best athletes and football players.

AUTO RUNS INTO CAB.

Driver Badly Bruised, but His Fares Escape Unhurt.

As Frank Sterles of 207 West Eighty-eighth Street, chauffeur for Jacob Loewer, the brewer, of 163 West Eighty-seventh Street, was driving to his garage in Seventh Avenue last night he turned west into Fiftieth Street and collided with the brougham driven by William Podmore of 1,129 First Avenue, in which were seated Paul De Young of the San Francisco Chronicle and his wife and daughter, Miss Florence.

The shock of the collision threw Podmore heavily to the ground, the fall bruising him badly. No one in the carriage was injured, and the chauffeur also escaped without hurt. Mr. De Young called a taxicab, and he and his family drove to the Stuyvesant Theatre.

MAYOR WILL JUDGE BINGHAM'S ACTION

To Sit as a Magistrate and Hear Testimony Regarding the Duffy Case.

INVITATION THE BOY GOT

Was Merely to See "Mr. Woods" in Manhattan, with a Detective Escorting Him, Mother Says.

The demand made by Supreme Court Justice William J. Gaynor of Brooklyn that Mayor McClellan remove Police Commissioner Bingham from office and the Justice's vigorous denunciation of police methods under Gen. Bingham's administration resulted yesterday in a promise made by the Mayor to Justice Gaynor that he would himself hold a personal investigation into the cited case of alleged persecution.

The Mayor's investigation as at present arranged will be concerned solely with this particular case; that is, the inclusion of the photograph of the youth George B. Duffy in the Rogues' Gallery, although he had not been convicted of any crime. It was remarked yesterday that neither the Commissioner nor any of his deputies has been invited down to City Hall to explain the circumstances which led to the Justice's protest. As it has been the Mayor's custom to ask for an explanation from any of his Commissioners when such a matter is brought to his notice, this aroused much comment.

Meanwhile Inspector McCafferty went over to Brooklyn yesterday to look up the record of Duffy. He spent some time with Acting Capt. Kuhne of the Brooklyn Detective Bureau in going into all that the police know about young Duffy, and it was stated that a number of detectives had been sent to find out everything they could to substantiate the stand which Commissioner Bingham has taken in the matter.

Both Commissioner Bingham and Justice Gaynor made statements in regard to the controversy, but these added little to what had already been said. The Commissioner expressed supreme confidence that he would serve the 216 days which remain to him in his present office and Justice Gaynor had a good deal to say about the "despotism and lawlessness of the Police Commissioner."

A reporter learned from Mrs. Duffy, mother of the young man in question, that when Commissioner Bingham sent a detective to invite him to a conference at Police Headquarters the message was delivered in such a fashion that no one in the house realized that it was the Police Commissioner himself who wished to see the boy. He was asked to go to see a "Mr. Woods," but it was not explained that Wood was a Deputy Police Commissioner. It was also learned that when young Duffy was asked to stand up in court at the trial of Alfred Collier for robbing William F. O'Neill in Institute Park, the lawyer who called on him knew nothing to associate him with the prisoner.

Mayor to Sit as a Magistrate.

All these matters are to be sifted this morning by Mayor McClellan. For the first time since he was elected to his present office he will sit as a Magistrate to investigate the case. He has directed Commissioner Bingham to send to him all the policemen who have at any time arrested Duffy, and he has decided to go into the matter personally. He will also have Duffy before him, to hear what the boy has to say for himself.

The Mayor will be advised by Assistant Corporation Counsel William B. Crowell, his regular legal adviser, and by Justice Franklin C. Hoyt, who occupied the same position before he was appointed a Justice of Special Sessions. The policemen will be made to testify under oath, and there is every indication that the Mayor will make searching inquiry into the facts they lay before him.

It was stated yesterday by those who understand the Mayor's view of the case that he is anything but pleased with this incident. He feels that when a Supreme Court Justice goes on record in the positive way in which Justice Gaynor has done, it is absolutely necessary that the Mayor should do all he can to clear the matter up. For this reason Commissioner Bingham was not even asked to send a report on the matter. The Mayor is inclined to take action in the most formal way.

Announces His Intention.

In his reply to the Justice Mayor McClellan yesterday merely promised to give his personal attention to the case. This is the letter he wrote:

June 2, 1909.

Hon. William J. Gaynor, Justice of the Supreme Court, Appellate Division, Second Department, Brooklyn, N. Y.:

Dear Sir: I beg to acknowledge the receipt of your letter of May 29, 1909, which has just reached me.

The facts of the case of George B. Duffy of 237 Wyckoff Street, Brooklyn, are not personally known to me. I shall give the matter my personal attention and advise you of my findings. I am, very respectfully.

GEORGE B. McCLELLAN, Mayor.

In the correspondence which passed between Commissioner Bingham and Justice Gaynor an issue was raised about the invitation which the former stated that he had twice sent to Duffy to come to Headquarters to talk things over. Justice Gaynor declared: "Nor do I believe that you ever sent for him to come and see you, or would have brought him to you myself if you had asked."

Didn't Know Bingham Sent.

Mrs. Duffy, mother of the young man, declared yesterday that neither she nor her son had ever realized that Commissioner Bingham wished to see him. The Detective Sergeant who came to her house, she said, had refused either to give his name, to say who he was, or who was the Mr. Woods whom he pressed her son to visit in Manhattan.

The Duffys live in a typical Brooklyn two-story house. It stands in a respectable street, and with its small garden in front and cat sleeping on the porch it looks like the neatly kept home of a quiet, well-to-do family. Whether George is the ne'er-do-well Commissioner Bingham has sought to make out could not be judged. He was not produced yesterday to callers. His mother said, however, of the visits of the detective:

"I had no idea who he was. He came and asked me all sorts of questions about my son. I asked him into the parlor and treated him like a gentleman. He would not give me his name or tell who he was. He never mentioned Mr. Bingham's

GULF TROOPS HELD FOR CALL TO CUBA?

None of Regulars in Department Allowed to Leave Stations for Ninety Days.

REASONS NOT DIVULGED

Suggested Also That Order May Be Due to Fear of Trouble from Georgia Railroad Strike.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Gen. Arthur Fridge, Adjutant General of the Mississippi National Guard is authority for the statement that the War Department is holding the troops now stationed in the Department of the Gulf in readiness to be sent to Cuba in the event of an emergency requiring a third intervention there by this Government. The department, according to Gen. Fridge, expects to hold the Gulf troops for such a contingency for the next ninety days.

Gen. Fridge got the information on which he bases this statement from a high army officer at the War Department to-day. He came to Washington to obtain the co-operation of a battalion of regulars with the Mississippi State troops at their annual encampment at Jackson, Miss., in July. He found the War Department quite willing to accede to his request, and then took up the question of what troops should be sent.

He suggested that the battalion come from Fort McPherson, Ga., where the entire Seventeenth Infantry is now stationed, inasmuch as these troops are the nearest to Jackson, and could be sent, ordinarily, with the least difficulty and expense. The department officials replied that it would be impossible to send any of the Seventeenth Infantry now. In response to Gen. Fridge's suggestions, as to other troops from the Department of the Gulf, it presently appeared that none of them were to be moved from their stations for at least ninety days.

Efforts were made last evening to learn whether the War Department was in possession of any information creating apprehension of the possible near necessity of sending more troops to Cuba, were unavailing. It is known that the Administration has had some disturbing information from the island within the last few days, but that information had reference almost entirely to the financial condition of the Cuban Government.

Gen. Garcia Velez, the Cuban Minister here, has issued a statement denying that the finances of his Government were in a bad way, and declaring that the unfavorable reports regarding the situation in Havana had been greatly exaggerated. In view of this, it is supposed that the War Department must have further information not divulged on which the order regarding the troops of the Department of the Gulf is based.

It was suggested late this evening that the War Department's refusal to send troops from the Department of the Gulf to the Mississippi might be due to the desire to have the men immediately available in case of any untoward developments of the strike situation in Georgia. There is no doubt that that situation has been extremely critical. While the question between the railroad and the strikers as to the employment of negroes is in the hands of arbitrators the race feeling aroused remains as a cause of anxiety.

HER FIFTH SINKING.

Hamburg-American Tugboat Keeps on Hunting the Bottom.

For the fifth time in the last nine years the Hamburg-American tugboat Nettie L. Tice sank yesterday while tied to her dock at Pier 2 of the Hamburg-American docks in Hoboken. Capt. James Goodlow was ashore at the time, but the cook and two deckhands, who were asleep in the forecastle, narrowly escaped being carried to the bottom of the North River with the tug.

The tug is used to tow the company's liners out into the stream. She is one of the oldest in the company's service. A leak below the water line is the cause of this and her previous sinking. The work of raising her began at once.

89,286 AT SEATTLE FAIR.

First Day's Attendance Cut Down at Night by Rainstorm.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 2.—The first day's attendance at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition, according to figures given out by the management, was 89,286. The greater part of this was in the day time, more than 79,000 people passing through the turnstiles between the opening hour and 6 P. M. The night attendance was cut down by a severe rain storm.

A military tournament, participated in by soldiers from Forts Lawton and Worden and sailors from the American and Japanese fleets, was begun at the exposition grounds to-day. The soldiers have taken up permanent camp at the grounds, the sailors leave the ships each day. To the programme drawn up weeks ago by army officers have been added wrestling and boxing matches, to be held at night indoors.

PITTSFIELD CAR MEN OUT.

125 Strike After Making a Demand for Increased Pay.

PITTSFIELD, Mass., June 2.—All traffic on the lines of the Pittsfield Street Railway Company was tied up to-day following a strike of the 125 conductors and motormen. Late to-night, although a conference was in progress, the situation was still unadjusted. A demand of the men for an increase of 1 cent an hour and for a ten-hour working day led to the strike, which, according to the company officials, came as a surprise to them in view of the fact that they had arranged to have a conference with the employes later in the week on the question.

During the day the company announced that it had started plans for re-opening all its 30 miles of lines with new and experienced men to-morrow.

MOBS BURN CARS IN PHILADELPHIA

Policeman Shot in Head in Assault on Strike Breakers—100 Persons Injured.

ASSAULTS BEGIN AT DARK

Rapid Transit Co. Abandons Attempt to Run Night Cars—Business Men Demand Settlement.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—Angered by the presence of strikebreakers on the trolley cars, crowds of men and boys in the northeastern section of the city attacked belated cars as they were running on their last trips early to-night, burned five cars, and wrecked fifteen others.

Policeman Levy was shot in the back of the head and is said to be in a dying condition. At least 100 persons were more or less injured.

So swiftly was the work done that in a few minutes every car was turned sidewise across the street, crews were put to flight amid a shower of missiles, while the few policemen who were on the scene were powerless to stop the destruction. It was all over in a few minutes, and when the squad of patrolmen, summoned from all parts of the city, arrived they found jeering crowds gathered about the wrecks.

Trouble was begun at Front and Dauphin Streets at 6 o'clock. While a patrolman was at a near-by box telephoning to the police station that all was quiet in his district, a United States marine came out of a house near the car barn waving an American flag. Then he placed the Stars and Stripes on the track as he saw a car approaching and defied the motorman to run over it.

"Take that off the track," demanded the motorman, who was not in uniform.

"You run over me and your name is mud," retorted the marine.

Shoving on the power, the motorman dashed over the flag, while a howl of rage went up from the crowd that had gathered.

"Kill the scab," yelled some one in the crowd, and at the same instant a boy caught the trolley rope and pulled the pole from the wire.

The motorman sprang from the car and ran down the street, pursued by a crowd, who chased him to the car barn. Once the fugitive turned and threw the controller handle at the crowd, then he dashed on.

While some of the enraged citizens tried to catch the crew a crowd directed attention to the car, which was lifted bodily and turned across the track, then the windows were shivered into a thousand pieces by a fusillade of stones.

In a few moments the streets seemed to swarm with men, for the flag incident occurred as the mills were closing for the day. Then the policeman, who had a few moments before telephoned that all was quiet in his district, turned in a riot call; but there was nothing for the police to do except to clear the streets of the people.

So far as can be learned the striking street car men themselves did not take any part in the rioting. They were kept confined by their leaders in their various meeting places. The imported strike breakers proved to be a disappointment to the company, many of them deserting their cars at the first sign of trouble, and left them standing in the streets at the mercy of the mob. Several of them applied to the strikers to aid them to return to New York, saying that they had been brought here under misrepresentation.

While the most serious rioting occurred in the mill district, in Kensington, cars were attacked in many other parts of the city. In West Philadelphia dynamite caps were placed on the tracks and crowds stoned the strikebreakers when they attempted to bring out cars, forcing them to return to the barn. In the downtown section conductors and motormen were pulled from their cars and their clothes torn from their backs by mobs of strike sympathizers. In some cases the terrified strikebreakers had to be taken to private houses and guarded by the police to save them from harm.

The officials of the company announced to-day that night cars would be run to-night for the first time since the beginning of the strike. When the rioting started after nightfall every car that could be gotten into the barns of the company was taken off the street. Several policemen were injured during the rioting.

Business men clamored for a speedy adjustment of the controversy. They complained that every department of trade was suffering great loss. Manufacturers insisted that they could not continue to lose their employes' services by their refusal to ride on the street cars, and thus arriving late for work.

The rapid transit company issued a statement in which it said, in effect, that there would be no recognition of the union. But Mayor Reyburn remarked, significantly, after he had held a conference with John B. Parsons, P. A. B. Widener, and Senator Wolf, that the company was willing to meet any of its employes, whether union or non-union, as long as Strike Leader Pratt "or other outsiders did not meddle" with the corporation's affairs.

The appearance of Frank Feeney upon the ground created the impression that agencies were at work to effect the restoration of pacific relations. Mr. Feeney, who was former President of the Central Labor Union and is now head of the elevator inspection division, held a long conference with Mr. Pratt, and as soon as this news became known speculation of settlement was rife all over the central part of the city.

Despite Pratt's assertions that he could tie up the elevated within twenty-four hours unless the company consented to take measures looking to a settlement, the management stoutly maintains that the elevated trains will continue to be operated without interruption. Mr. Pratt declared to-day that at the midnight meeting of the elevated road employes Tuesday it was unanimously decided by the men to quit as soon as he gave the word.

The Central Labor Union has decided to take advantage of the political features involved in the strike, and at a meeting of its Conference Committee to-night decided to issue a call upon all its members and sympathizers to celebrate next Saturday, which is primary election day, as white ribbon day. The white ribbon is the emblem chosen by the striking car men. Their sympathizers are asked to wear this emblem on election day and to vote for D. Clarence Gibboney for District Attorney and President Murphy of the union for City Treasurer in opposition to the slated Republican nominees.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—President Taft continues to play a winning game of golf. On the Chevy Chase links to-day he defeated his brother, Charles P. Taft of Cincinnati, who is a guest at the White House. The exact score of the game was not given out.

It was a very warm afternoon, but the President enjoyed himself despite the weather.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—President Taft's portrait by Sorolla, the noted Spanish painter, has been brought to Cincinnati and installed in the famous private art gallery of the President's brother, Charles P. Taft.

FLAGPOLE FOR BATTERY PARK

To be the Tallest in the City, Perhaps in the World.

A new flagpole will soon be erected in Battery Park, which will be the tallest in the city, and probably in the world. The tip will be 168 feet above ground.

The pole is made from the extra mast turned out for the yacht cup racer, Constitution, and originally cost in the neighborhood of $3,000. Park Commissioner Smith said yesterday that he bought it at a bargain, the entire pole with the setting, costing the city less than $600.

The old flagpole in the park was taken down when the Subway was built. It had stood at the Battery for many years. When it was removed a handful of very old pennies was found under its base.

ELIOT MAY TAKE OFFICE.

Boston Hears That He Will Be Chairman of New Education Board.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 2.—The consolidation of the State Board of Education and the Board of Technical Education has been accomplished, Gov. Draper having signed the bill authorizing it.

It was expected that the Governor would to-day name the nine members of the new board, but he did not do so. Rumor has it that ex-President Eliot of Harvard will be appointed Chairman.

BURGLARS OVERLOOK $50,000.

Blow Open Kentucky Post Office Safes, but Residents Scare Them Off.

NEWPORT, Ky., June 2.—Burglars, with nitroglycerine, blew open two safes in the Post Office early this morning. Residents in the vicinity poked their heads out of windows, but went back to bed again, thinking the noise was made by blasting. The burglars, however, saw the heads from many windows and fled.

This morning Post Office clerks found behind a thin inside steel partition in one of the safes $50,000 in cash which had not been disturbed.

FALSE HAIR FORBIDDEN.

St. Louis Girl Graduates Cannot Wear Purchased Curls and Puffs.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, Mo., June 2.—Members of the senior class of Hosmer Hall, a fashionable girls' school, are greatly grieved over an announcement by Miss Louise McNair, the principal, that any young woman who appears with false curls at the commencement exercises will not receive her diploma. Many members of the class had purchased curls and puffs for the event.

Miss McNair was aroused against false hair at the commencement exercises of another school for girls. Her horror at the deception, which was genuine, was aggravated by imperfect matching of the false and the true on some heads of the graduates.

HELP! A DRESSMAKER, QUICK!

Butte City Has Lost Its Only One and the Town Is in Despair.

City Clerk Scully received a letter yesterday from a woman signing herself Mrs. M. Smith of 289 Colorado Street, Butte City, Mon., begging him to procure a dressmaker for the town. Mrs. Smith informs Mr. Scully that the only dressmaker of which the community boasted has departed for Europe, and that all efforts to obtain another competent gown architect have failed. She further says that the climate is all that could be desired, and assures him that it is the "right opportunity for the right party."

Mr. Scully has grown so accustomed to requests of this nature that he is surprise-proof. He says he will see what he can do for the women of Butte City. Mrs. Smith inclosed a stamp.

ENGLAND MAY KEEP HOLBEIN.

Said Rich Briton Has Come to Rescue of National Gallery.

LONDON, June 2.—According to an evening newspaper, the money necessary to secure Holbein's portrait of Christina of Denmark, Duchess of Milan, for the nation, has been provided by a wealthy West Country art lover. Apart from the Government's contribution of $50,000, the public subscriptions have amounted to only $90,000. Consequently the philanthropist who has come to the rescue has had to provide $210,000 to make up the price of $350,000.

The famous Holbein portrait of Christina of Denmark had been loaned by the Duke of Norfolk to the National Gallery for twenty-eight years. It was recently sold by the Duke for $305,000 to an art dealer, but with the understanding that the nation might purchase it within a month for $350,000. The National Gallery has no resources, and an appeal was made to the public to prevent the picture leaving the country. It is supposed to have been bought by the art dealer for an American client.

Six Months for Smoking in a Car.

Charles Harvey, a Brooklyn man, paid dearly in the Manhattan Avenue Court, that borough, yesterday for the enjoyment of a smoke in an elevated railroad car. When the conductor of the train told Harvey to stop smoking, Harvey kept on and became abusive, so the conductor had him arrested. Several passengers testified against Harvey, and Magistrate O'Reilly sent him to jail for six months.

AIRSHIP PATROL FOR OUR COAST

Signal Corps Directed to Prepare Plans for Guarding All the Atlantic Seaboard.

RESULT OF ZEPPELIN'S WORK

Dirigibles Every 250 Miles, Auxiliary Fleets of Aeroplanes, and Air Currents Duly Charted.

MERE 20TH CENTURY FACT

To be Woven of the Recent Materials of Fable, if a Prosy Congress Can Be Stirred to It.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The creation of a big fleet of war balloons, with depots at strategic points along the coasts of the United States in which the aerial craft may be housed between flights, is the task set for Major George O. Squier of the Signal Corps. Major Squier received instructions to-day to prepare plans for the aerial defense of the Atlantic Coast, and he set to work enthusiastically. The plans, when completed and approved, will serve as a model for the Pacific and Gulf Coasts.

The War Department is convinced, in the light of the achievement of the Zeppelin balloon, that the era of aerial navigation has arrived. It hopes that Congress also will awake to a realization of the fact, and that appropriations will be made sufficient to permit this Government to keep pace with the European nations. It is in anticipation of favorable action by Congress that the Signal Corps has been instructed to prepare the plans.

While Major Squier has not yet gone into the technicalities of the matter, he has a general idea of the manner in which the plan will be worked out. The coast will be separated into ellipses approximating 250 miles in length, and at each end of these will be built two or three balloon houses and supply depots. The houses will be placed with a view to close co-operation with the artillery depots or zones, thus gaining protection and being quickly reached whenever the men behind the big guns discover the necessity of reconnoitering the enemy's position by the use of a balloon.

Plans for Patrol Station.

The balloon houses will be built in groups so that when it is found expedient to concentrate two or three airships at a given point there will be accommodations for them. A dirigible is safe while in the air, and, even if its engine should become disabled, can be operated as a free balloon. It is in landing or when at anchor in an exposed position that it is in danger from winds, and houses are an absolutely necessity.

It is intended that a coast dirigible shall not pass off its own station, except in cases of extremity, and that the sailing distance shall be 125 miles south and 125 miles north from its depot. In this manner the entire coast, from Maine to Florida, will be patrolled in war, and it will be practically impossible for a hostile fleet to approach the United States without being discovered long before the sentinels on land could see the vessels. Once discovered, the fleet's movements could be watched with safety and its manoeuvres be sent the length of the coast.

The plans will include an elaborate system of vertical searchlights, by which the airships will be guided during night flights. These will mark the various batteries and the balloon depots, and they also will be used in signaling the swift-flying ships overhead.

The dirigibles that Congress will be asked to provide will be the equals of the best war balloons now in use in Europe. The envelopes will be not less than 200 feet long, twice the length of the United States Dirigible No. 1, recently purchased by the War Department from Capt. Baldwin. Dirigible No. 1, Major Squier explained, is merely a practice ship, and bears small resemblance to the finished fliers that are contemplated in the coast defense plan.

Aeroplanes as Auxiliaries.

In order to support the dirigibles and act as couriers between the various depots and artillery stations, it is not that the plan will call for a small, mobile fleet of aeroplanes. This phase of the proposed measures has not yet been taken up, although officers of the Signal Corps believe that the aeroplane could be used to advantage when quick flights were necessary for the carrying of orders or the transportation of officers. It would be used practically altogether as an auxiliary, and its use would relieve the dirigible of certain duties, permitting the balloon to give its entire time to patrol work.

If Congress can be prevailed upon to look with favor on the Signal Corps's proposal, steps will be taken to chart the air currents along the coast. In common with the British Army authorities, a number of officials of the War Department believe that the air currents are as sharply defined as the currents of the ocean. While they are not so stable, it is held that their general trend can be determined. Equipped with a knowledge of the velocity and direction of the wind at varying heights, the Captain of a war balloon might operate his craft with the same degree of certainty that the Captain of a liner sails the sea.

There are so many expensive details such as these that the cost will be extremely heavy in creating such an aerial fleet. It will be necessary to train a small army in the use of the war balloons, and to maintain plants for the manufacture of hydrogen gas at nearly every depot. In spite of this the Signal Corps officers insist that the investment would prove a paying one in case of war.

ZEPPELIN ON HIS VOYAGE.

Object, He Says, Was Longest Possible Flight and Not to Reach Berlin.

Special Cable to THE NEW YORK TIMES.

STUTTGART, June 2.—I am enabled to quote Count Zeppelin's view on his epochmaking journey by dirigible balloon from Friedrichshafen to Bitterfeld and return.

"The entire object of the trip," said the Count, "was the accomplishment of the longest possible voyage. The question of reaching Berlin or not had nothing to do with our programme. I had not the slightest knowledge of the telegram to the Berlin Airship Battalion, but I assume it emanated from somebody who wanted to do me a favor.

"As we were crossing Thuringia on our way home Sunday night the airship found itself in the midst of a violent rainstorm. I no longer knew where we were, and it was utterly impossible to make any sort of reconnoissance. If the bow of a steamship is smashed or removed the vessel cannot proceed. My airship, however, as I have now shown, is able to keep on traveling."

The Count hopes now to finish in a fortnight the repairs necessitated by his accident at Goeppingen.

FRIEDRICHSHAFEN, June 2.—The Zeppelin airship, after having made its way by easy stages from Goeppingen, arrived here at 6 o'clock this morning and descended successfully to the floating shed on the Lake of Constance. The damages sustained at the end of the prolonged flight of Sunday and Monday will be repaired here.

BERLIN, June 2.—The Emperor has sent the following telegram to Count Zeppelin: "Congratulations on your remarkable return trip to Friedrichshafen with the provisionally repaired airship, which proves the capacity of the rigid system. As I shall be absent from Berlin six weeks from now, I suggest that the Berlin trip be undertaken August 26."

Yesterday in a dispatch to His Majesty Count Zeppelin said that in six weeks he hoped to be able to report to the Emperor at Berlin with his airship.

NO AGREEMENT ON B. & O.

General Strike of Mechanics Expected —More Men Go Out.

BALTIMORE, June 2.—No agreement was reached at a conference to-day between Vice President Potter of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad and a delegation of international officers representing the machinists, blacksmiths, and boilermakers' association of the system over matters affecting these trades. It is believed that a general strike is inevitable.

After the conference President J. W. Kline of the Blacksmiths' Union issued a statement, which was approved by President J. W. O'Connell of the machinists and Vice President Thomas Nolan of the boilermakers. It said:

We disclaim any responsibility for a strike, if such occurs. The determination of the officials of the company to install piece work in any shop or at any time has placed the three organizations on the defensive. We well know the hardship it will bring about to the families of the men, but to accept this obnoxious system would be dishonorable and contrary to our constitutions, which the company well knows.

We also claim that there has been a determined effort on the part of the company to exterminate unionism in all the mechanical departments. We have made every effort to settle the difficulty amicably, and every effort has bee nignored by the subordinate official in charge until we have reached the top and we must now throw the responsibility from our own shoulders to those of the company.

The company, it is said, maintained its right to extend the piece system whenever and wherever it saw fit, and declined to reinstate the Mount Clare strikers, except as they were needed. Mr. Potter it was said, offered to meet the delegation again on June 14, but no reply was made to this proposal.

CUMBERLAND, Md., June 2.—About sixty machinists and helpers employed in the shops of the Baltimore & Ohio Railroad were added to the strikers on that road late this afternoon. The night force also went out and the shops are reported idle to-night.

name, so I don't see how my son can be accused of disrespect to him.

"All he would say was that 'Mr. Woods' wanted to see George in New York. I didn't know who 'Mr. Woods' was, and he didn't tell me. He wouldn't say what 'Mr. Woods' wanted to see my son about. He said he would call for him next day. My son at first said that he would go to New York with his father and with no one else. Then, next day, when they had talked it over, my son decided he wouldn't go. He didn't know it was Mr. Bingham who wanted him, and he meant no disrespect in not going. This is a terrible thing, but it would be much worse if I didn't know my son does not in any way deserve it."

"The whole thing began when people started talking about my boy after his arrest. The repeated reports which reached us about what people were saying, and the annoyance of his arrest, prompted my husband to go to Justice Gaynor about the matter. On his advice we got a lawyer. The whole affair is now in his hands and those of Justice Gaynor.

"All the charges made by the police against George have been trumped up and are absolutely false. He has not made a practice of associating with bad boys. We have an idea who are behind the charges, and Justice Gaynor assures us that these persons will be properly punished and that libel charges will be brought against them.

"The boy may have met other boys of bad character in school and elsewhere, but that does not say that he is constantly associating with bad characters nor that he is a bad boy himself."

Commissioner Bingham, in his letter, said that his last word from Duffy was "that his family will not let him come, and has consulted an eminent lawyer, who advised against this." Mrs. Duffy declared yesterday that she could not say who this "eminent lawyer" was.

As to Duffy's Associates.

In Duffy's record, sent by Commissioner Bingham to Justice Gaynor, the accusation was made that Duffy was the associate of Alfred Collier, who is now appealing against a sentence of twenty years for assaulting and robbing Charles O'Neil. The Commissioner added: "Information has come to me that during the trial of Alfred Collier George B. Duffy stood up in court and had himself identified as a witness for the defense, and as one upon whom the complainant against Collier had committed several attacks."

Collier's counsel at the trial was James W. Ridgway. Last night he said he knew nothing that would show that Duffy was an associate of his client. Said Mr. Ridgway:

"In the course of the trial we endeavored to attack the credibility of the complainant by showing that he was often in Institute Park. We intended to call several witnesses to prove that he was often there. Duffy was in court, and was asked to stand up because he could swear to having seen O'Neil in the park on several occasions.

"As a matter of fact, we did not put him on the stand, and I have no information that he was a 'pal' of Collier. There was no accusation of immorality on the part of these young men."

Not Awed, Bingham Says.

Commissioner Bingham was asked yesterday if he had anything further to say about the case. He reiterated that the police comply precisely with the law, which requires that since Sept. 1, 1907, photographs of persons arrested should be removed from the police records if they are acquitted. He went on to criticise the opinions cited by Justice Gaynor and said:

"In the opinion handed down by Judge Burr, to which Justice Gaynor refers, the question at issue has nothing whatever to do with the photographing of persons under arrest. It is an obiter dictum. Orders for the removal of pictures from police records are now given from time to time in cases which do not fall under the above mentioned law, but only after careful investigation of each case.

"When the Justice wrote to me about Duffy I at once began an investigation. At the time I fully expected that it would result in an order removing the photograph, since it was Justice Gaynor who made the request. To my astonishment the police report, which has been printed, was such that, as a public officer, I felt I should be derelict in my duty if I ordered the photograph removed.

"In spite of this, however, my confidence in Justice Gaynor's legal judgment and public spirit made me willing to accept his opinion after he was in possession of all the police facts. I promised to grant his request for the removal of the photograph, if he would make such a request.

"In his letter he refused to shoulder the responsibility. To leave no stone unturned, I twice asked Duffy to come and see me, but he refused, on the advice of 'an eminent lawyer.' The Justice's written statement that he did not believe I had ever sent for Duffy is simply beneath contempt. He is hurt because I am not awed by a request from him affecting my public duty, and he is angry because he cannot bulldoze me."

Why Have Magistrates?

"Why was Duffy never sent to jail, although he was often arrested?" Commissioner Bingham was asked.

"Ask the Magistrates," was his reply. "If they would act with the police and not against them at times, police work would be ever so much easier."

Commissioner Bingham knew no reason why Justice Gaynor should take so much interest in Duffy. He said when asked if he had seen the Mayor in the matter:

"I have not, but you can say that I am going to serve the remaining 216 days of my term."

Justice Gaynor also had something more to say yesterday. He declared that there was nothing to add, as the matter was one of record and it was clear that Duffy was so far innocent of any crime which would qualify him for the Rogues' Gallery that he had never been convicted of crime or sentenced in a police court.

"This boy's case," he went on, "is only that of thousands and thousands. The despotism and lawlessness of the Police Commissioner is shocking to every American who knows what free government means, and what it cost in property and blood for our ancestors to acquire it.

No One Above the Law.

"Russian methods will not be further tolerated here. They have been so long practiced that we are losing all sense of free men and becoming debased.

"Mayors and Police Commissioners are no more above the law than any one else. The law carefully prescribes and sets limits to the powers of police officers, and the first thing of all is for them to obey the law and keep within its limits. Officers under a free government cannot do as they please. This is a Government of laws and not of men, and an officer who sets himself above the laws is more dangerous to the perpetuity of our institutions and to the public order and happiness than the worst criminal.

"Suppose all officers, from President down, should kick aside the restraints put upon them by law and do as they please! Do you not see that that is despotism? Ours is a Government of carefully limited powers, no matter who is the officer. The contrary is despotism. It is a sad thing to see a great, intelligent city under the rulership of persons who think they have us all by the back of the neck."

Senator McCarren had this to say yesterday with regard to the photographing of prisoners before their conviction:

"It is a very unjustifiable practice. When the bill regulating the photographing of prisoners was up in the Senate, I talked myself hoarse against this outrage."

"Battery Dan" Adds a Few Words.

City Magistrate Finn passed a few compliments on Commissioner Bingham and his methods in the Essex Market Court yesterday. He discharged Cherubino Palermo, found sleeping on the roof of a tenement house who was accused of having entered the house to commit a larceny. The Magistrate complained that there was no evidence against the prisoner, and added:

"I have had five alleged burglars and highway robbers before me in the last few days, with no evidence against them. I'm glad to see a Supreme Court Justice come out bravely for the protection of the people from police lawlessness. If you see a Captain or Deputy Commissioner violating the law, arrest him, but it is not your duty to arrest on suspicion."

MIKADO HIS FRIEND, TAFT SAYS TO URIU

President at Dinner to Japanese Admiral Also Pokes Fun at Senate's Delay.

VISITOR SEES OLD CHUMS

Many Members of His Class at Annapolis Present—He Again Pays a Visit to Naval Academy.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Surrounded by the highest officials of the Government, by prominent officers of the navy, and more than thirty of the ninety-two of his classmates of the class of '81 of the United States Naval Academy, Vice Admiral Baron Sotokichi Uriu was the guest of honor at a dinner of sixty covers at the Metropolitan Club to-night. The visitors came from many parts of the United States, one being from California.

President Taft was unable to reach the banquet room earlier than 10 o'clock, but came in time to respond to the toast "The President."

President Taft expressed his great pleasure at being present, and said he had come to testify by his presence to the very warm personal friendship that he felt for the Emperor and the people of Japan. He spoke of his several visits to Japan and the hospitality that had been extended to him. He also congratulated Admiral Uriu on the high place he had achieved.

In lighter vein he said the coming of such a man filled a void in Washington at present.

"There is no place of interest now except the Senate Chamber," he said amid laughter, "and we are anxious to make other places interesting. The heat to-night is something we ought not to pass over without comment. If it continues it may serve its uses, and I hope that if Admiral Uriu is exposed and feels somewhat inconvenienced by it he should know it to be a necessary element with us in working out constitutional government. [Laughter and applause.]

"And now, my dear friends, I wish to propose a toast from my heart, because it is to a gracious gentleman to whose kindly and munificent hospitality on three or four occasions I have owed much and to whose ability, to whose patriotism, and to whose greatness as a monarch in developing Japan, which he has brought before the world as one of its great empires, all will pay tribute. I propose a toast to his Imperial Majesty the Emperor of Japan. Banzai."

Ovington N. Weller of Baltimore, President of the class of '81, presided, while Representative J. W. Weeks of Massachusetts was toastmaster. Those responding to toasts in addition to the President included the Japanese Ambassador, who spoke to "The Mikado"; Admiral Uriu, Secretary of the Navy Meyer, and Speaker Cannon.

ANNAPOLIS, Md., June 2.—Vice Admiral Uriu of the Japanese Navy was again the guest of honor to-day at the dedication to the Class of '68 of the bronze doors given to the United States Naval Academy for the new chapel by Col. Robert Means Thompson of New York. Baron Takahira, the Japanese Ambassador, and Baroness Takahira accompanied Baron and Baroness Uriu from Washington. There were present also a large number of distinguished visitors from New York and Washington, many coming on special trains.

The bronze doors were designed by Miss Evelyn Beatrice Longman, who was present to-day. The donor, Col. Thompson, in presenting the doors to the Academy, paid a tribute to the members of the class of '68.

AERONAUT IN THE RIVER.

He Had Just Dropped a Message on Warship and Circled Grant's Tomb.

Frank B. Goodale, the young aeronaut who is making daily flights in a dirigible balloon at the Palisades Amusement Park across the Hudson from Grant's Tomb, has been talking of making a trip across the river and sailing around the tomb ever since he arrived here from Toledo, a week ago. Yesterday morning at 7 o'clock he found the air calm and made the attempt with success.

The cruiser New York was in midstream, and young Goodale in his airship circled around her two or three times, dropping a message of greeting aboard. Goodale is a former apprentice seaman in the navy.

After the flight over the warship he circled around the tomb once. Then something happened and the airship came down with a swoop that threatened to wreck it. Men caught the rope and hauled the airship down so abruptly that one of the propeller blades was damaged and a rent a foot long was made in the gas bag by contact with a tree. Young Goodale hurried to make repairs, and presently started back across the river.

In the fog he landed in midstream in the Hudson about a mile north of the amusement park. His manager saw the balloon floating on the water and rowboats were sent out to the rescue.

There was no flight at the park last evening, as the rip in the balloon had to be sewed up, and it required several hours to inflate the balloon and finish the repairs.

POLICE CLUBBER LECTURED.

Magistrate Gives an Oak Street Patrolman a Severe Reprimand.

Policeman Finger of the Oak Street Station was severely reprimanded in the Night Court last night by Magistrate Cornell. After discharging a truckman who had been arraigned before him on a charge of disorderly conduct, the Magistrate turned to Finger and said:

"Don't you ever dare to bring another case like this before me." The Magistrate advised the truckman, Frederick Monahan of 221 Williams Street to go to Police Commissioner Bingham and tell his story of the clubbing and arrest, and Monahan said he would do so to-day.

When Monahan was arraigned, Policeman Finger testified that he had arrested the truckman near 9 Vandewater Street while he was using profane and abusive language to him. Monahan was intoxicated, he said.

"It's not true Your Honor," said the truckman. Then he told the Court how he was fitting a tire to a wagon in the rear of 9 Vandewater Street, his employer's place of business, when Finger attacked him with his club and arrested him.

"My employer is here to bear out my statements," said Monahan in conclusion, after declaring that he had not taken a drink since Jan. 2.

Charles H. Woodruff of 9 Vandewater Street then took the stand and testified that Monahan was a boss truckman in his employ. He was not intoxicated at the time of the arrest, he said.

Sheriff in Auto Catches a Stabber.

GARDEN CITY, L. I., June 2.—After stabbing Alfred Davis, a foreman at the Garden City Estates, twice under the heart and nearly cutting his thumb off this morning, Leo Vieto, laborer, ran for about six miles before he was overhauled by Sheriff Joseph Foster in his big racing automobile. He was caught near Floral Park and was taken to the Mineola Jail.

Rock Island Cuts Time Schedule.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Announcement was made to-day by officials of the Rock Island Railroad of a cut in time schedule between Chicago and Denver by the addition of a new one-night train, which will be known as "The Mountaineer." The train, beginning June 6, will leave Chicago daily at 1:25 P. M., and will arrive in Denver at 5:55 P. M. the following day.

SHIP AFIRE AT PIER; MEN CAUGHT IN HOLD

Freighter Marina Ablaze in Hoboken—Three Firemen Overcome Below Rescued by Comrades.

FOUGHT ACID FUMES, TOO

Waterfront Threatened by the Flames Saved by the High Tide—$18,000 Loss to Cargo.

"Fire in Hold 5" was the cry that was passed from man to man aboard the Phoenix Line freighter Marina, lying at the company's pier at Seventh Street, Hoboken, N. J., yesterday, until it reached Chief Officer Brown below in his cabin. The deck watch had seen smoke curling from the open hatch and had started the cry.

Brown called Capt. David Taylor and sounded the ship's fire alarm. When the crew were at quarters Brown directed the fight against the flames, getting several streams of water playing into the hold, and then sent a man ashore to ring in a general fire alarm.

By the time the Hoboken firemen reached the pier the flames had spread into Holds 4 and 3 where a cargo of rags in bales, chicory, glue, and willow basket ware were burning fiercely. Flames leaped high into the air from the three hatches and but for the fact that it was high tide the Phoenix pier, which is of wood, must undoubtedly have caught fire. As it was the deck of the Marina was on a level with the top of the pier so that the flames sprang over it instead of directly against it. There was not much breeze and the smoke hung in dense clouds directly above the vessel, making the work of the firemen doubly hazardous.

Chief Dunn with Lieut. Arthur McMahon and Ladderman Charles Grube of Truck 1 were overcome by smoke after they had entered the hold and were rescued by other firemen. They were resuscitated on deck and returned to the work of fighting the fire. In this the firemen were assisted by the Fireboat Thomas Willett, whose Captain, John M. Pratt, got three lines of hose playing into the holds of the Marina.

The water from these lines, together with that from the several engines on the pier and the ship's private fire department, finally got the blaze under control. There was considerable excitement for a time, however, when a line of hose burst and the escaping water, falling on ten carboys of acetic acid on the pier, caused the corks to fly out and permitted the suffocating fumes to escape.

It was estimated that the damage done to the Marina would amount to $18,000. Chief Dunn said that the damage might have been greater if it had not been high tide. The Phoenix pier is a wooden structure, and the Marina was lying at the south side of it, between it and the Holland-America Line pier. Behind the Phoenix pier are the Campbell stores, and at low tide, when the flames would have struck directly against the pier, it appeared certain that there would have been a serious fire, which might have extended to the Holland-America pier.

The Marina plies between Hoboken and Antwerp, and reached Hoboken on Sunday heavily laden. On her decks she had 128 horses and 170 crates of pigeons. But these had been removed before the fire.

STEVENS'S WORK FOR HILL.

Will Inspect the Great Northern's Water Power in the West.

ST. PAUL, June 2.—President L. W. Hill of the Great Northern Railway today announced that John F. Stevens, who resigned as First Vice President of the New York, New Haven & Hartford Railroad, would join the Great Northern for a brief time.

"Mr. Stevens has been engaged by the Great Northern Railway Company," said Mr. Hill, "to inspect and report on the road's water power in Montana and Washington, and look into other engineering questions now up for consideration. He was engaged because he is the best man in the country to do the work, and because, as he was leaving the New Haven road, he was at liberty at the right time. The work he has ahead of him will require about six weeks. He will not bring his family West and will not open offices in St. Paul."

Kilroy beat a retreat to the hall, where Lawyer Levy had already preceded them, and conferred as to a course of action. It was well after 4 o'clock when they returned to the room and suggested an adjournment of two weeks, as the list of stockholders had not yet arrived from the trust company, and the meeting still lacked the missing by-laws, but Mr. Rice had a poser ready for them.

"How can the meeting adjourn, when it has not yet come to order?" he asked.

In the course of ten minutes more the present stock books and list of stockholders arrived in charge of a guard from the Hudson Trust Company. Mr. English thereupon called the meeting to order and Mr. Kilroy nominated Mr. Levy for Chairman. Instantly Henry Movius, a German stockholder who had come to the meeting full of righteous indignation, assumed command of the objecting contingent, which he never relaxed until the meeting was over. He demanded first if Levy was a stockholder. Levy said he did not know. Then some body nominated Mr. Sleicher.

"Are you a stockholder?" demanded Movius.

"Yes," said Mr. Sleicher sharply.

"He knows," came from somebody in the crowd.

Three or four other stockholders objected to Levy's name going in and he therefore remarked:

"If there is a question about my holding stock and as I am not in a position to say whether I am a stockholder or not, I am willing to withdraw."

Nominations had already been closed and a motion was made that they be reopened. There were a few "eyes" and a thundering chorus of "noes," all the newspaper men voting in the negative.

Movius was on his feet once more.

"There is not nothing here to say who a stockholder is and who is a stockholder not. The ayes and noes have been given verbatim—"

Even Movius could not make himself heard above the tumult which followed this. Mr. Rice asked if a secretary was present to announce the extent of the stock represented. Mr. Saacke, who in the meantime had been chosen Chairman, said that unfortunately there was none, but Mr. Kilroy declared that he had proxies for 240,000 shares, and others announced holdings of about a thousand shares more.

Movius objected that this 241,000 shares was not a majority of the entire stock of the company, which consists of 450,000 shares of common and 50,000 shares of preferred, but Mr. Kilroy and the Chair had things going their way by this time, and Saacke declared that a majority of the stock was present. Movius was on his feet again.

"I protest that there should not be further proceedings," he shouted, "for no quorum there is present."

"Sit down," yelled the Chair, but Movius would not sit down.

"I protest, signed Henry Movius," yelled Movius. Then the meeting took another adjournment until order had been restored.

Then Mr. Kilroy moved the election of the Heinze Directors already named. The list as first read, included the name of William P. Reilly of Montreal, but Mr. Movius was up again, protesting this time on the ground that no one of the board proposed was a resident of New Jersey, whereupon it was announced that it had been discovered that Reilly was not a stockholder, although a nominee for Director, and accordingly the name of Abraham V. Wyckoff was substituted.

This was about the end of the excitement. Mr. Kilroy voted his 240,000 shares of stock, the minority voted their 1,000 shares, and when the polls had been allowed to stay open for an hour and the tellers had announced the vote, the meeting adjourned in time to catch a 7 o'clock boat for Manhattan.

Before Judge Lacombe yesterday morning Joseph Cotton, Jr., counsel for Lawyer Robinson, asked for an adjournment until 1:30 o'clock to-morrow of the contempt proceedings against his client. Judge Lacombe said he would grant the adjournment because he hesitated to believe that a member of the bar would persist in maintaining the position in which Mr. Robinson had placed himself. Mr. Wise then read the proceedings before the Grand Jury leading up to the Robinson contempt case. In his examination at this time Robinson had said, first, that he could not find the books, and then that he did not know where to look for them. He had refused to answer questions about the conversation with A. P. Heinze, of which Baglin testified, claiming professional privilege, and declared that the decision of the courts in the contempt case growing out of the refusal of Paul E. Cravath to testify to a conversation with Thomas F. Ryan before the Traction Grand Jury applied to his case. Finally Mr. Wise had made Robinson admit that he, Robinson, had made no effort to find the books.

It appeared from Baglin's testimony as read before Judge Lacombe yesterday that the information about Baglin's overhearing a conversation between Robinson and F. A. Heinze had come almost gratuitously to the Grand Jury. Baglin declared that he went to Heinze's lawyers after he had been served with a subpoena to produce the books, and had signed an affidavit which they had prepared.

"I heard some talk," he said, "that they were going to be removed."

"From whom?" asked Mr. Wise.

"I think it was Sanford Robinson," said Baglin.

Baglin placed the conversation on May 19, and said, as he remembered it, that Robinson was talking to Arthur P. Heinze and that the conversation was about the removal of books. They asked Baglin to leave the room, and he did so. Mr. Baglin said that a man named C. O. Gear, a clerk in the office of Arthur P. Heinze, took out two trunks from the United Copper Company's offices late on the afternoon of May 19. Baglin assumed the books were in these trunks, although he said he did not know.

Mr. Wise also read testimony given by Robinson when he was taken before the Grand Jury on Tuesday for the second time. He was examined at that time particularly as to the grounds on which he based his refusal to answer questions, and gave three different explanations. One was that he was acting as counsel for F. A. Heinze; the second, that he was acting as counsel for A. P. Heinze; the third, that both he and A. P. Heinze were acting as counsel for the United Copper Company.

Mr. Wise asked if Mr. Robinson, as a Director of the United Copper Company, had ever seen any authorization of the retainer of A. P. Heinze as counsel, or of any fee paid to him as counsel, or account rendered by him for legal services. Robinson said he had not.

Word came from Albany yesterday that A. P. Heinze has not been registered with the Court of Appeals as a practicing lawyer since 1891, and therefore, under a law passed in 1898, is not eligible to practice law in this State.

When taken from the Tombs Baglin was brought over to the Federal Building and allowed to go.

Max F. Schultz, one of the partners of Otto Heinze & Co., obtained an order yesterday from Judge Hough directing that the books and papers of the firm now in the possession of the District Attorney be held open to the inspection of representatives of the bankrupt brokerage firm whenever not actually needed by Mr. Wise.

WANTS $15,000 FROM HEINZE.

Rothenberger Says It Is Due on Ohio Copper Transactions.

The examination of Moritz Rothenberger, head of the failed Curb brokerage firm of M. Rothenberger & Co., was begun yesterday afternoon before United States Commissioner Alexander in the Federal Building. He was examined by Martin C. Ansorge of Hays, Hirshfield & Wolf, counsel for Peter Alexander, the receiver.

The examination was for the purpose of disclosing the actual relations between the Rothenberger company and F. Augustus Heinze and David Lamar. In the bankruptcy petition Rothenberger said that Heinze owed him about $15,000, due on account of transactions in the purchase of Ohio Copper for Heinze. The latter, on the other hand, alleged that Rothenberger & Co. owe him $20,000. David Lamar was associated with Heinze in the Ohio Copper transaction, and he was named as owing the firm money.

David Lamar was present at the hearing. Heinze has also been subpoenaed to attend, but was excused from appearing yesterday. He will be present later on, it was said.

Moritz Rothenberger was asked at the outset what his relations were with Lamar and Heinze. He said that for some time David Lamar, who represented that he was acting for F. Augustus Heinze, had been purchasing small blocks of Ohio Copper. Mr. Rothenberger said that he had generally delivered the stock at Heinze's office, at 74 Broadway. At one time, he said, he had delivered 2,800 shares of Ohio Copper at Heinze's office.

The first time that he got an order which he considered as coming direct from Mr. Heinze was on Feb. 18 last, when Lamar told him Heinze wanted 8,800 shares of Ohio Copper purchased for his account. The 8,800-share order was executed, and on Feb. 23 Rothenberger said he met Heinze at his Broadway office and was introduced to him by Lamar as the broker who was executing the copper orders.

"I believe Lamar was the manager of a pool and acting for their joint account," said the witness.

Rothenberger said that he had turned over to Receiver Alexander all his possessions, stock, and cash, and he identified the various papers that were shown him.

"When you gave the 8,800 shares to Heinze did you get a receipt?"

"Yes, from Mr. Baglin."

"What other transactions after Feb. 23 did you have in Ohio Copper?"

"I received orders day after day through other houses. There was a decline in the stock on March 19, and that afternoon Mr. Heinze called me up and said there was trouble over the Ohio Copper, and apparently Mr. Lamar had overstepped his authority. On that day we received a great deal of stock which was not taken off our hands."

"What happened on April 23?"

"I told Mr. Heinze that a Boston firm had gone under and we needed the money."

"What reply did Mr. Heinze make to that?"

"He said that we owed him money, as we had turned over 4,400 shares of stock to Lamar."

"What was Mr. Sackey doing at your office on March 19?"

"He looked over our books as Mr. Heinze's representative. He looked over our purchase and sales books and also the blotter to see how the stock was coming in."

"The orders you were taking up were on orders from Lamar?"

"They were."

"How many shares did Mr. Heinze take up?"

"Seven thousand three hundred shares of Ohio Copper and paid us $48,262. Of these shares 2,000 were for a Salt Lake firm. Those are the 2,000 shares for which I claim Mr. Heinze owes me."

David Lamar, who said he was a stock speculator, the next witness, said that F. Augustus Heinze had directed him to make purchases and sales in Ohio Copper stock.

With this evidence the hearing was adjourned to Tuesday, June 8, at 11 A. M., when F. Augustus Heinze will be called as a witness. At that time David Lamar will be further examined.

Sugar Trust Lent Him $1,250,000, Then Shut Down His Plant, Lawyer Testifies

The feature of yesterday's testimony in the $30,000,000 suit brought by the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company against the American Sugar Refining Company under the Sherman law, was the testimony of John Sparhawk, Jr., a Philadelphia lawyer. He testified of a conversation in the office of Samuel Untermyer between Mr. Untermyer and John E. Parsons, counsel for and a Director of the American Sugar Refining Company, in which Mr. Untermyer used some plain language about the transaction which forms the basis of the present suit.

That transaction was a loan of $1,250,000 by Adolph Kissel, a New York broker, to the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, on behalf of the American Sugar Refining Company. The conditions accompanying the loan gave the American Sugar Refining Company the right to name the Directors of the Pennsylvania Company, and when the dummies of the Sugar Trust had been put in office they proceeded to shut down the Pennsylvania plant until the loan was paid. Adolph Segal was the borrower. He was also the controlling interest in the Pennsylvania Company.

"Parsons," said Mr. Untermyer in the conversation to which Sparhawk referred, "you are preventing Segal from repaying this loan by stopping his efforts to refine sugar at the plant of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company and thereby wrecking the plant, and you are acting for the American Sugar Refining Company in so doing."

"There is no secret about whom I represent," Mr. Parsons is said to have replied.

There was also talk, Mr. Sparhawk said, about a threat of the Trust to sell the refinery, but Mr. Untermyer had told Mr. Parsons that he would enjoin any such undertaking, and the matter was dropped.

Mr. Untermyer, it is expected, will go on the stand and corroborate the Sparhawk testimony. He represents boardholders of the American Sugar Refining Company.

The other witness yesterday was George H. Earle, Jr., receiver of the Pennsylvania Sugar Refining Company, who was also receiver of the Real Estate Trust Company, which went down in the wreck of Segal's fortunes and has since been reorganized with Mr. Earle as President.

Girl Jewel Thief Escapes Prison.

Judge Foster in General Sessions suspended sentence yesterday on Annie Smith, an eighteen-year-old servant girl, who pleaded guilty to stealing a pearl necklace and some clothing from her employer, Mrs. Hannah Groh of 43 West Forty-sixth Street. Mrs. Groh told the court that the girl disappeared with the property after only one day of service. A number of persons pleaded for the girl, among them the pastor of St. Cecilia's Church, in Brooklyn, who told Judge Foster that the girl was about to be married, and that her arrest was a sufficient lesson to her.

WOMEN SCRAMBLE FOR SMUGGLED GOWNS

But Dealers Get Most of the Finery Auctioned Off at the Custom House.

TANGLE IN NOMENCLATURE

Auctioneer at Last Confesses He's an Amateur in the Matter of Feminine Raiment.

The first of the series of public sales to dispose of the $52,000 worth of dresses and other articles of women's wear which were seized as a result of the uncovering of a plot of wholesale smuggling through this port took place yesterday at the Custom House.

The sale was voted a success financially, but the arrangements were not commendable in the opinion of the 400 women and the few men who attended. They had to scramble for places of vantage, and hundreds went away because they could not get near enough to the auctioneer to bid.

The contents of only one of the five trunks seized were sold, and they realized $6,384.50. This trunk was the one seized after arrival on the Red Star liner Gothland.

United States Marshal William Henkel was in charge of the sale, and long before 10 A. M., when Auctioneer Charles Shongood made an opening address, the room was full to suffocation. The room, which is on the fifth floor of the building, is an extremely long one, and only about twenty feet wide. The auctioneer was at one end, and bidders trampled over each other in their determined efforts to get near the platform. Women climbed up on window sills and hung on as long as they could, in the hope of picking a bargain.

Time after time the sale was delayed while the Marshal and his assistants took the money and wrapped up the purchases of those who paid the full amount required instead of handing up a deposit. This occasioned some confusion and delayed the selling. It was 4 P. M. before the last article went under the hammer.

"Now, ladies, we must have order," said Marshal Henkel; but it was some time before the hum of conversation died down so that the sale could begin. He explained that cash would be required, and that checks would not be accepted. At that there was a chorus of disapproval.

As the bidding went on it was apparent that many women of limited means had come prepared to pick up bargains, but were not prepared for the prices the goods brought. These occupied the best seats, and only now and again one would bid in a shirtwaist for $10 or $15. Every one had a chance to bid, however, and if the best goods went to dealers it was because they bid with a knowledge of values, backed by plenty of cash.

The Sale Begins.

"The first article, ladies and gentlemen," intoned the auctioneer, and there was a craning of necks and a general shuffling to get a good look at it. It was a five-and-a-half-yard piece of white Brussels net. It was sold to a Mr. Netcher, who is said to represent a Chicago store.

When the second piece was put up there came a gasp of surprise. It was a dainty confection of hand-embroidered linen. Those looking for bargains sent the price up, but only by $1 jumps. Then the dealers got into the game, and advanced the price by $5 at a bid. It was sold to Emil Brandeis representing an Omaha firm. He paid $100.

Handsome gowns and Paris blouses followed, and now and then the auctioneer created a laugh through mispronouncing the names of materials, and at last he had to confess that he was not well up on women's raiment.

The professional buyers got most of the costly gowns, but some went to those not in the business. Mrs. E. Iselin of 20 East Fifty-sixth Street bought a fine unmade coat, embroidered in wistaria. She paid $55 for it. Miss Delafield of 1 West Fifty-seventh Street was another purchaser, while another was Mrs. Blanchard, wife of Supreme Court Justice Blanchard.

The highest price paid for a single article was $150. It was a royal pongee suit and it went to a dealer. The bidding on it, however, was spirited, and such a hum of conversation went up that Marshal Henkel had to shout for order. This little flurry was not over when the Marshal advanced to the front of the platform and announced that pickpockets were reported to be in the place.

"There are some persons here who are not wanted," he said. "If there is any one here who is interfered with let me know. I will put those who annoy where they will not make trouble for some time."

"Are French sizes the same as American sizes?" piped a shrill soprano. The question came from a little woman who sat upon a window sill.

"I believe the sizes are correct as set down upon the catalogue," said the Marshal, "but I can't guarantee sizes."

"What women's size is guaranteed?" came from the crowd, and then there was a laugh.

A dispute arose over a bid for a tea gown of black silk.

"That was my last bid," shouted an irate woman in a rose-trimmed peach-basket hat.

"I didn't hear you and so you lost the sale," replied the auctioneer. "This will be a lesson to you to bid up and talk fast."

She Took His Advice.

The woman took the last bit of advice. She began to talk rapidly of the rights and wrongs of her case. The auctioneer was annoyed.

"Madam! Madam! Give me a chance," he shouted. Then the Marshal broke in. He saw the humor of the situation. "Ladies, ladies," he said, "don't talk. This is a political meeting and the convention is in order." A great laugh went up and the woman subsided.

No. 53, an embroidered lingerie waist, was knocked down after some bidding for $20. "The name of the bidder, please," said the auctioneer. "Goldie," came back the answer. The auctioneer misunderstood. "Is that your real name, Girlie?" he asked. Amid the laughter the embarrassed young woman called an Inspector and gave him her money and her name.

"Now we come to No. 89," said the auctioneer. "No. 89 is a white satin, lace and beribboned undershirt." A gasp of amazement went up and the auctioneer paused. As he did so the Marshal grasped his arm.

"Not undershirt," he said in a stage whisper. "It's a misprint." This was confirmed when the exhibitor held aloft a dainty satin skirt. It was some seconds before laughter permitted the sale to go on.

Among the disappointed ones in the corridor was a Miss Ulmann. She got her escort to lift her up so that she could look into the room through a small window. A heavy linen waist was being offered.

"Eighteen," came a bid from a woman in the room.

"Nineteen," said Miss Ulmann, her face framed in the window.

"Cuckoo," said Shongood, "what time is it?"

"I bid $19," snapped the young woman, her cheeks aflame. She got the shirt waist, dropping her money down to an Inspector.

At noon only ninety-eight lots had been sold, but they were the pick of the articles offered, and $3,452 had been taken in. The afternoon was devoted to selling trimmings, lingerie, and small articles. The lowest price at which a lot went was 50 cents for five yards of gray silk braid.

At the close of the sale there was a wail of complaint. One woman demanded her money back. She had bought a coat marked her size, and after trying it on found it too small. Another woman complained that a silk coat had gone to a dealer, although she had outbid him. She got the coat. The dealer was not consulted.

Marshal Henkel made a speech inviting all to return for Friday's sale. During the session Collector Loeb visited the room. Later he said:

"The first day's sale proved successful. The exhibition of the contents of the second trunk to be placed on sale on June 4, will begin to-morrow at 9 A. M. in Room 504, Custom House Building."

CARPENTERS IN A STRIKE.

Hundreds of Them Walk Out in Brooklyn to Force Higher Wages.

Delegates from the United Brotherhood of Carpenters and Joiners of America, which has its headquarters at Bowling Place and Atlantic Avenue, Brooklyn, yesterday visited many points in Brownsville, Williamsburg, and East New York, and declared a general strike among the carpenters in that section of the city. There are more than 2,000 buildings in course of construction in this territory, and the delegates going from point to point in automobiles ordered the men to leave their work. The order was generally obeyed.

It was said in Williamsburg last night that the action of the carpenters may involve the entire building trade in these centres, and may tie up work on buildings for an indefinite period.

During the hard times of a year ago the carpenters, as was the case with other branches of the trade, accepted wages below the normal rate in order that the men might hold their jobs, but as prosperity returned the scale of wages has not risen in proportion, and for some time there has been general discontent among the men. This feeling came to a head in yesterday's order, which demands a return to the former wages of $3.50 to $4.50 a day.

Sixteen local unions of Brownsville, members of the brotherhood, are taking part in the strike, and it is anticipated that other branches of the local trade will soon join them in the strike. The most aggressive union in the fight is Local No. 1,008, which is composed of Yiddish carpenters. They demand a return to union wages of $4.50 a day, and have opened strike headquarters in Washington Hall, 93 Thadford Avenue, Brooklyn.

GETS $24,000 VERDICT.

Court Awards It to Tooker, Who Helped Lithographing Firms.

The litigation which arose over the commission to be paid by the late Everett R. Reynolds, President of the Metropolitan Printing Company to Joseph H. Tooker, Vice President of that company, for his personal efforts four years ago in "consolidating" six of the larger printing and lithographing firms of this city into the present $7,000,000 Consolidated Lithographing Company, came to an end yesterday when Justice Greenbaum, in the Supreme Court, gave judgment for $24,100 in favor of Vice President Tooker for his claims against the Reynolds estate.

Before the Consolidated Lithographing Company was organized, in March, 1905, both President Reynolds and Vice President Tooker of the Metropolitan Printing Company were interested together not only in the printing business but also in various theatrical ventures. They were partners in a Manhattan Beach venture, and, after Reynolds decided to stop starring De Wolf Hopper in "The Bride Elect" in 1903 he authorized Tooker to sell the Hopper contract to William A. Brady. When, nine months before his death, Reynolds, as President of the Metropolitan Printing Company, was offered a $30,000 commission to act as agent in consolidating a number of the printing and lithographing firms of the city into a $7,000,000 concern he asked Tooker to help him for a third of the commission.

When President Reynolds died, in December, 1905, Vice President Tooker filed the following claims against his estate: Manhattan Beach partnership, $1,400; money loaned, $7,700; commission on Hopper contract, $5,000; commission on printing consolidation, $10,000.

DENY CHARGES OF GRAFT.

Anti-Saloon League Men Tell of Carnegie and Rockefeller Contributions.

The Rev. James A. Patterson, Superintendent of the Anti-Saloon League, and the Rev. Dr. I. K. Funk and Truman H. Baldwin, also of the league, yesterday called on Assistant District Attorney Murphy, who is investigating the charges of graft in the league made by C. R. Mabee of Detroit, and told Mr. Murphy that there was absolutely no truth in the accusations made.

Mr. Patterson said the league did not control nearly so much money as it was charged had been stolen. He also said that annual contributions of $5,000 were made by Andrew Carnegie and John D. Rockefeller, but further than that no assistance was received from these men.

According to Mr. Patterson 43,000 saloons throughout the country had been closed in the last year.

The Rev. U. G. Robinson of Missouri, who is familiar with the charges, will consult with the District Attorney within a few days.

BRACING UP THE A. O. H.

President Cummings Found the Order in Ireland Badly Scattered.

Mathew Cummings, President of the Ancient Order of Hibernians in America, returned on the Cunard liner Caronia yesterday from his trip to Ireland, where he was sent by the order two months ago with Father Philip J. O'Donnell to unite the scattered bodies of the A. O. H. in Ireland and form an international alliance with the organization here.

"We succeeded, with the support of the priests, in uniting several of the small organizations of the A. O. H. in various parts of Ireland," said Mr. Cummings. "There was only one discordant element in our tour, and that was a branch called the Board of Erin, which has been condemned by Cardinal Logue on the ground that it was simply conducted for political purposes and wielded its power at political conventions.

"The Board of Erin did all in its power to injure us, but in spite of that opposition we received an ovation in all the large cities, and fully 40,000 persons assembled in Dublin to give us a hearty send-off when we came away."

ALDERMEN WRANGLE OVER BUILDING CODE

First Public Hearing Stirs Up a Struggle Over Construction Provisions.

CONCRETE MEN ON HAND

They Raise a Protest Against Restrictions on Reinforced Concrete Building.

The first public hearing on the proposed new Building Code, held yesterday afternoon by the Aldermen's Committee on Buildings, was a spirited affair and showed clearly that the provisions recommended by the majority report of the Revision Commission can be put through only after a long and bitter struggle.

The politics of the case, of which much has been said of late, did not come out prominently at the hearing, the speakers devoting themselves almost entirely to the merits of the code. The concrete builders objected to the restrictions placed in the majority report on reinforced concrete construction. They also opposed the elimination of cinder concrete fireproofing, declaring that fire tests and actual experience have proved it, when properly mixed, to be one of the best-known fire resistants, if not superior to every other method of fireproofing.

Alderman William P. Kenneally, Chairman of the Buildings Committee and representative in the Board of Charles F. Murphy's district, and Alderman Doull, who drew the minority report of the Revision Commission, had several lively tilts. In each case several members of the committee showed active sympathy with Mr. Doull, and there was much speculation about City Hall after the hearing as to whether or not Alderman Kenneally can hold the control of the committee.

The trouble started just before the hearing opened, when several of the committee objected to John D. Moore, an engineer, who drew the greater part of the majority report, occupying a seat beside Mr. Kenneally. He finally left the committee's seats, taking a place directly back of Alderman Smith. During the proceedings the latter propounded some pertinent and technical queries to the different speakers. It was finally discovered that Moore was prompting him, and Alderman Colgan of Brooklyn objected. Both Moore and Smith then subsided.

The hearing closed with an adjournment to next Wednesday, on the urgent appeal of William Butler, representing the Building Trades Employers' Association. He said that the public and the building interests had not had time to familiarize themselves with the provisions of the new code. His request for further delay was finally granted over the protest of Alderman Kenneally, who maintained that the members of the committee were not well enough versed in the technical questions involved to make changes in the provisions laid down by the Revision Commission.

The question of fire limits or the areas within which frame buildings cannot be constructed was taken up first. Alderman Kenneally announced that the committee would receive suggestions on this point, with a view to fixing limits that would be satisfactory to every one, if some definite plan could be agreed upon.

A representative of the New York Board of Fire Underwriters spoke on this question and emphasized it as most important. He submitted a lengthy brief in which the board states its principal objections to the provisions of the code. The brief stated that it does not believe in the permission of the use of hardwood finish in any buildings over twelve stories in height. The board also says there should be some provision for an area in Manhattan south of Fifty-ninth Street in which all high buildings for mercantile and manufacturing purposes be of fireproof construction in order to check the progress of a possible big conflagration.

The placing of a four-inch terra cotta wall for elevator casings on an equal basis with a six-inch concrete or an eight-inch brick wall is described as "a highly retrogressive provision, and one which is emphatically disapproved by the experience of underwriters not only in this city, but all over the United States."

The provision for the installation of a certain type of standpipe is objected to also. The fact that Fire Chief Croker and Commissioner Hayes of the Fire Department opposed this provision is commented upon. The fire-proofing restrictions of the code also are opposed by the board. The brief closes with the declaration that while the minority report "is by no means ideal," it is far superior to the majority report.

H. Jones, representing the North Side Board of Trade and the Taxpayers' Alliance of Highbridge, objected to any extension of the fire limits in the Bronx.

Rudolph P. Miller spoke for the Allied Real Estate Interests and the Association of Architects and Engineers. "The provisions of this code do severe injustice to reinforced concrete construction," said he. "The trouble with the present code is that it does not standardize concrete construction, but this new code goes much further than this in its restrictions. Reinforced concrete is undoubtedly fireproof. Why should it be restricted at all?"

Ross F. Tucker, Chairman of the Board of Governors of the Building Trades Employers' Association and President of the Concrete Association of America, supported Mr. Miller's contentions.

Richard L. Humphrey, the engineer in charge of the Structural Materials Testing Laboratories of the United States Geological Survey, spoke at length against the concrete restrictions of the code. He characterized the failure to establish a standard test for cement as a calamity and declared that more definite specifications for sand should be laid down. He also objected to the four-inch terra cotta wall being placed on an equal footing with six-inch concrete and eight-inch brick walls. He said that under the restrictions of the new code the cost of reinforced concrete building construction would be increased 15 per cent.

Frederick G. Webber, President of the Masters' League of Cement Workers, declared that the provisions of the new code would drive 90 per cent. of the concrete firms in the city out of business.

SAYS WIFE WAS A SUICIDE.

Dr. Cleminson, Suspected of Murder, Now Tells a Different Story.

CHICAGO, June 2.—Dr. Haldane Cleminson, who admitted yesterday that he had lied in saying that burglars killed his wife at their home in Rogers Park last Sunday morning, insisted to-day that she had committed suicide because he had learned of her relations with another man. He insisted that his object in telling the burglary story was to save his children from future grief and humiliation.

"Dr. Cleminson told me," said Police Captain Kane to-day, "that he and his wife were of different temperaments. He said he and his wife had agreed to go in opposite directions, but that for their children's sake they were to keep up appearances before strangers. Then he discovered her friendship with the other man.

"He accused her of unfaithfulness two weeks ago and she tried to commit suicide. I think it was morphine that she took. He administered strychnine to revive her, and after she had recovered she promised that she would not attempt suicide again.

"He said that on the night of his wife's death he had given her strychnine to relieve suffering. Previously he had told me that he never gave her medicine, as she had summoned a special doctor whenever she was ill. He also told of a poisonous mixture he had made up for a friend which contained chloral. This mixture his wife knew of."

The police are investigating the story. Dr. Cleminson was taken before a Police Magistrate to-day, but the hearing was postponed to June 9.

Ex-Judge Dewey Seeks Libel Damages from Good Government Association.

BOSTON, June 2.—Dealing with a wide range of subjects, from city politics in 1905 to the burning of witches in Salem, former Judge Henry S. Dewey opened his case in the Superior Court to-day in his own behalf, in an effort to obtain damages to the amount of $76,000,000 from officials of the Good Government Association, who he asserted libeled him in the Mayoralty campaign four years ago.

Since the filing of the first writ in the suit two years ago the damages have been raised twice, and to-day Judge Dewey sought to place the figures at $76,000,000. The defendants are Laurence Minot, Eliot N. Jones, John Mason Little, George R. Nutter, and Nathaniel N. Thayer.

In the selection of the jury, Judge Dewey asked that they be polled as to their religious beliefs.

In opening his case after the jury had been selected, Judge Dewey stated that two of his ancestors were burned as witches in Salem. He reviewed his own life, especially in recent years, during which he was a Judge of the Municipal Court and independent candidate for Mayor in 1905. He denounced the methods of the Good Government Association during that campaign.

Former President of the Republican City Committee Fred E. Bolton testified to certain incidents in the campaign.

THEY DIDN'T SAIL AFTER ALL.

The Misses Carson Left the Kaiser Wilhelm II. at the Last Minute.

The Misses Georgia and Julia Carson of Pittsburg, who attracted some attention on the North German Lloyd Line in Hoboken Tuesday by their uncertainty as to whether they wanted to sail or not, did not get away after all. At the last minute their trunks were taken from the liner, and they returned to the Plaza, where they have been staying since Sunday.

After they got back to the hotel Miss Julia was taken ill, and a trained nurse was summoned from Pittsburg. She was on duty last night. Neither of the young women could be seen at the hotel, but it was said that Miss Julia, who suffered a nervous breakdown, was well enough to come down to the dining room for her dinner.

The Misses Carson were booked to sail on the Kaiser Wilhelm II. Miss Georgia arrived at the pier first and the trunks were put on board. Miss Julia did not appear until later and her sister believing she was not coming had the trunks taken off. Then Miss Julia, it is said, wanted to sail, and Miss Georgia wanted to remain. At the last minute the two young women went on board and it was reported that they had sailed.

ICE SINKS SCHOONER.

Crew of Eight on Ice Floe All Night Saved by Tug.

ST. JOHNS, N. F., June 2.—The immense ice fields which blockaded the Newfoundland coast and have already crushed several small vessels and imprisoned transatlantic steamers, have claimed another victim in the fishing schooner Souris Belle of Western Bay. The schooner was battered by the ice and sank off St. Johns Harbor last night.

The crew of eight took to the boats, one of which upset with two men in it, leaving them adrift on the ice floes until to-day. They were rescued by a tug. Their information was the first news of the accident, and a search of the shore resulted in the discovery of the remaining half dozen sailors, exhausted and unable to proceed. They, too, were carried aboard the tug and brought to this city.

Calumet Clerk Guilty of Larceny Saved by Kellogg Durland's Plea.

Kellogg Durland, a writer, on whose complaint Albert H. Heward, for many years head bookkeeper in the Calumet Club, was arrested recently on a charge of grand larceny, appeared yesterday to intercede for the prisoner when he pleaded guilty before Judge Foster in General Sessions. Mr. Durland said that he had investigated the case and had learned that Heward had yielded to temptation through exaggerated pride in his children and a desire to equip them with a higher education.

Mr. Durland told Judge Foster that he lived at the Calumet Club last Winter and had such confidence in Heward that, when he sailed for Europe, he gave him power of attorney to receive and cash checks and to make bank deposits. On his return Mr. Durland discovered that Heward had appropriated one check for $120 to his own use. On making inquiry he learned that Heward had been up before the Board of Governors on a charge of stealing $90 of the club's funds. Heward admitted that he had made good the money by drawing on Mr. Durland's bank account.

When Judge Foster told Heward that he was free he nearly broke down. He shook Mr. Durland's hand and thanked him.

WANTS A RECEIVER FOR SNOW.

Mrs. De Bost Alleges That He Is $1,000 in Arrears of Alimony.

Decision was reserved by Supreme Court Justice Guy yesterday on the application of Mrs. Fannie De Bost for an order directing her former husband, Elbridge Gerry Snow, Jr., whose father is a cousin of Eldridge T. Gerry, to give security for the payment of $4,000 a year for the support of their children. Mrs. De Bost obtained a divorce in 1903. Her husband was ordered to pay alimony at the rate of $5,000 a year.

Through her counsel Mrs. De Bost asked the court to appoint a receiver to look after the financial affairs of her former husband, alleging that he is now $1,000 in arrears in alimony.

Shortly after obtaining her divorce Mrs. Snow married De Bost and Snow married Mrs. Oscar Hoppe. Following Mrs. Snow's marriage her former husband applied to the court for a reduction of the alimony to $2,500 but a referee fixed it at $4,000 and the Appellate Division upheld the ruling.

Counsel for Snow contended that his client was fully up in his payments.

PENNSYLVANIA RAILROAD

Bulletin

SAFEGUARDING PASSENGERS.

Official reports of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company show that during the year 1908 no passenger on the entire mileage was killed by a train accident.

The following editorial from the Philadelphia Inquirer, May 18, 1909, emphasizes the situation:

NO PASSENGERS KILLED BY THE PENNSYLVANIA.

The management of the Pennsylvania Railroad Company is entitled to much credit and to hearty congratulations for the circumstance that last year on all the 23,000 miles of track covered by the Pennsylvania system not a passenger was killed as the result of a train accident. There were 102 persons injured, which was fewer by 452 than during the previous year, a reduction of 81.6 per cent., but as the total number of passengers carried was 141,659,543 a little calculation will show that only one person out of 1,388,819 carried suffered any such injury as required medical or surgical treatment.

This is an impressive and praiseworthy showing. It means that one may be safer in a Pennsylvania Railroad train than one is on the street or at home and it demonstrates the care and the ability with which the operation of the road is conducted. The American railroad has not enjoyed a good reputation on the score of safety and its casualty record compares very unfavorably with the similar records of the British lines.

It is, however, steadily improving in this respect, and as usual the Pennsylvania system leads the way. It sets the pace and supplies the standard which the others have to follow and adopt.

It is needless to state that this result is the reward of eternal vigilance. The best roadbed, the highest type of equipment, the most approved system of signals all in the hands of the most tried and experienced operatives combine to safeguard the passenger. Frequent signal tests have shown a splendid percentage of efficiency in the men, and the running records of the trains indicate that ceaseless vigilance is the watchword on the Standard Railroad of America.

KAISER AND CZAR WILL MEET SOON

Diplomats Argue That Thwarting of Russia's Balkan Plans by Former Is Forgiven.

FEARED BRITISH ENTENTE

Proposed Meeting of Kaiser with French President Still Further Indicates European Era of Peace.

ST. PETERSBURG, June 2.—A meeting between Emperor William and the Czar has been arranged, and will take place in the waters of the Finnish Gulf. The exact date of the meeting will be decided upon later, but it will probably be June 17. The Kaiser will arrive on the Imperial yacht Hohenzollern, while the Czar will be aboard the Standart, accompanied by M. Isvolsky, the Foreign Minister, and Admiral Voevodsky, the Minister of Marine.

The news of the proposed interview between the sovereigns, coming so soon after the settlement of the Balkan crisis, has aroused eager speculation among the diplomats at St. Petersburg. It was supposed in some quarters that German mediation, which had ended the crisis, had left a heritage of bitterness, which would estrange the two monarchs and lead Russia to identify herself more closely with Great Britain's continental policy.

The meeting, which, according to some reports, has been arranged on the initiative of the Czar, is taken to mean that Russia prefers an amicable arrangement with Germany to the doubtful issue of an antagonistic policy. If the Kaiser also meets President Fallières, as it is reported from Berlin he will, the European situation may be regarded as entering upon a decidedly peaceful phase.

After meeting the Kaiser, the Czar will go to Stockholm, probably on June 26. He will then return to Peterhof, where during the early days of July he will receive King Frederick of Denmark. His Majesty will then proceed to Poltava, where he will be present on July 7 and 8 at the celebration of the two hundredth anniversary of the battle of Poltava. The Czar will then depart by sea for a visit to France and England, and probably Italy. The plans of this trip are held in the deepest secrecy, but elaborate preparations are already being made to prevent tampering with the railway lines to Poltava. Forty-eight thousand troops will be stationed along the route during the journey. The military attachés of the various embassies and legations have been invited to accompany his Majesty, but no other diplomatic representatives.

The Czar on June 5 will preside at the dedication of the monument to Alexander III., which has been erected at the end of the Nevski Prospect.

AMERICA FOR CHEMISTS.

International Congress Will Assemble in Washington in 1912.

LONDON, June 2.—The International Congress of Applied Chemistry held its final session in London to-day, and the delegates accepted by acclamation the American invitation to hold the next Congress in 1912 at Washington. Prof. E. W. Morley of West Hartford, Conn., was unanimously selected to be honorary president of the 1912 gathering, and Dr. W. H. Nicholls of New York was made acting president.

The congress closed its labors by adopting a mass of resolutions advising international inquiry and action into many of the subjects discussed during the past week.

Ambassador Reid presented the invitation to meet at Washington on behalf of the American delegates. He said that while they might not be able to surpass the splendid hospitality of London, the Americans would try to make the delegates feel at home.

The convention has been attended by more than 3,000 members, accompanied by 650 women.

ANARCHISTS BAR RELIGION.

Congress at Leipsic Says Principles Forbid Church Membership.

LEIPSIC, June 2.—The Anarchists of Germany are at present in conference here, and the attendance is large. To-day the congress adopted a motion declaring that membership in any Church or religious sect was contrary to the principles of anarchy, and calling on all Anarchists to cease their membership in churches. Dr. Friedeberg of Berlin read a paper, in which he said that the cultural goals of anarchy should be fought for by cultural methods.

The congress came to an end with the passing of a resolution to attend in large numbers the International Anarchist Congress to be held in London in 1910. The discussions to-day were purely academic, and the police consequently did not interfere.

SHOOTING IN A RESTAURANT.

Proprietor Wounds a Diner Who Threw a Bottle at Him.

The throwing of a bottle of ketchup at the proprietor of a restaurant at 195 West End Avenue led to a shooting last night in which one man was seriously injured. The fracas caused a panic among the twenty or more patrons in the place. The injured man is Julius Frecault, 18 years old, of 245 West Sixty-sixth Street.

Paul Kurth, the proprietor of the restaurant, was locked up at the West Sixty-eighth Street Station, and admitted, the police say, that he fired the shot.

There was trouble with the men in the restaurant on Monday night. When the disturbance began last night Kurth used both a "billy" and the revolver. There was a general fight, in which Frecault, who threw a bottle of ketchup at Kurth, was shot.

BOY ROBS A PRIVATE CAR.

Silver, Guns, and Clothing Taken from President Reid's Coach.

Charles Spergeon Sparman, the fourteen-year-old son of Thomas Jefferson Sparman, a Methodist minister of Dillon, S. C., was arrested in Jersey City yesterday charged with breaking into and robbing the private car Indiana of Daniel G. Reid of Richmond, Ind., President of the Board of Directors of the Rock Island Railroad, on Tuesday night, while it was stationed in the Waldo Avenue yards, Jersey City.

The articles taken from the car were: $500 worth of silverware, each piece marked "Indiana"; four Winchester rifles, one shotgun, breechloader; one revolver, one pair of trousers and a vest, a blue serge overcoat, a suit of clothes, and a steel meat cleaver.

Supt. Spencer of the Pennsylvania Railroad Police Department yesterday told the Jersey City police that a boy was acting suspiciously in the freight yard near the train shed. Detective Sergts. Nugent and Rooney went to the yard and took the boy to Headquarters.

There he said he met a negro in the railroad yards on Tuesday, and they planned to rob Mr. Reid's car. The negro, whose name he said he did not know, broke a pane of glass in a door of the car, and crawled inside and passed the stolen things out to him. He said he buried the silver in a heap of ashes in the freight yard at the foot of Pearl Street, while the negro hid the other things under some lumber. The silver was found in the place described by the boy.

EAST SIDE BANKERS MUST REPAY CLERK

Supreme Court Orders a Firm to Return Money to a Poor Russian.

CONDEMNS THEIR CONDUCT

Boy Paid the Passage of His Parents to This Country, but Tickets Were Canceled.

The conduct of Auerbach & Goldberg, a prosperous east side banking firm, toward Benjamin Schapin, a poor young east side drug clerk, "cannot be too strongly condemned," according to an opinion handed down recently by Justices Dayton and Lehman in the Supreme Court. As a result of this decision the banking firm yesterday paid back to the boy the sum of $109.60, which his love for his father and mother in Russia had caused him to pay, in installments of $3 a week, to one of the firm's agents.

According to papers filed in the Supreme Court young Schapin came over from Russia just two years ago. As soon as he had got a place as clerk in an east side drug store and arranged to study pharmaceutics at an evening college he began planning to bring his father, mother, and two younger sisters over here so that he could support them.

Schapin had made the acquaintance of an east side peddler named Rosen, who told him he knew of an easy way by which the transatlantic tickets of the Schapin family could be bought. Rosen then took Schapin and introduced him to Auerbach & Goldberg, bankers and shipping agents, at 128 Norfolk Street.

There the young clerk, according to the evidence, paid the banking firm $60 down on two full and two half tickets on an American Line steamship from Cherbourg. The balance of the money due on the tickets he agreed to pay in $3 a week installments to Rosen as Auerbach & Goldberg's agent.

After Schapin had paid the banking firm $109.60, his parents sold their effects and went to Paris. When they went to the American Line offices there, expecting to find tickets waiting for them, they were told that Auerbach & Goldberg had telegraphed at the last moment canceling the tickets.

The Schapin family was left stranded in Paris during seven weeks, and the son in this city had to borrow money from his employers and friends to send other tickets to them. He also demanded an explanation from Auerbach & Goldberg. This is, in substance, the explanation they gave:

"When you began paying Rosen your installments we gave him the tickets. He gave us his promissory note for them. He continued to take your money, but he has never paid us anything on his note. So we told the steamship company that we would not pay for the tickets after all, and that they had better cancel the order for them."

Lawyer Alexander Greenberg of 302 Broad Street heard about Schapin's plight. He also learned that this sort of thing occurs frequently and that unscrupulous east side bankers have done it with impunity heretofore because the municipal courts which try the suits always throw the poor ignorant immigrants' cases out on the ground that all the business is done between the individual and the irresponsible agent, like Rosen, and that there is "no contractual relation between the steamship company's representatives (like Auerbach & Goldberg) and the individual.

Greenberg carried Schapin's case to the Appellate Term, pointing out that Auerbach & Goldberg in giving Rosen the tickets had vested him with the title in them and through him (Schapin) and that they could sue Rosen on his promissory note, but had no right to concel the order for the tickets.

Justices Dayton and Lehman were made suspicious also because the banking firm refused to produce its books and show its relation with Rosen. They directed the firm to pay the young drug clerk his money and all costs.

300 DEAD IN AQUEDUCT'S WAY

Water Board Looking for Their Graves in Ashokan Reservoir Area.

Representatives of the Board of Water Supply are making an exhaustive search in the territory to be covered by the Catskill Aqueduct and Ashokan Reservoir for the hidden burial places of some three hundred bodies.

When the old records were first searched it was learned that there were about 2,800 graves in the aqueduct and reservoir area. Nearly 2,500 were easily located, but the other 300 are proving elusive. They are thought to be in some old, abandoned cemetery that has been leveled for some years.

The cemeteries from which the bodies must be removed are in the towns of Olive Bridge, Brown's Station, Brodhead, Ashton, West Shokan, Boiceville, Shokan, Glenford, Olive, and West Hurley. All the graves must be emptied before Nov. 1, 1910. If the work is not completed by the friends and relatives of the deceased by that time the Board will attend to the removal itself.

An allowance of $15 will be made by the Board in each case, with $3 additional for a new headstone. The Board will also pay for the conveyance of the bodies to any cemetery within ten miles of the present location.

Special to The New York Times.

TRENTON, N. J., June 2.—Max Lewis, a schoolboy, fell asleep in school here to-day and could not be awakened by the most vigorous methods for more than an hour. A drug clerk was summoned, but could do nothing. A doctor could not awaken him.

Then the boy was put in an automobile and driven rapidly home. His mother, when she learned what had happened, rent the air with piercing screams, which aroused the lad.

He is now well and does not realize that he has been in a trance.

ONLY 100,000 SHARES OF STEEL FOR PARIS

These Transferred to Holding Company, Whose Stock Is Listed on Bourse.

INSTITUTION HERE TRUSTEE

Block Involved Represents Only $10,000,000 of the Total Par Value $508,000,000 of Steel Corporation Common Stock.

PARIS, June 2.—One hundred thousand shares constitute the amount of United States Steel common which the syndicate formed by Morgan, Harjes & Co. of Paris, in conjunction with J. P. Morgan & Co. of New York, have arranged to list on the Bourse here.

The syndicate will deposit with a trust company of New York this amount of stock, against which the trust company will issue its own certificates of deposit in such form as to meet the requirements of the French fiscal authorities, and the rules of the French Stock Exchange.

The certificates will be exchangeable on demand, and vice versa, and the dividends will be paid by Morgan, Harjes & Co., the Crédit Lyonnais, the Comptoir National d'Escompte, and the Société Générale.

The formula found by the Morgans for the introduction of steel shares on the Paris Bourse solves the riddle for other American securities, and is expected to be the precursor of a regular American invasion.

The news of this listing was bruited on the Bourse here to-day and created a favorable impression, as it was known to have the backing of leading French financial houses. The demands for participation largely exceeded the amount available.

The amount of United States Steel stock which has been placed in Paris, it was learned yesterday, is 100,000 shares, or $10,000,000 par value out of the company's total common stock issue of $508,000,000. The stock to be listed is not the steel shares themselves, but the securities of the holding company which will take over this $10,000,000 block of United States Steel. Under the arrangement which has been effected, the Bankers' Trust Company of New York will act as trustee for the deposit of this Steel stock, and the French company's securities will be issued against the stock held by the trust company as trustee.

This information corrects the first stories from Paris, which assumed that the common stock of the Steel Corporation would itself be listed on the Bourse. Such a course would have involved many costly complications, and would undoubtedly have necessitated the issuance of certificates in French in denominations of francs, while under the French law the Government would have demanded a tax payment amounting to nearly $3 per share on the entire issue of common stock. The application of this tax law to United States Steel common, of which $508,000,000 is outstanding, would cost the corporation nearly $15,000,000.

Large blocks of American securities are held abroad, particularly in Holland, through the medium of holding companies which issue their own stock or certificates of participation against large blocks of our stock bought by these foreign associations.

Steel common made a new high record in the last hour of trading yesterday, after receding earlier in the session from Tuesday's closing price. After touching 67, it fell back a fraction, and then went to 67¼, and closed at 67⅛.

$20,000,000 Increase in Imports.

Imports of foreign merchandise at this port for May, according to a statement issued yesterday by George W. Wanmaker, Appraiser of the Port, exceeded those of the corresponding month in 1908 by more than $20,000,000. Last month the importations aggregated $70,561,288, while in May, 1908, the goods brought in had a value of only $49,859,728.

RAILWAY'S INITIAL DIVIDEND.

St. Louis Southwestern Put on a 4 Per Cent. Basis by the Directors.

An initial dividend on the preferred shares of the St. Louis Southwestern Railway Company was declared yesterday, putting the stock on a 4 per cent. basis. The dividend declared was a semi-annual disbursement of 2 per cent. and is payable July 15 to stockholders of record July 6. The company has outstanding $20,000,000 5 per cent. non-cumulative preferred stock and $26,500,000 common. The dividend declaration was made public in the following statement:

"The Secretary of the company stated that the Directors at their meeting to-day had considered that the earnings of company, both in volume and stability, had reached a point where the holders of the preferred stock might fairly expect distribution, and that the board considered itself justified in inaugurating dividends on the preferred stock at the rate of 4 per cent. per annum. It was assumed that the earnings of the company could be conservatively expected to provide for regular dividends hereafter at least at that rate."

RAIN DIDN'T DAMPEN COLUMBIA FETE DAY

Gymnasium Couldn't Hold the Throngs Anxious to Attend Commencement Exercises.

BIG DAY FOR THE ALUMNI

Clock and New Athletic Field Presented by Graduates—President Lowell and A. Moseley Get Degrees.

Columbia University celebrated its one hundred and fifty-fifth annual commencement exercises yesterday. The university gymnasium was thronged with friends of the students, in spite of the rain which fell at intervals throughout the morning. Many who sought admittance were turned away, as the capacity of the hall had been exceeded.

From the beginning of the commencement exercises in the morning up to midnight the alumni, members of the graduating class, and their friends were constantly on the go, events crowding upon one another in rapid succession.

The bad weather which prevailed before noon necessitated a change in the arrangements in regard to the academic procession. Yesterday for the first time the commencement procession from the library building to the gymnasium took an underground tunnel route so as to avoid the downpour outdoors.

President Butler's Address.

Chaplain Knox offered the opening prayer, and President Butler delivered the commencement address. He said in part:

"What higher reward can come to a man than to have it justly said of him that he possessed integrity? This means that his nature was upright, sound, complete; that there were no great gaps in his moral armor and no weak spots in his stock of intellectual convictions. The man who possesses integrity must not only be incorruptible—that goes without saying; he must also be just, clear-sighted, and wise with the wisdom which attaches to a tried experience.

"Lack of moral integrity is as sad as it is common. Sometimes it is one solicitation, sometimes another, which successfully assails a man's completeness and leaves him imperfect, broken, soiled. Lack of intellectual integrity is no less sad. It implies the absence of a body of principles on which one's knowledge and convictions rest. It implies a lack of stability of purpose, a fitfulness, which leaves one to be borne hither and yon by the blasts of temporary opinion or by the forces of everlasting selfishness.

"The training which a university gives is poor stuff indeed if it has not asserted integrity alike of mind and of character as an attainable ideal, and if it has not aided in its upbuilding.

"I beg of you as you go out from this university to set your hearts upon intellectual as well as upon moral integrity, seeking a unity, a wholeness, a soundness, a steadfastness, a straightforwardness, which, taken together, are integrity itself. Do not be deceived with frauds and shams, and do not be alarmed with clamors and with cries. Remember well the lessons you have learned from nature; remember well the lessons you have learned from history; remember well the lessons you have learnd from association with your fellows and from observation of them; and out of these lessons make each for himself a foundation of indestructible convictions upon which to build an intellectual life of increasing activity and value, not only to yourselves, but to your kind."

Honorary Degrees Conferred.

There were 1,213 candidates who received degrees or diplomas at yesterday's commencement exercises, and eleven honorary degrees were conferred by President Butler upon the following, who were presented by Prof. H. T. Peck.

Master of Science—Benjamin Bowden Lawrence of the class of 1878, mining engineer. First alumni trustee.

Master of Arts—John Halliday Denbigh, Principal of Morris High School, New York City.

Doctor of Science—Samuel Franklin Emmons of the United States Geological Survey.

Doctor of Letters—Mary Whiton Calkins, Professor of Philosophy and Psychology in Wellesley College; Christian K. F. Hülsen of the Imperial German Archaeological Institute at Rome.

Doctor of Sacred Theology—Henry Churchill King, President of Oberlin College.

Doctor of Laws—Silas Brown Brownell, Chairman of the Trustees of Barnard College; Abbott Lawrence Lowell, President of Harvard University; Alfred Mosely, C. M. G., of London, England, the well-known English educator now visiting here; John Coit Spooner, formerly United States Senator from Wisconsin; Count Johann Heinrich Von Bernstorff, German Ambassador to the United States.

Mary Whiton Calkins is the first woman in twenty-two years to receive the degree of Doctor of Letters from Columbia University.

Degree for President Lowell.

In presenting President Lowell of Harvard for the degree of Doctor of Laws Prof. Peck spoke of the accession of a new President at Harvard as a matter of National importance. "The interest in it is not confined to Harvard's sons," said Prof. Peck. "It is National, and even international. Columbia University therefore welcomes and gives a hearty greeting to the distinguished scholar and student of governmental problems who has assumed the headship of that stately seat of learning around which clusters so much of what is best in American history and tradition."

Preceded by a brass band the "Early Eighties" marched in a body to Hamilton Hall when the commencement exercises closed. The class of '84 Arts, said to be the freshman class of the "Early Eighties," on the occasion of the twenty-fifth anniversary of their graduation yesterday, presented to the university a memorial clock and doorway at the entrance to the Dean's office in Hamilton Hall.

Mr. E. McCarthy, '84, presented the gift on behalf of his classmates. President Butler, accepting on behalf of the university, and Dean Van Amringe accepting for the college.

On their enthusiasm at being ranked as alumni the members of the class of 1909 precipitated a clash at the entrance to the gymnasium, where the alumni luncheon was held. The doors were then locked against them, and it appeared for a time as if 1909 would have to go hungry. On their promise to be good, however, they were admitted to the hall, where tables had been reserved for them.

The Alumni Luncheon.

Two thousand alumni sat down to luncheon in the gymnasium, and with the able assistance of a leather-lunged band of musicians went through the college songs of their undergraduate days with great vim. Then the classes, one after another, beginning with 1909, gave their class yells. The last class to respond was '62, of which there were only two surviving members present.

Addressing the alumni at the luncheon, President Butler said that the last year had been the most important year in the history of Columbia University. "A very great burden has been lifted from the shoulders of the Board of Trustees," he said, referring to the new plan of refunding the corporate indebtedness of the university.

By the payment of $100,000 annually the debt will probably be entirely extinguished in thirty years. "Since we can meet this sum without embarrassment, we may say that, as far as this generation is concerned, the indebtedness has disappeared."

Other important changes adopted during the last year, said President Butler, have been the realization of the system of Trustees elected by the alumni, and the provision for a uniform system of entrance requirements to the several schools of the university.

Some novel costumes made their appearance when, at 3 o'clock, the various reunion classes marched out on South Field to be present at the dedication of the grounds.

The alumni of 1904 attracted the greatest attention. Attired in white sailor suits and hats, this class came on the field leading a big blue and white balloon supported on a hand truck. Toy cannons were also in evidence, and little toy balloons were sent up all along the line of parade.

With the assistance of the 1902 men, who were dressed in clowns' costumes of black goods adorned with monstrous blue buttons, 1904 executed a military pantomime on the field, which greatly amused several thousand spectators.

The classes of 1899, 1906, 1908, and 1909 also provoked much laughter by their grotesque costumes.

Prof. Kemp, '84, Mines, and J. E. Fowler, '99, presented South Field to the University on behalf of their classes. The new field cost some $10,000. Both speakers emphasized the long felt need of such an athletic field, and said that future alumni gifts would in a few years put South Field on a par with the best athletic fields in the United States.

President Butler accepted the field for the University, in a short speech.

The baseball game which followed was won by Syracuse, but the defeat suffered by Columbia seemed in no way to damper the spirits of the alumni.

They made merry on South Field till the shades of night announced the beefsteak dinner in the Commons. From 8 o'clock last night till early this morning the Morningside Heights campus was the scene of alumni festivities of one kind or another.

President Butler gave his usual Commencement Day Dinner at the Metropolitan Club last night. There were thirty-five guests present.

COMMENCEMENT DAY AT N. Y. UNIVERSITY

Three Officials of the City and State Receive the Degree of Doctor of Laws.

DR. MACCRACKEN'S ADDRESS

Chancellor Reviews the Three Epochs of Education in This Country—198 Students Get Degrees.

Exercises marking the seventy-seventh commencement of New York University were held on University Heights yesterday before a large audience. In the university auditorium, in the middle of the semi-circle formed by the Hall of Fame, the highest degree a university has within its gift, that of Doctor of Laws, was conferred on three public officers of the city and State, Justice O'Gorman of the Supreme Court, William Russell Willcox, Chairman of the Public Service Commission, and Dr. Hermann Michael Biggs, General Medical Officer of the Department of Health.

The order of the exercises was varied from other years, half being held in the morning and half in the afternoon, and though because of the weather the procession of the faculty, guests, and graduates could not be held in the morning about the campus, it was held in the afternoon. Such a crowd had assembled to see the exercises that every seat was taken and some four hundred persons had to be turned away.

The Commencement Exercises.

Altogether, 194 regular degrees were conferred, and eight honorary degrees. The morning exercises, beginning at 11 o'clock, included the salutatory oration by Benjamin P. De Witt of 1909, on "The Place of the Classics in Modern Culture"; the scientific oration, by Daniel C. Nolan, Jr., of 1909; the valedictory oration, by John C. Brodsky; an address to the graduates, by

PLAN FOR CONSULS TO PUSH COMMERCE

Service to be Supplied with a Card Index System of Manufacturers' Literature.

FREE TO ALL AMERICANS

Manufacturers Are Requested to Communicate with the Department of Commerce and Labor.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—American Consuls all over the world are to be supplied with a card index system of catalogues and literature of every manufacturing concern in the United States, as a result of an agreement reached to-day between the State Department and the Department of Commerce and Labor. The arrangement is in line with the Administration's policy of placing this country's commerce in the first rank through a reorganization of the Consular Service. The service recently was shaken up, and now the Administration is preparing to furnish the new men, the necessary material with which to produce results.

American Consuls receive annually many queries as to the manufactures in various lines. The usual course in such cases is to pass the inquiry on to Washington, which in turn will advertise it to the trade, and this gives any manufacturer interested an opportunity to correspond. But this method has been found to involve so much time that the buyer in numerous instances has purchased elsewhere before he gets information about American goods.

To some extent manufacturers in this country have supplied the consulates with their catalogues, but this is not a satisfactory method, as there are no facilities in most of the offices for indexing or preserving information in such form.

What the concern with which the Government has concluded an agreement expects to do is to send free to all American Consulates a card index of such American manufacturers as choose to avail themselves of its service. These cards will be supplied in uniform cases as the catalogue grows, and additions and changes will be sent monthly. All that the Consuls will be required to do is to keep the catalogue where it may be consulted, and make such additions to it as are sent out.

The company which will attempt this work is the outcome of considerable experiment along that line. William Harper, who evolved the plan, was Chief of the Bureau of Information of the Philadelphia Museum for six years following its organiation in 1894, and in that capacity visited practically all the American Consulates in the world in the course of the years 1898-99. Subsequently he was connected with the Commercial Intelligence Bureau of England, which was formed after a Government inquiry into the best way of promoting British trade, and in 1904-5 visited the British Consulates of the world.

It is his opinion that the American Consular service is the best in the world from a commercial standpoint, and that all that is needed is better co-ordination between it and the manufacturers.

"I consider our Consular representatives superior to those of Great Britain in this respect," he said, "that with the latter the Consular service is regarded largely as a stepping-stone to a diplomatic post, and it doesn't get the attention on its own account that it deserves. With us, on the other hand, when a man goes out to a Consulship he goes expecting to make a record in that capacity, and he studies the situation in a way that the commercial representatives of the other nations seldom do."

Manufacturers throughout the United States will be officially notified of the arrangement.

Major John M. Carson, Chief of the Bureau of Manufactures of the Department of Commerce and Labor, says that any manufacturer desiring to take advantage of it should communicate with him as to the workings of the system and how the cards for the index system should be prepared and printed.

One of the conditions of this service is that it is free to all manufacturers in the country. No fee is to be charged for the service in sending out cards to the Consulates. All that is required of the manufacturer is that he print his cards in the language of the country to which they are sent, and in a prescribed and uniform size for assembling.

MAY STOP PANAMA LINE.

Pacific Mail Company Demands a Larger Share in the Rates.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Secretary of War Dickinson has received notice from the Pacific Mail Steamship Company of its intention to withdraw the Panama service maintained by that company during the coming Summer unless more satisfactory arrangements as to the portion of the pro rata received from the traffic between San Francisco and New York can be made.

The company contemplates giving up the service because of its unremunerative character. The rate received on shipments from the west coast to the Isthmus and thence via the Panama Railroad and Steamshrip Company to New York is $8 per ton, of which the company has received $4.

E. A. Drake, the Vice President and General Manager of the Panama Railroad Company, is expected in Washington in a few days to talk with Secretary Dickinson about the matter.

NO FAVORS FOR NEW YORK.

Demand of Philadelphians in the Flour Discrimination Case.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The final hearing in charges of discrimination practiced by the railroads against Philadelphia and in favor of New York in flour shipments and storage of them was held to-day before the Inter-State Commerce Commission.

It was declared by James S. Rogers, counsel for the Philadelphia Commercial Exchange, that much of the testimony offered by the railroads was furnished by millers or warehouse men of Philadelphia who benefited by the discriminations. He said they formed a railroad coterie who were injuring the business of Philadelphia as a whole in order to prevent foreign flour from entering into competition with their own products.

He contended that Philadelphia had greater natural advantages than New York, therefore was entitled to reap the benfit of those advantages. He did not ask for any concessions that were not granted to New York, but he insisted that Philadelphia should not be penalized.

The railroad attorneys insisted that the ruling in the case of New York was rendered necessary by reason of the peculiar competitive conditions prevailing there. The right of the commission to intervene also was questioned, for the storage regulations, the attorneys insisted, were arrangements made at terminals, and as such did not enter into inter-State commerce.

Commissioner Lane took exception to this view of the case. The arguments then were declared closed and the case was taken under advisement.

LABOR LEADERS SEE TAFT.

He Will Discuss Their Demands with the Cabinet This Summer.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Samuel Gompers, President, and Frank Morrison, Secretary, of the American Federation of Labor, had a further conference with President Taft to-day regarding the various matters affecting organized labor, which were presented to the President by the Executive Council of the Federation when it was in session in this city several weeks ago. President Taft promised to take the matters up with members of his Cabinet during the Summer months.

Mr. Gompers will sail for Europe June 19 on the steamer Baltic and will be gone until some time in September. He will attend several labor congresses and make a general investigation of industrial conditions in Great Britain and the Continent. He has been informed that the Court of Appeals of the District of Columbia will not render a decision in the contempt cases, in which he is one of the defendents, until the October term.

"Our annual convention is to be held in November," said Mr. Gompers, "so I will get back in time either to attend it or go to jail. I would prefer to attend the convention."

AGED OFFICERS RELIEVED.

Admiral Goodrich and Four Others Lose Berths on Active List.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—Orders relieving five retired naval officers from active duty, in accordance with the policy of the new Administration, were issued to-day.

Rear Admiral Caspar S. Goodrich, formerly commandant of the New York Navy Yard, who was appointed General Inspector of Navy Yards and Naval Stations last January by Secretary Newberry to direct the unification of the operations at navy yards under the Newberry general plan for reorganization, has been ordered home. It is doubtful whether Secretary Meyer will designate any officer to fill the place.

The other retired officers relieved are Capts. W. Winder and J. L. Gow at the Boston Navy Yard, Charles Laird at the Washington Navy Yard, and C. G. Calkins at the Naval Training Station at Newport, R. I.

BOWLING CHAMPIONSHIPS.

Brunswicks of New York Win World's Title from Chicago Five.

The Brunswicks of New York defeated Thompson's Colts of Chicago last night at the National bowling championships in Madison Square Garden in a special five-man match for the championship of the world by a score of 8,298 to 7,888 for a series of nine games. The first three game were rolled last Saturday, the second string of three Monday, and the final games last night. The Brunswicks led from the start of the match, increasing the advantage steadily to the finish last night.

The best form in yesterday's play in the individual bowling championships was shown by C. Linsman of New York, who rolled a total of 652 for three games, which gives him fourth place in the race for the honors. His first two games showed over 200, the first being 213 and the second 256. Those watching him bowl thought that the high score for the tournament, which ties the world's record, was in danger, but Linsman fell down in his third game, getting a total of only 183.

There was no change in the leaders in the two-men event, the highest score of the day being made by Lee Johns and Weingarth of Newark, who rolled 1,184. This, however, did not come within striking distance of the five best records for the tournament.

The leaders in the three events are:

Individual, Three Games.—Edward Thompson, New York, 699; Charles Buonomo, Rochester, 671; Fred Hegeman, Brooklyn, 670; C. Linsman, New York, 652; H. J. Miller, 644; Paul Loetje, New York, 652; A. J. Gengenbach, Baltimore, 633.

Two Men Teams, Three Games.—Bowis and Windheim, Utica, 1,243; Carl and Haller, Brooklyn, 1,220; Helitas and Cohn, Brooklyn, 1,215; Smith and Gebhard, Buffalo, 1,211; Edwards and Weissert, Buffalo, 1,210.

Five-Men Teams, Three Games.—Corinthian, No. 8, New York, 2,899; Sunset, Brooklyn, 2,831; Ko Ko, New York, 2,810; Jamaica, Jamaica, L. I., 2,809; Bronx Central, No. 2, 2,804.

Special Five-Men Match for World's Championship, Nine Games, Three Nights' Play.—Brunswicks of New York (P. J. Riddell, G. Riddell, Watt, Johns, and Weingarth) defeated Thompson Colts of Chicago (Thompson, Keppler, Bolce, Flenner, and Woodbury) by a total of 8,298 to 7,888.

Special Match.—G. Jarrett of New York defeated W. Casey of New York by 5 games to 1 in a match for the best 5 out of 9 games.

NEW ENGLAND MILLS ASSAILED IN SENATE

Members from South and West Say They Seek Tariff Favors at Others' Expense.

FEAT OF MEMORY BY GORE

Repeats Many Difficult Statistics Without Prompting — La Follette Almost Overcome by the Heat.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—New England's demands for high tariff duties on its products came in for a general assault in the Senate to-day. Senator Gore cited large profits of cotton and woolen mills, Senator Nelson declared that the new schedules put up rates more than 20 per cent. on cotton manufactures, Senator La Follette attacked the Senate leaders for breaking the pledge to the country made by President Taft, and Senator Elkins made a protest against the effort to give high rates to New England and put low duties on products of the South.

When Mr. La Follette made his attack on the party leaders Senator Hale was the only leader present. He seemed perfectly indifferent, but it is understood that Senators from the Middle West, where the plea for revision downward was most strongly urged by Mr. Taft during the campaign, are expressing uneasiness to-night over the effect at home of Mr. La Follette's pointed remarks.

Mr. Gore astonished the Senate by a feat of memory. He cited a long list of cotton and woolen manufacturing companies and gave their earnings, capital stock, surplus, etc., in an effort to show that such corporations are making very large earnings.

In a rasping tone Mr. Gore said he did not blame the manufacturers for their large earnings.

"I know they are intelligent citizens," he said, "judging from their business success and from their selection of United States Senators."

He showed that the Troy Cotton and Woollen Company of Massachusetts had been advertised as earning 67 per cent. in 1907.

Mr. La Follette spoke two hours in vehement fashion and was then overcome by the heat. The Senate took a recess for fifteen minutes at one time to give him rest. He finally gave way to Senator Elkins, saying he would continue his speech to-morrow.

Senator Elkins spoke for reasonable duties on coal, oil, and lumber.

JURY FOR OLYMPIADS.

International Council Plans to Prevent Controversies at Games.

BERLIN, June 2.—The most important act of the International Council of the Olympian games, which has been in session here, was the recommendation of the principle of an international jury to decide the events in future Olympiads. The council took under consideration the unfortunate controversies that arose in London in 1908, and finally decided that it was wiser to introduce an international system of judging rather than leave this to the sole control of the country where the games take place. The Swedish representative accepted this view. The council, it is explained, did not act in a spirit of criticism of anything that happened in England; its opinion was that the contests could be conducted with greater good-will if they were under international control.

The Swedish committee has invited the participants in the games of 1912, which are to be held in Stockholm, to reside in Sweden during the period of training should they desire to do so.

Acorn's First Meet on Saturday.

The first annual games of the Acorn Athletic Association will take place on Saturday at Hawthorne Field. Martin Sheridan, Harry Porter, Harry Hillman, Gus Ekman, Tom Collins, and, in fact, almost every metropolitan, National, and Olympic champion in the East will be seen in competition. Sheridan, who at present is in training for the all-round championships which are scheduled to take place at Celtic Park on July 5, is on scratch in the shot put. The wonderful Celt, however, will compete in several other events.

Porter will make an attempt to lower the present world's record for the high jump.

Connie Smith Stops Bender.

In a bout scheduled to go ten rounds before the Sharkey Athletic Club, Columbus Avenue and Sixty-fifth Street, last night, Charlie Bender lasted into the fifth round and then willingly took the count and let the bout go to Connie Smith.

LARAMIE, Wyoming, June 2.—At last the rain and wind storm has ceased. I was awakened at 11 P. M. yesterday at 7 X. L. Ranch, where I received the best of care. Mr. William Acor, in the absence of Foreman Ashley Gleason, royally entertained me. The cook prepared a substantial meal, and at 12:15 A. M. Mr. Acor had my baggage on the wagon and I started over mountains and streams for Borie, a distance of 12 miles.

The weather was perfect and the moon shone brightly. Coyotes were howling a serenade as I walked across country, arriving at Borie at 3:15 A. M. I left Cheyenne, 10 miles northeast of this town, after thanking Mr. Acor and bidding him good-bye, and I was sorry to leave such a good fellow.

I continued to Hermosa, where I arrived at 12:45 P. M., 32 miles. I will eat a meal here and take a nap, arriving at Laramie at 7:30 P. M. The residents of towns, which are very far apart, showed great interest and wished me success. Nowhere was the hospitality shown me better than that among these noble ranchmen. Yesterday's distance walked was 9 miles, today 60, and grand total 2,667.

COLLEGE TEAMS SUSPENDED.

Leland Stanford and Colorado University Track Men Disciplined.

Major John J. Dixon, Chairman of the National Registration Committee of the Amateur Athletic Union, yesterday received a telegram from Bert Martin, Chairman of the Registration Committee of the Rocky Mountain Association, stating that his committee had declared professional the University of Colorado track team and the Leland Stanford University track team. The telegram states that the University of Colorado withdrew from the Rocky Mountain Association and held a meeting on the date set for the Rocky Meuntain Association championships, in defiance of the A. A. U., without sanction or registration.

The suspension of these two large college track teams will probably stir up a controversy in the West, as the Leland Stanford track team expects to compete in the Conference Meet at Chicago on June 5. Later in the season the A. A. U. championships will take place at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition Grounds, and of course the Stanford University and the University of Colorado teams will be barred from competition.

The A. A. U. rules will also prohibit any men who compete with the members of either of these teams from competing in the National championships. The disqualification will not prohibit the men competing in college games, but when they attempt to compete in A. A. U. or open events they will be barred.

Warning to Amateur Athletes.

All athletes who compete outside of New York City and receive traveling expenses, &c., will hereafter be required to live up to the rule which requires that an expense account be sent in to the Chairman of the Registration Committee. Failure to do so renders the athlete liable to suspension.

THE NEW WORLD.

It was not without deep significance that the raw troops of whom WASHINGTON took command in 1775 were called "The Continental Army," as the little body of representatives who gave him his commission called themselves "The Continental Congress." Our forefathers thought in terms of the continent, following the bent of the hardy and adventurous race from which they sprang. Long before the Revolution the English Government had fought a stubborn fight for the possession of all that was then known of the continent, and had embraced in its conquering sway the area between the Atlantic and the Mississippi. The people for whom the Congress and the army stood were but a scant three millions, holding a fringe of land between the Alleghanies and the sea, from Georgia northward to the Canadian border. But, in the spirit of their forebears, the Americans, their independence once gained, and their organization as a Nation completed, seized the first opportunity to push their frontier westward. The Louisiana Purchase, at the opening of the nineteenth century, gave them the wide valleys of the Missouri and the Arkansas, the chief tributaries of the Mississippi. Before the second decade had closed the Florida Purchase completed their seacoast line from the Bay of Fundy around to the Rio Grande, on the Gulf of Mexico. By the end of the half century war and negotiation had carried their boundary to the Pacific from Cape Flattery on the north to San Diego on the south. The haunting dream that had inspired the revolting colonists to give themselves the name of Continentals had in most marvelous degree been realized.

But more was to come. The titanic struggle made inevitable by the existence of slavery and the invention of the cotton gin—the struggle between the economic and moral forces of progress and of reaction—had hardly closed when the United States Government, under the guidance of Mr. SEWARD, who was deeply tinged with the grandiose spirit of the days of JEFFERSON and the Louisiana Purchase, bought from Russia the Territory of Alaska, a great square patch at the extreme northwest corner of the continent, practically uninhabited, and, so far as was then known, probably uninhabitable by civilized men. A wilder speculation than it appeared to be could hardly be imagined, and the only plausible explanation of it at the time was that it was an indirect way of turning into the Treasury of Russia a sum that would to some extent repay her for her friendliness during the civil war. How different it appears to us now. How far more different it is bound to appear to our children and their children. The Alaskan Territory, with the islands scattered southward along the coast, is already known to be the site of great deposits of precious metals, and not millions but hundreds of millions of dollars are seeking their development on a scale and with an elaborateness of system without precedent in economic and industrial history. Transportation problems are being worked out based on long looks ahead. Varied resources are constantly discovered and capital summoned to their exploitation. At the opening of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition on Tuesday it fell to Mr. J. J. HILL to express with sober eloquence the distinctive character of the series of events of which the exposition is the symbolic culmination:

> Most of the expositions of the past had a historic motive. It is a sign of development when we move away from dependence on some past fact and celebrate instead the general sweep of such forces as make for future progress. The Nation to-day faces forward, not backward. Such is the genius of the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition. It is expressed in its very name; beginning with the furthest, newest, and least developed district of our National domain, covering a coast that reaches from well within the Arctic circle to near the tropics, and embracing all the mystery and might that have been suggested by the word "Pacific" for nearly 400 years.

But it is not expansion and advance alone that the exposition celebrates. It is evolution. What industry and intelligence and capital can do in the advancement of the boundaries of enterprise and commerce is but the foundation of a modern system that multiplies indefinitely the value of what is acquired. Over a very large part of the territory gained since the opening of the last century modern methods of culture, irrigation, fertilization, conservation, are disclosing and rendering available riches such as the most fertile soils of the early days could not yield. This vast increment—not unearned, but due to the trained imagination and the tireless research of an army of scientists—may well be found to exceed in usefulness to the race the wealth of the East so much envied in the near past. And as it is surely worked out and applied by the population it will invite, great changes will ensue in the political and social conditions of the country. The centre of gravity passes steadily westward, and as it passes new ideas, new sentiments, ambitions, standards of conduct are evolved. To the observer schooled in the study of human affairs as they have been the possibilities thus opened may well seem puzzling; but if he have the courage to trace the direction in which the movement has proceeded and is now going, it is the reverse of discouraging.

THE "ROGUES' GALLERY."

Making allowance for the sensational manner of their preferment and for one vital omission of fact, the charges lodged with the Mayor by Justice GAYNOR against Police Commissioner BINGHAM seem serious, and cannot, in the public interest, be safely disregarded. When the Brooklyn police photographed GEORGE B. DUFFY for the "Rogues' Gallery" on June 17, 1907, they proceeded without warrant of law. They disobeyed the Charter, which requires that, immediately after arrest, an accused prisoner shall be taken "before the nearest sitting Magistrate." It is the intent of this provision that guilt shall be proved or innocence vindicated without delay. In first subjecting DUFFY to the rogues' ordeal the police perpetrated an act which the Supreme Court in Brooklyn has in a similar case declared to be "not only unlawful but criminal in character."

That fact, the fact that DUFFY was not even accused of a crime, and that the charge of being a "suspicious character" was dismissed, should have inclined Commissioner BINGHAM to return to him the photographs illegally taken. In the case of Gow Justice BURR pointed out that the Charter provides the penalty of fine and dismissal for officers guilty of such invasion of the rights of a private citizen, and that proper redress may be had in their prosecution for assault and a civil action for damages.

The subsequent arrests and indignities to which DUFFY was subjected were in a measure aggravations of the first offense. He was officiously placed in a cell over night and discharged the next morning with a suspended sentence for "obstructing the street." He was charged with assault and highway robbery on an identification made through the picture in question, which was found to be mistaken when his accuser confronted him. He was rearrested upon another charge of assault and robbery, and discharged. He was arrested last Sunday upon a charge of vagrancy, and again discharged. These repeated arrests upon insufficient grounds tend to show that other considerations than his own behavior—perhaps the consideration, chiefly, of his figuring in the "Rogues' Gallery"—determined the conduct of the police.

The police record shows that DUFFY was an associate of men who have been indicted and sentenced to prison; that he testified in defense of one of them in court. This fact Justice GAYNOR omits to mention. If the record is a true one, DUFFY has himself largely to blame for his misfortunes. But the police are not absolved for their arbitrary methods, which might be employed with malice and without restraint against any individual, however innocent.

The safety of the community requires that a "Rogues' Gallery" be kept for the purpose of identifying criminals who are at large and prisoners accused of heinous crimes who may escape. But the police have no shadow of right, either in law or in common sense, to photograph for this purpose any person who is not accused of crime. If a person accused even of murder is acquitted, the law now requires specifically that the photographs "and all duplicates and copies thereof" shall be returned to him. Although it is not retroactive in this case, it is a just law, and Mr. BINGHAM may act in accordance therewith at his discretion.

ARBITRATION.

An arbitration to be binding either on the conscience or the reason must include all the parties, and all their dispute. But how can such an arbitration be framed in the case of that third party—the public—which is habitually ignored in industrial disputes? In the anthracite coal arbitration, for instance, there was no representation of the buyers of coal, and the Nation has paid an increased price for its coal for six years as a consequence. In the Philadelphia street car strike the payers of the fares will not be represented in any suppositious arbitration between the employers and the employés, yet they are striking against their inadequate facilities as certainly as the strikers are striking against the inadequacy of their wages.

This omission of the third party is especially noteworthy in the case of the negro firemen in Georgia, and is remarked even in the Southern press. How are the mobs which stoned the trains with negro firemen to be included in the arbitration, and how can the findings be enforced against them? It cannot be left to the Governor of the State to enforce the law and keep the peace. According to The Augusta Chronicle:

> For days HOKE SMITH, now serving out the last days in the office of Chief Executive, which he has disgraced, has not merely temporized with one of the most serious conditions of lawlessness and disorder that ever confronted any State, but has, by his passive attitude, encouraged, aided, and abetted the mob in practically every conceivable way. There is, indeed, a well-defined opinion that his attitude was something worse than passive; certainly it was the logical outcome of his former campaigns of railroad and negro baiting—upon which unworthy issue alone he climbed into temporary power in Georgia.

Comment is similar in the press of neighboring States. For example, The Columbia (S. C.) State criticises the only newspaper in Georgia which has taken an attitude different from that of The Augusta Chronicle and called its attention "to the stern necessity of enforcing the law and preserving the peace—whether the Georgia Railroad chose to use negro or white firemen."

It is encouraging to find even the Southern press contending that some things can not and should not be arbitrated, even in a dispute regarding negro labor. They are all but agreed that there is no question of social equality involved in industrial equality, and that the latter is the negro's right. Conditions of employment may be arbitrated, but not questions of humanity, and enforcement of the law. These are among those vital rights which the most ardent arbitrator would except from arbitration, and would enforce against the mobbers of railway trains by the militia if necessary. The anarchy in Georgia has a significance far worse for the whites than for the blacks, in the opinion of The Chronicle, and it is not a small thing that this thought finds expression in the Southern press.

A LARGER CHILDREN'S COURT.

The New York Society for the Prevention of Cruelty to Children is supporting the efforts of Justice HOTT to obtain improved accommodations for the Children's Court. The depressing scene on Tuesday, when 227 juvenile offenders were crowded into the stuffy courtroom at Third Avenue and Eleventh Street, made the necessity for new quarters quite apparent. Justice HOTT's photograph of that jam of youngsters will be used—effectively, we hope—in trying to induce the Board of Estimate and Apportionment to provide relief.

It is urged by those acquainted with the court's needs that the extension of the old building of the College of the City of New York, at Twenty-third Street and Lexington Avenue, could be made immediately available. The present quarters were adequate when the court was opened eight years ago, but its work has far outgrown the expectations of its projectors. The Children's Court has been of service to this community. It should be accommodated.

GOOD NEWS FOR BATHERS.

The public rage for cleanliness has worked results of importance to holiday makers. Our New Jersey friends have been prone to think that their bathing beaches were defiled by New York's sewage and garbage. But their officials have found it better to produce results by work at home than to excuse inaction by blaming their neighbors. The New Jersey Health Commissioner of the Division of Sewage announces that:

> Disposal plants have been or are being installed at Point Pleasant, State Camp at Sea Girt, Spring Lake, Bradley Beach, Ocean Grove, Asbury Park, and Deal, and these will be all in operation by June 1.
>
> As yet Belmar and Avon have not commenced work upon their system, and it is possible and probable that "moral suasion" will have to join hands with the Court of Chancery to expedite matters there.

It follows, therefore, that all the way from Deal to Bay Head bathers may bathe without fear of being less clean by doing so. The advances in developing methods of public sanitation inspire wonder that the effort was not made sooner.

CANNIBALISM AS A SCIENCE.

It was THOMAS DE QUINCEY who considered the possibilities of murder as a fine art, and Dr. OSLER cracked the joke about chloroforming the middle-aged. Now Dr. FREDERICK GOWLAND (GHOULAND?) HOPKINS avers in a lecture on dietetics before the Royal Institution that "the most sensible person choosing an effective protein is a cannibal. In consuming his own kind he is eating exactly the right kind of stuff." A chemist at Heidelberg has ascertained that dogs fed on the flesh of their species do with smaller amounts of the protein it supplies than with any other protein.

Are not the dietetists engaged in an ogrish plot? We now regard Dr. OSLER's remark with a new and more horrible misgiving. And what was Dr. RUSSELL H. CHITTENDEN hinting at last year when he observed that "blood from different species varies"; that each species of animal probably possesses blood characterized by a "personal coefficient" in the constitution of its proteins, and that this determines its individuality? Would he strengthen the personal coefficient and develop the individuality by gastronomic experiments upon the individual's kindred? Or perhaps Prof. CHITTENDEN, Dr. HOPKINS, and Dr. OSLER have clubbed together to perfect a more scientific human dietary on the basis of the superfluous individuals over 60—to convert them more readily than beef and mutton into their hydrolytic decomposition products of proteins, their diamino-acids, arginine, lysine, and histidine, together with alanine, proline, cystine, tryptophane, and the rest, which, they say, form the material of our tissues. We don't know what all this terminology signifies, but it only heightens our suspicions. We recommend that, pending a careful investigation into their recent acts and designs, all physiological chemists be caught and caged.

TOPICS OF THE TIMES.

Mr. Speaker Should Name Him.

In the June Century Mr. CANNON discusses with characteristic ingenuity and vigor "The Power of the Speaker," and succeeds in brilliantly demonstrating—for those who will take his presentation of the case as being not less complete than accurate—that the ruler of the House is a humble slave of the majority, and that the much-criticised rules, instead of being instruments of tyranny, are benign devices for guiding the ship of State through the flood of useless or dangerous bills into the harbor of safe and necessary legislation.

Of course there is much to be said for that view—by those who are in just the right situation to see it—and doubtless the Speaker is right in his assertion that the "outs" denounce the "ins" for doing just about what would be done if the "outs" and the "ins" changed places. What particularly interested us in the article, however, was a passage in which Mr. CANNON, with what we fear was an attempt at revenge on his more vehement critics, revealed two episodes in his long and varied experience. He writes:

> A New York publisher conducts a campaign against the Speaker and the House rules, and at the same time sends his confidential agent to the Speaker's friends with a demand for an appropriation of $50,000 from the Federal Treasury for his own pet project. Another publisher, childlike in his frankness, comes direct to the Speaker's room in person with a proposition to turn the whole newspaper press of the country over to support any ambition the Speaker may have, if he will secure just one desired piece of legislation, and the threat that he will turn this terrible engine of publicity against the Speaker if he refuses.

It is a safe guess that the first reference is to Mr. COLLIER and the Lincoln Farm, and no crime, offense, or even indelicacy seems to be made out, since the object was worthy and the means both necessary and honest. But who was the other man? That, now, is a question which staggers imagination, to say nothing of reason and knowledge. We have ourselves vainly tried to put the Speaker's cap on several journalistic and near-journalistic heads, but haven't yet found one it is likely—that is, very likely—to fit. So we beg Mr. CANNON to be kind and tell us and the rest of the world the name of the man who made that amazingly foolish offer and threat. It is really his duty to do so, and the performance of the duty would be such fun—which isn't often true of duties!

Not a Hopeful Case for a Contest.

That relatives will appear to contest the strange disposition made of her little fortune by BRIDGET TORPY can safely be held as certain, but it is a matter of some doubt whether they will succeed in breaking her will.

On first consideration of the facts in the case they seem to provide the adequate basis for a winning contest, for, on general principles, it is highly improbable that an old Irishwoman in the full possession of her senses and not subjected to influences in some way or other "undue" would leave to a negro the entire savings of a lifetime, during which economy had been carried to the point of miserliness. The two races are as a rule unsympathetic, and even antagonistic, and rarely, indeed, does the relation of fellow-servant, which was that of BRIDGET TORPY and her dark legatee, lead to anything more like friendship than an armed and precarious peace. Usually the result is open war.

In this case, however, the circumstances were peculiar. The woman, after serving a single family as cook for twenty-seven years, during which she had received $11,000 as wages without ever having been known to spend a cent, became the victim of cancer, and, as her employer is quoted as saying, "she was prevailed upon to leave the house for a time." There was desperate tragedy for the old woman in that euphemism, for she doubtless knew how long the "time" would be. Densely ignorant and utterly inexperienced as to the uses of money, which she knew only as something to be put in savings banks, she seems to have made several experiments with lonely rooms in the neighborhood of her old home, and then was heard of as living in a house occupied by negroes.

One of them had been her assistant in the kitchen for years. Whatever his motive, he had taken her in and kept her till she died. In the will by which she gave him all her money, some $30,000, one reads that it is to go "to JAMES EDWARD JOHNSON as a token of regard for his kindness." The explanation shows no obvious lack of sufficiency. There are cousins in Ireland, it is said. Of course there are, but apparently JAMES EDWARD JOHNSON'S claim to BRIDGET TORPY'S money is better than theirs, even though he is no relative and a negro.

Mr. Bailey and the Alamo Democrats.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

It is a conceded fact here that our Joe is the most colossal grand-stand player in America.

To the non-thinking element he is a wonderful man; to the trust advocate he is a power, but many, many thousand lifelong honest Democrats of the great State of Texas repudiate him and refuse to go near him on account of the strong odor of kerosene.

Let the Nation know that the genuine, decent Democrats of the Alamo State refuse to stand for Bailey or Baileyism. T. F. THOMPSON.

A Type of Open Car.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

If your contributor, "Open Car," is desirous of escaping the displeasures of closed cars in Summer, I suggest that he patronize some "open" antiques in use on the Staten Island trolley, which have neither front nor rear protections, and no side curtains—an evolution of the flat car of commerce. I suppose this equipment is acceptable to the Honorable Public Service Commission, but when it rains you get wet top and bottom. Not pleasant, I assure you.

Rubber-Tired Locomotives.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

As a matter of information, will you tell me why there is such a furore in regard to the Central's tracks on Eleventh Avenue? Surely, with rubber-tired locomotives flitting about the streets at more than ordinary railroad speed there should be little objection to the slow-moving engines traveling along a fixed line on the Eleventh Avenue rails. EXECUTIVE HEADS.

Responsibility Concentrated Would Make Their Stewardship Accountable.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

You have recently reported an appearance of Mr. Jerome at the Cooper Union making answer to questions addressed to him by a promiscuous audience upon matters relating to his official administration. The result was most interesting and instructive, and so far as appears, Mr. Jerome offered almost complete defence of his work.

But there are inferences to be made of very much greater interest and importance which may be summed up under the head of executive responsibility. Let us suppose that the executive branch of the Government was constructed in organized and efficient form, with one man, Governor in the State or Mayor in the city, at the head, with a single head of every department under him, all appointed and removable at his discretion and all subordinates emanating through them from him in the same manner. Then suppose that the Legislature, or the city Council, should be made to correspond with the audience at the Cooper Union, and that the chief executive officials should be required to be in constant attendance before them, to answer questions and give an account of their stewardship from day to day. A larger audience would be furnished in the inhabitants and voters of the State or city, kept constantly informed by the newspapers. In this way the whole course of executive administration would be open all the time to public inspection and criticism. Every man in every place would be personally responsible for the work of his department, and all this responsibility would be concentrated in the Governor or Mayor, to be enforced in the elections by public opinion.

Is not the parallel perfectly obvious? That is the way to make our Government continuous, coherent, and logical in place of the utter chaos following from a paralyzed executive and omnipotent representative body and a disappearance of all responsibility in impersonal Legislatures, committees, and commissions.

Of course this is a result not easily brought about. But the first thing is to make people thoroughly understand it and evolve leaders who can guide them toward definite action. Mr. Jerome deserves the thanks of the whole country, and not for the first time, in thus pointing out the real highway to the reform of our political evils.

LUCY STONE.

Her Influence as a Mother and in Public Affairs.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

Very many of your readers must have shared my keen regret that the reticence proper and fitting in a daughter precluded Alice Stone Blackwell in her letter in your issue of to-day on "Mothers Worth Minding" from illustrating her position by reference to that incomparable woman—her own mother, Lucy Stone.

For in Mrs. Stone's life is to be found the most beautiful example and illustration of the truth that active participation in public matters does not unsex a woman or unfit her for the due exercise of her function as wife and mother. Her husband tried to express this by saying:

> She was a woman who in her whole character and life most fully embodied our highest conception as daughter, sister, wife, mother, friend, and citizen. Only those who knew her in her own home could realize fully what she was, not only as a reformer, but as a woman, a wife, and a mother.

Mrs. Livermore described her as "a marvellous housekeeper, a devoted wife, a glorious mother," and Garrison said:

> When hostile critics dwelt on the ruin of family life and the masculine characteristics sure to be developed by the participation of women in politics or reform, we could rest secure in such examples of domestic life as hers; as the unselfish devotion to one's fellow-creatures could bring aught but blessings to the home.

Not alone to-day, but each time that I read one of those letters of Alice Stone Blackwell, which at once illumine and dignify any discussion of the woman question, does the memory of Lucy Stone arise, and her gracious figure still seems, as of yore, in the van.

BENJAMIN MACMAHON.

"In Her Own Hands."

To the Editor of The New York Times:

I beg to recall attention to the last sentence in the letter of Margaret Doane Gardiner, entitled "Woman's Logic," wherein are reproduced Mrs. Corbin's words: "The woman has under God the forming and rearing of men in her own hands." Permit me to say that a grander truth never was spoken." In one little sentence we have the whole story of the world's sorrows. Mrs. Corbin shows how neglectful woman has been of her God-given opportunities.

PRESIDENT BUTLER.

His Fitness for the Ambassadorship to Great Britain.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The report of President Butler's possible appointment to the Embassy to Great Britain fills all thinking men with the hopes of peace. President Butler's friendship to England is too well known to require any comments in your columns. The friendship that he has evinced toward Germany in all directions forms so striking an instance of his complete fitness for such a post that if it lies in the power of your paper to urge his acceptance of this position I trust you will use your best endeavors in this direction.

The position of Europe from the various cables and reports that one reads seems to be exceedingly unstable, owing to the military and naval preparations of both England and Germany. President Butler's close knowledge of the situation and his friendship for both countries might, in the near future, be of inestimable value to the countries I have mentioned and to humanity at large. His great tact and ability fit him essentially for this high position, which he could fill with dignity and great benefit to this country. I trust we shall soon hear of President Butler's appointment being ratified from Washington.

Murder in the First Degree.

To the Editor of The New York Times:

The penal section on which Darragh was tried is so new that in the first edition of the Revised Statutes, published June 1, 1829, you will find in Volume II., Page 657, Section 5, "Such killing * * * shall be murder in the following cases:

"2. When perpetrated by an act imminently dangerous to others and evincing a depraved mind regardless of human life, although without any premeditated design to effect the death of any particular individual."

How much earlier this section was the law of New York I have not taken the trouble to investigate, but it probably dates from a remote period, and has certainly been the law ever since 1829. P. L. HOUSEL.

SONG OF THE MEN OF FIFTY.

We are the men of fifty,
Two score years and ten,
Employers keen and nifty
Call us poor old men.
We are the Have Beens grizzled,
We are the Failures gray,
We are the Boys that fizzled,
Wrecks of yesterday.
We are the Osler Brothers,
Here's to the Doctor's health!
Here's to our wives and mothers!
Here's to the nation's wealth!
So, stand to your glasses ready—
Ready to win the prize;
Death is the job that's steady—
Hurrah! for the next that dies.

WALTER BEVERLEY CRANE.

JUDGE COOPER'S WILL FILED.

Bulk of His Estate of $300,000 Goes to His Five Sisters and Three Brothers.

A copy of the will and ancillary letters of ex-Judge William Frierson Cooper of Tennessee, who died in his apartments at the Wilbraham, Fifth Avenue and Thirtieth Street on May 7, at the age of 90, were filed with the Surrogate yesterday by his brother, Edmund Cooper, who is named as chief executor. The estate is valued at not more than $300,000.

Mr. Cooper's brother, Col. Duncan H. Cooper, together with his son, Robin J. Cooper, were recently convicted, and are now out on bail pending an appeal for the murder of Senator E. W. Carmack of Tennessee. Col. Cooper, together with five sisters and two brothers, share in the residue of the estate, but the testator expressly stated that "the share of my brother, Duncan B. Cooper, is devised and bequeathed to him in trust for the benefit of himself and his family during his life, and for the benefit of his wife and children after his death, and then to go to the children of the said Duncan B. Cooper, and I will and devise that neither the property nor the income shall be liable for the debts of the said Duncan B. Cooper existing at my death or subsequently contracted."

To Christine Cooper, daughter of Henry Cooper, a deceased brother, is left $10,000, and each of the children of Edmund Cooper and a sister, Mary A. Sanson, will receive $2,500. Out of his United States bond holdings it is provided that his friend, G. T. Colt, is to be paid an annuity of $200. To Eldridge Cooper during his life and to his present wife during her life, if she survive him, is left an annuity of $200. Booker Cooper also is to receive $100 a year. The will provided that these annuities be paid to the persons named respectively, and to no one else. "They are not to be anticipated or assigned and are not liable for the debts of the respective annuitants existing at my death or subsequently contracted." The residue of the entire estate, after payment of the legacies, and expenses, is bequeathed in equal shares to his five sisters and three brothers, and the children of a deceased sister, Fannie Milner, the children taking jointly one share. The will is dated July 4, 1890.

By a codicil made soon afterward, occasioned by the death of his sister Emma, he provided that her share should be divided among his brothers, sisters, and the Milner children, and that his niece, Christine Cooper, should have $15,000 in addition to what was given her by the will. The will is filed and recorded in the County Court House of Davidson County, Tennessee.

Mr. Cooper was a bachelor and had lived in New York since he gave up active practice of the law. He was a Yale graduate, class of 1837, and his tutor there was Alonzo Taft, father of President Taft.

SEATTLE STILL HILL'S PORT.

Great Northern Liner Not to Run to Canada—Wants Congress to Adjourn.

SEATTLE, Wash., June 2.—James J. Hill, Chairman of the Great Northern board, spent the greater part of yesterday and last evening at the Alaska-Yukon-Pacific Exposition and went on to Tacoma and Portland to-day.

"The steamship Minnesota is going to make its home port here," said Mr. Hill. "There are advantages under the British flag which American ships do not enjoy, yet I will say that the terminal of the Great Northern steamers will not be at Vancouver.

"If Congress would only adjourn for four or five years, and not only leave the tariff, but other matters, alone, the country would make splendid progress on the natural lines resultant from prosperity. I cannot, nor will I, say anything about lumber questions beyond the fact that it has occasioned an uneasiness among the lumbermen that is not deserved.

"The Great Northern has mapped out a programme of railroad building that eventually will make a connection between Spokane and Vancouver, and betterments will be made on all lines reaching Seattle when needed."

HUGHES TALKS AT BROWN.

Declares That Cure for Evils Lies with the College Men.

PROVIDENCE, June 2.—Gov. Charles E. Hughes of New York talked to Brown University students at chapel to-day. Gov. Hughes came here yesterday to visit his son, C. E. Hughes, Jr., a Brown senior, who is convalescing from spinal meningitis.

"What Roosevelt is to Harvard, what Taft is to Yale, Gov. Hughes is to Brown," said President W. H. P. Faunce when he introduced the speaker.

Gov. Hughes said in part:

"The duty of the young American is to play the game of life as you play it in college, with a friendly regard for those about you. A college training teaches a man to be independent, free, and an intellectual slave to no one. The hope of the country lies in the college man remaining true to himself. Do not get into a position where a man can tell you that you must do this or that for him, whether it is right or wrong. Such a position is easy to get into, but it means failure.

"People are just the same to-day as in the days of Plato, and it is the college man that is depended upon to determine where these troubles lie and to teach others how to get around them."

At the conclusion of his address Gov. Hughes was cheered heartily.

CAN ARMY AUTO BE TAXED $2?

Secretary of State Koenig Asks War Auditor for His Opinion.

ALBANY, N. Y., June 2.—Secretary of State Koenig was asked to-day to decide whether or not the United States Government should pay New York State $2 as a registration fee for an automobile used by the Quartermaster's Department, United States Army, in New York City. In a letter to Secretary Koenig, Major E. P. Brewer says the request for the registration of the machine is not accompanied by the usual fee, for the reason that the auditor of the War Department at Washington recently held in a similar case that the payment of such a fee by the Federal Government is illegal, on the ground that the fee is a State tax, and not properly chargeable against the United States.

Replying to Major Brewer, Secretary Koenig holds that the fee of $2, exacted by the State from owners of automobiles, is not in reality a tax, but merely a license; that the State is giving the Government something for identification purposes, and therefore the fee is merely incidental and not in any sense a tax.

"We are enclosing metal seal for said machine," said Mr. Koenig, "to avoid delaying or embarrassing your department, but in the meantime would ask that you submit this communication to the auditor of the War Department with the request for an opinion from him."

BROOKLYN HOME'S NEW HEAD.

Miss F. M. Perkins Succeeds Miss Smith in Institution for Consumptives.

Miss F. M. Perkins, who for six years was in charge of a sanitarium for consumptives in Asheville, N. C., took charge yesterday as the new superintendent of the Brooklyn Home for Consumptives, succeeding Miss Elise P. Smith, who, with her assistant and the staff of ten physicians, resigned because of differences with Mrs. Franklin W. Hopkins, President of the Board of Managers of the home.

Mrs. Hopkins said yesterday that the board was getting together a new staff of physicians and that she expected to announce their names in a few days. She denied that she had refused to follow the recommendations of the physicians as to the conduct of the home.

"I never opposed my opinion to theirs," said Mrs. Hopkins. "I have never even been served with a formal notice of what they complain of. This episode will not hurt the home in any way."

HITCHCOCK AND MACK TO TESTIFY ON LIBEL

Government Delays Panama Case to Get Witnesses—Will Call J. P. Morgan's Employes.

JUDGE LEANS TO DEFENSE

Declares Cromwell's Refusal to Answer Senate Committee Gave Reason for Suspicion of Deal.

INDIANAPOLIS, Ind., June 2.—After a sharp controversy, in which the court took a prominent part over the merits of the "Panama scandal," the Government succeeded to-day in getting a continuance until Oct. 11 on its plea for the removal to Washington of Charles R. Williams and Delavan Smith, owners of The Indianapolis News, to answer an indictment for criminal libel in publishing intimations that there was an enormous graft in the purchase of the Panama Canal by the United States.

Judge Anderson continued the case on the plea that the prosecution wishes to introduce as witnesses Frank H. Hitchcock, ex-Chairman of the Republican National Committee; Norman E. Mack, Chairman of the Democratic National Committee; George B. Cortelyou, certain members of the office staff of J. Pierpont Morgan & Co., and certain officers of various departments of the Government at Washington.

Stuart McNamara, Assistant District Attorney at Washington, and United States Attorney Charles W. Miller of this district at the opening of court asked for the continuance, saying that since the court had decided to hear evidence on the merits of the indictment before making the order the matter had taken a wider scope than they were prepared for.

Judge Criticises Cromwell.

The court said counsel should have anticipated his action and should have been prepared. Commenting on the Panama situation in general, he said he thought the public had a right to question the conditions of the transfer of the canal because of William Nelson Cromwell's course before the Senate Investigating Committee.

"This forty millions of dollars that was paid for the canal," said the court, "was the public's money, you must remember. A part of it was my money, a part of it was yours."

He said that he himself was impressed by the fact that Mr. Cromwell had refused to tell the Senate Investigating Committee the names of his clients, who composed a syndicate for "Americanizing" the canal, a plan that afterward was abandoned. The public might justly infer, the court said, that there was something wrong somewhere in the transaction in which $40,000,000 of its money was expended.

He further said it was his personal impression that at the time of the Walker Commission's inquiry into the comparative merits of the Panama and the Nicaraguan routes, "the people that knew all about canal matters" had a "quick, sudden" change of heart from the Nicaragua route to the Panama route.

Mr. Miller suggested that the commission favored the Panama route but recommended the Nicaragua route because of the enormous price asked for the Panama property.

Judge Anderson said he was not speaking of a commission, but of those persons about Washington and elsewhere who were interesting themselves in a South American canal.

Mr. McNamara combated the court on this point, saying that the fact that Mr. Cromwell subsequently declared that no American received a cent of profit from the sale and that other prominent men and newspapers had absolved Mr. Cromwell, Charles P. Taft, Douglas Robinson, and J. Pierpont Morgan from suspicion of corruption in the matter should have caused the owners of The Indianapolis News not to publish the charges in the alleged libelous manner in which it did publish them.

What Prosecution Will Prove.

He said he purposed to prove by Messrs. Hitchcock and Mack that they both had made public announcements that the "story" had been offered to both of them for a consideration, but it was a "fake" originated by blackmailers who had hoped to get money from William Nelson Cromwell, but failed. The story was published in The New York World and the same journal printed Mr. Cromwell's denial of it on Oct. 3. Mr. McNamara said he expected to prove that the defendants had knowledge of the denial when they prepared the editorial articles published later in The Indianapolis News.

Members of J. P. Morgan's staff were to be summoned to show the receipts the company gave to the United States for the $40,000,000, the purchase price of the canal, and the receipts given by the French companies for the payment for the securities sold to the United States.

Counsel held that these two sets of receipts would show that no American "go-between" received a cent of profit; that the deal was a clean piece of business, as Mr. Cromwell told the Senate committee. As a matter of fact, he declared, the money was divided among about 220,000 French stockholders.

WASHINGTON, June 2. — Postmaster General Hitchcock, former Chairman of the National Republican Committee, would not discuss to-day the Government's libel suit in connection with the Panama Canal purchase.

"I have received no intimation whatever from the attorneys in charge of the case that my testimony was desired, and naturally I don't care to make any statement regarding the matter until I receive formal notice," said he.

JUNE BRIDES' DAY IN NEW YORK SOCIETY

Miss Nathalie Chauncey Weds Seth Low Pierrepont — Miss Georgiana Kent a Bride.

HEROY-FISHER NUPTIALS

Guy Barrington Hutchings and Miss Elizabeth Erwin Married in Grace Church—Other Weddings.

Many weddings of interest to New York society were celebrated yesterday.

Seth Low Pierrepont, Third Secretary of the American Embassy at Paris and a son of Henry Evelyn Pierrepont of Brooklyn, and Miss Nathalie Chauncey, only daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elihu Chauncey, were married at 4 o'clock yesterday afternoon in Old Trinity Church, lower Broadway. They wore large hats with pink plumes on one side and pastel colored pews at the other. All carried pink sweet peas.

The bride, who walked with her father, wore a trained white satin gown, with point lace, and a point lace veil, held with orange blossoms.

Mr. Pierrepont's best man was his brother, Stuyvesant Pierrepont.

MISS FULLERTON WEDS.

Husband Is Not Wealthy, and They Will Live in a Suburb.

Special to The New York Times.

ST. LOUIS, June 2.—Miss Mary Morgan Fullerton, known as the richest girl in this city, was married to-night to Paul Bakewell, Jr., a young attorney, at her home in Westminster Place. The ceremony was a simple affair, at which Father Matthew McMenamy officiated, the bride having consented to a Catholic marriage out of deference to the wishes of the bridegroom's family. She was attended by Miss Dorothy Shapleigh, as maid of honor, and Misses Eleanor Fowler of New York and Irene Bond, Louise Thayer, and Marie Bakewell as bridesmaids. A large reception was held after the ceremony.

The bride is a daughter of Gen. Joseph S. Fullerton, who was killed ten years ago in a railroad accident, and is a grandniece of J. Pierpont Morgan. Since the death of her uncle, Humphrey Fullerton, a year ago, she has controlled her own fortune. When her engagement to Mr. Bakewell was announced she started to furnish a handsome new home for them, but Mr. Bakewell, by no means wealthy, objected, saying that was his prerogative. The couple will live in Kirkwood, a suburb.

Mrs. Bakewell has been much in the public eye since the announcement of her engagement, and her independence and originality have attracted much attention.

WYNDHAM ARRIVES.

Chiefly Anxious to See "The Blue Mouse," but Will Play for All That.

Sir Charles Wyndham, the English actor, arrived here yesterday on the Cunard liner Caronia, accompanied by Miss Mary Moore, his leading woman, who has been connected with Sir Charles's theatres for twenty years. He has consented to appear at the Empire Theatre in "The Mollusc" with Miss Moore for the two weeks beginning Monday, June 7.

Sir Charles was told that the members of his London company had been summoned by cable and were following him on the Lusitania, which arrives to-morrow morning.

"What a wonderful country," said he.

With regard to his own plans he said he had come over to America for two weeks' vacation with the object of seeing "The Blue Mouse" and relatives on this side of the water.

"I bought the play last Summer," he said, "as I thought it might be a suitable farce for Miss Moore to appear in, but when I saw it afterward in Vienna and Berlin I was disappointed. After "The Blue Mouse" made such a hit in this city I decided to come over and see if the American version was any better than those I had seen. On my return to England I shall go by way of the Mediterranean to get a good rest, as we had bad weather this time from the day we left Queenstown."

Sir Charles Wyndham served as a surgeon in the Federal Army in the civil war and went through the Red River campaign. He is a member of a Grand Army of the Republic post in Rochester, N. Y. At the concert on board the liner he entertained "Kitty of Coleraine," and Miss Moore recited a humorous piece entitled "The Usual Way."

The last visit he paid to this country was in 1905.

BLAME PROHIBITION FOR EXCESS OF DRINK

Beer Hailed as an Agency for Temperance by the Brewers' Association President.

DR. PETERS URGES REFORMS

Courts Here Responsible for Failure of Excise Laws, He Tells Brewers' Convention at Atlantic City.

Special to The New York Times.

ATLANTIC CITY, June 2.—Lager beer, as one of the most potent agencies for temperance in this country, was put forward to-day by President Julius Liebmann in his annual address before the United States Brewers' Association, in convention at the Hotel Shelburne here, with 1,500 brewers in attendance.

"We brewers," declared President Liebmann, "may look forward to two things that are absolutely certain, namely: (1) that whenever prosperity returns it will increase our production unless unwise laws prevents its growth; (2) that the more our industry prospers the less will drunkenness prevail in our country." After reciting the contention of writers that the extraordinary increases in the manufacture of beer in 1906 and 1907 was indicative of excessive individual indulgence, resulting in a wider spread drunkenness, President Liebmann exclaimed:

"The argument fell flat because all unbiased students of the matter agree and statistics prove that, as a nation, we are progressing steadily in the direction of sobriety, saye only in localities where prohibition fosters and stimulates excesses. The era of temperate habits began with the impetus our trade received from the revenue system; nothing short of prohibition or local option can end it."

President Liebmann expressed the opinion that prosperous men rarely become drunkards, but that it is the men who suffer from physical ailments and are harassed by adversity who drink to excess. He declared that sociologists everywhere now recognize that poverty is more often the cause of drunkenness than the effect.

Other notable features of the convention were addresses by the Rev. Dr. John P. Peters of New York, John A. Koren, a well-known statistician and author, of Boston, and George Mullen of Pennsylvania, and the annual report of the Board of Trustees of the association.

In presenting Dr. Peters, whom he described as a rational reformer, President Liebmann disclaimed for the association responsibility for the Raines law in New York, saying that the brewers opposed its enactment, advocating the Crosby Commission bill instead.

Dr. Peters frankly declared that the liquor dealers had themselves to thank for many of the vices attached to the traffic. He said that in New York City the brewers were responsible for the growth of gambling and other vices through their methods of doing business.

"Our courts in New York," he said, "are not above reproach. They have established systems of testimony, methods of procedure, and the like which turn this and other laws into a farce. To-day in New York City if you see a man openly selling liquor over the bar at forbidden hours that is no evidence of violation of the law. You have got to go and take a drink and testify that you bought a drink yourself, or that you saw another person buy a drink, and then tasted his drink and made sure that it was liquor."

Dr. Peters in conclusion said that a long step in the right direction toward bettering the liquor traffic would be taken by limiting the number of licenses allowed in proportion to the population. Among other reforms he advocated were a removal of the enforcement of the excise law from the criminal to the civil courts, putting upon the licensing power the obligation to see to it that the conditions of the license are complied with, and by expediting procedure in the courts at law, so that reasonable laws of evidence might prevail and the processes of law be swift and certain.

CINCINNATI, June 2.—Folks in the districts which went dry in local option elections appear to have quit beer and gone to whisky. This is apparent in the light of the report of Internal Revenue Collector Bettmann for May, which shows there was a slump of 15,000 barrels in the production of beer and an increase of 50,000 gallons in the whisky output.

MISS DUER A PLAYWRIGHT.

She and Harriet Ford Sell Rights to Their New Play to Harris.

Contracts were signed yesterday between Henry B. Harris and Harriet Ford, who dramatized "A Gentleman of France," and Miss Caroline King Duer, a sister of Mrs. Clarence Mackay, whereby Mr. Harris will get the rights to their new comedy, "An American Girl from France." The play will be produced in New York early next season.

Grace Elliston, the original Shirley Rossmore in "The Lion and the Mouse," who lately appeared in the leading female rôle of Harrison Grey Fiske's production of "The Devil," will be the star. Miss Duer has contributed considerably to the magazines, and is the author of the novel, "Unconscious Comedians." This is her first effort at playwriting.

The scenes of the play are laid in New York and deal with an American girl who, although reared and educated in France, returns to America and becomes prominent in New York society. Financial problems of Wall Street are also touched upon.

Joseph Carl Breil, who wrote this music, has been commissioned by Mr. Weber to write an opera using the song as his theme.

It has not yet been decided who will contribute the book and score for "The Song of a Soul," but Edward Locke, author of "The Climax," is said to be considering the proposal seriously.

Miss Watson's rise to a stellar capacity has been unusual. Until her appearance in the principal rôle of "The Climax" she was an unknown player.

VETERAN RAILROADER DEAD.

Mr. Douglas Was the First Man to Take Telegraph Messages by Sound.

Special to The New York Times.

PORT JERVIS, N. Y., June 2.—Charles W. Douglas, a veteran railroad official, who died at Wayne, N. J., Monday at the age of 75 years, will be buried in Laurel Grove Cemetery, this city, to-morrow. His death ends an interesting railroad career.

TWO MAUD ODELLS.

Of Whom the American Seems Least Pleased by the Coincidence.

The American actress Maud Odell, who went to London with Billie Burke to play the part of the widow in "Love Watches," returned yesterday on the Cunarder Caronia, complaining of the troubles she got into through bearing the same name as the English Maud Odell, who is also known here.

"The final straw," said the American Miss Odell, "was the presentation with a summons for a debt of £95, stamped with the seal of Somerset House, which I was to pay at once or dreadful things would happen to me. I explained that I was not that Maud Odell, which settled it, but it was very unpleasant."

WON'T PAY BOOKING FEES.

Western Theatre Managers Coming Here to See Erlanger About It.

CHICAGO, June 2.—A committee of the Western Theatre Managers' Association, headed by the President, Charles Kindt, left for New York to-day to notify Abraham Erlanger that hereafter they will refuse to pay booking fees for their attractions.

J. J. Shubert, head of the Independents, who was here yesterday, announced that managers all over the country were preparing to join the open door movement.

"In the past, theatre managers have been little else than janitors," said Mr. Shubert. "The independent movement will benefit not only the managers, but it will open up a greater field for the playwrights. It means that there will be fewer unemployed actors and more work for musicians and stage hands."

YANKS DOWN BROWNS ON A SLIPPERY FIELD

New York Outfielders Do Not Have One Fielding Chance During the Game.

LAKE OUTPITCHES POWELL

Home-Coming of Stallings's Team Marked by Dreary Weather, Small Attendance, and an Easy Victory.

All who wish may join in the "Here's hopin'" that the victory of the Yankees, just returned from their Western trip, over the St. Louis Browns yesterday afternoon at American League Park was somewhat prophetic. They are to stay at home for several weeks, while the Giants and the Superbas try their luck in the West. The score yesterday, by the way, was 3 to 1.

The morning rain and the dark afternoon clouds spoiled the reception the returned young men would have got. An optimist would have estimated the attendance at 1,000. Perhaps it was 800. Some thousands took it for granted that there would be no game; they didn't go to the trouble to find out differently. The clammy, sticky air didn't encourage many to try to find out. The ground was wet and slippery; both Cree and McAleese muffed flies they would have caught easily but for the slipping. The Browns owe most of their one run to Cree's slipping. It was a dull day for the Yankees' outfielders, no one getting a fielding chance.

Keeler was still out of the game, Cree taking his position at right. Hemphill played centre, and Laporte was at the much-discussed second base. Lake and Powell were the opposing pitchers, Lake doing much the better work. He struck out seven men to Powell's three.

The complaint of President Johnson about the slowness of the Yankees' game is not without basis in fact, if yesterday's showing was a fair example. It required nearly forty-five minutes to play three innings. The game was started after 4 o'clock, and but for a goodly number of easily fielded balls in several of the middle innings it would have dragged beyond 6 o'clock. If it really requires all the time it takes Lake to pitch effectively certainly no New York fan will complain loudly about the time he uses in handling the ball behind his mitt. A great many don't believe he and most of the other Yankee pitchers need all the time they use.

The St. Louisans began the game briskly. Hartzell, the first man up, singled to left. Hoffman singled to the same territory. Ferris's bunt sent the two runners on a base each. With only one out, and a man on third and second, Wallace struck out, and Williams was out, Laporte to Chase.

The Yankees started with equal briskness and more success. Cree singled to centre. Hemphill bunted the ball down on the third base line near the home plate. Both Powell and Criger ran for it. Each hesitated for the other to get it, and then Powell touched the ball with his foot. Meanwhile Hemphill was safe on first and Cree was going to third. Powell threw wild to Ferris, the ball going into left field, whereupon Cree scored. Engle's double down the third base line brought in Hemphill. Wallace caught Laporte's fly, and caught Engle off second.

The game then dragged on slowly until the sixth inning, when the Browns got their only run. With two out and Williams on first, T. Jones lifted the ball far out in right field. The grass was wet, and Cree slipped and fell all over himself and the ball. Jones took three bases, and Williams came home.

In the last half of the same inning Hemphill doubled to left, taking third on Elberfeld's sacrifice bunt. Engle filed out to McAleese, but Hemphill came home before the ball.

Nothing happened after that, but the Missourans desire to show three more times before they go away. The score.

Red Sox Overhaul the Champions.

BOSTON, June 2.—Boston won an up-hill game from Detroit to-day, 6 to 5. It was marked by sensational plays. The visitors scored 5 runs on the local pitchers' wildness and errors, bunched with hits. Killian was also wild, Boston scoring twice in the seventh inning on passes with a hit, and won in the eighth on a single, an error, a base on balls, a home run, a sacrifice, and a single by Donohue, batting for Chech. SUTTON BILLIARD CHAMPION.

Defeats George Slosson for 18.1 Title by 500 to 201.

George Sutton, the challenger for the world's billiard championship at 18.1 balk line, won the title last night in the Concert Hall of Madison Square Garden by defeating the previous holder, George F. Slosson, by 500 to 201, the winner running out in 39 innings with an average of 12 32-39. Although the game itself lacked real championship elements, in so far as the play was concerned, the victory was a distinct triumph for Sutton, for, although he had held the title three times, he never before last night actually won the championship, his former successes having been earned by the default of his competitors. The winner also secured a purse of $1,000.

Up to the twenty-eighth inning nothing of a startling nature had occurred when Sutton ran 70. The best runs up to this time were 44 and 38, both made by Sutton.

The high run was chiefly made by holding the balls at the corner end of the table by delicate carrom shots. Although Slosson, as if imbued with the spirit of good billiards, so lacking in his previous play, followed with a run of 26, his best run of the match, and the scores at the end of the twenty-eighth inning were 390 for Sutton to 167 for the title holder.

At the close of the seventh inning Sutton passed the first century mark, finishing with a total of 102 to 55 for Slosson. The latter made another fine run of 30, but after this the game fell into a spell of the doldrums, and for the next ten innings or more the long-continued period of mediocrity was relieved by a single brilliant shot. From the eighth to the nineteenth inning Sutton only made two runs in double figures, although his friends looked for something better at the sixteenth inning, after he had cooled off with two tumblers of ice water, but he stopped after making 3. Slosson's inability to keep the balls together was a big disappointment to his friends, and his continued low runs added to his nervousness. Not until the nineteenth inning was finished, when he made a run of 18, did Slosson pass the 100 mark, ending with a total of 116 to 190 for Sutton.

In the twenty-first inning Sutton gave the first genuine exhibition of real championship billiards, making a fine run of 44, which included a variety of difficult carrom and draw shots. Slosson only made 8, so at this stage of the game the challenger was in the lead. He followed up his good work by a run of 24 in the next inning, while Slosson made only 2.

With the exception of the excellent twenty-eighth inning, the remainder of the match was unproductive of stirring features. Slosson was lamentably weak, and in the ten innings after the twenty-eighth he only made 34 points. Sutton made a fairly strong finish, getting a run of 49 in the thirty-seventh inning and going out with one of 24. The score:

Sutton—6 1 0 23 13 38 21 30 0 6 18 2 2 4 0 3 3 3 16 44 24 0 0 0 0 1 70 0 23 0 4 1 8 16 20 49 5 24. Total, 500; high runs, 70, 49, 44; average, 12 32-39.

Brooklyn Club Loses Protest Case.

John Heydler, Acting President of the National League, yesterday handed down his decision on the protested Brooklyn-Pittsburg game of May 15, which was won by Pittsburg, 6 to 5. Brooklyn entered a protest that one of the runs scored should not count, a player being on his way to third when Pitcher McIntyre made a throw into the crowd. The Brooklyn club claimed that Miller, who made the tally, had not passed second when the wild throw was made, but the testimony of the umpire and certain spectators was of an opposite trend, and the home team's protest is disallowed.

JOE MADDEN WINS BELMONT STAKES

Hildreth's Colt from Winter Tracks Easily Captures the $30,000 Prize.

FAYETTE FINISHES LAST

Waldo Romps In First for the Laureate on a Muddy Track at Close of Belmont Park Meeting.

The richest prize of the Belmont Park meeting, the $30,000 Belmont Stakes, was the feature of the last day of racing for the Spring season on the big Queens course yesterday, and Joe Madden, under the colors of S. C. Hildreth, won easily from a very ordinary lot of three-year-olds, with Fayette, carrying the colors of John E. Madden, former owner of Joe Madden, last in a badly beaten field of five runners.

The result was quite similar to that for the Metropolitan Handicap on the opening day, when King James, also sold by Madden to Hildreth, was winner in easy style from Fayette, Joe Madden's triumph putting the Hildreth stable a close second to the J. R. Keene stable on the winning list for the New York season.

Fayette was a lukewarm favorite and held his place steadily, with Joe Madden and Wise Mason, the next best liked, the Western horses, Donald McDonald and Warfield, starting as the outsiders. Fayette was slow to leave the starting post and lost ground in the early stages of the race that dropped him out of the contest before the horses turned from the training track into the main course. Joe Madden, first when the start was made, let Warfield go to the front in the first strides, and Warfield made the running while the horses were on the training course, with Wise Mason second and Joe Madden third, until making the first loop of the serpentine course they came to the main track, where Joe Madden, gaining ground on the turns, brushed into the lead and held his place in front to the end. Warfield began to stop before the head of the stretch, coming into the straight for the run home, was reached, and Wise Mason moved up after Joe Madden; but never got near him, Joe Madden winning easily by eight lengths, while Wise Mason was four lengths in front of Donald McDonald, third, in the slowest Belmont Stakes that has been timed at Belmont Park.

The race was the largest single obligation of the Westchester Racing Association for the season, and to make up the guaranteed value of $30,000 the club was required to add $23,350, while August Belmont, who contributed two trophies for the day's racing, gave $1,000 in plate, a gold cup, to the winner. The total of the money added for the day's racing was $26,500, the largest sum added for many days at the meeting, and with an attendance of but about 4,000 the Westchester Association had its greatest loss of the meeting, but it was stated that the average patronage was good enough to about cover the cost of the racing.

For the Laureate Stakes, of $2,500 for two-year-olds, at five furlongs, Waldo, owned by C. L. Harrison, an amateur patron of racing and a winner earlier in the meeting, won in a romp, after leading from start to finish, from a field of four opponents, Big Stick, said to be the best two-year-old in the Madden stable, coming out at the finish and getting up for second place in the last strides, with Radium Star third. Horses and Horsemen.

A sporting match for a steeplechase over the full course, two and a half miles, for $2,500 a side, catch weights, between Col. "Bob" Neville's Sir Wooster and H. K. Vinsut's Waterspeed, to be run some time before June 15, was made at Belmont Park yesterday as the result of an argument over the merits of the jumpers. The race probably will be run in the forenoon on an off day for racing.

Johnny Taral, son of the one time champion jockey, Fred Taral, had his first mount on a New York race course at Belmont Park yesterday on Saginaw. The horse had a following simply because it was thought that Johnny would not get up on a hopeless mount for his first race, but he ran so badly that Johnny never had a chance to shew his jockeyship. The boy was trained as a rider by his father, and had some experience on European race courses when the elder Taral was riding abroad.

Earl Linnell's horse, Black Mate, entered in the last race at Belmont Park yesterday, with his number up and a jockey weighed in and ready to ride him, never got to the race track, and at the last minute was ordered scratched, though he had figured in the betting as a starter. The owner will be required to make an explanation to the Stewards of the meeting.

The "object of art" donated by August Belmont as a trophy, in addition to the purse for the galloway race at Belmont Park, was a presentment in bronze of the $125,000 stallion and English Derby winner, Rock Sand. The figure was the work of C. C. Rumsey, an artist and architect of Buffalo, who is an enthusiastic and clever gentleman jockey.

UNIFICATION FOR MISSOURI PACIFIC

Plan Prepared for Consolidating the Subsidiary Lines of the System.

TO HELP FUTURE FINANCING

Extensions and Betterments to Come from Common Ownership—Iron Mountain Lines Excluded.

A comprehensive plan for the unification of the subsidiary lines of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company, the principal component of the Gould system, has been prepared, and will shortly be submitted to a meeting of the stockholders for ratification.

Officers of the company refused last night to discuss the project, but a circular to stockholders, asking for proxies, has been printed under date of May 29, and was obtained in Wall Street yesterday. The circular describes the plan in outline as follows:

"The ownership of the more than 3,700 miles of railroad which constitute the Missouri Pacific system proper is, as you doubtless know, now divided among a large number of separate railroad corporations. The consolidation of the Missouri Pacific Railway Company and various subsidiary lines, as outlined in the accompanying notice of stockholders' meeting, is a step toward the unification of the system (excluding the Iron Mountain lines) in one common ownership, which the Board of Directors believe will bring about substantial economies in administration, secure greater efficiency in operation, and make it possible more advantageously to finance the future requirements of the system, to fund its floating debt, refund its outstanding bonds, and provide for the extensions and betterments necessitated by a rapidly increasing business. The action proposed is therefore strongly recommended for your approval."

The lines immediately affected by the consolidation plan are: The Kansas and Colorado Pacific Railway Company of Kansas, the Central Branch Railway Company of Kansas, the Rooks County Railroad Company of Kansas, the Nevada and Minden Railway Company of Missouri, Nevada and Minden Railway Company of Kansas, Kansas City and Southwestern Railway Company of Missouri, Kansas City and Southwestern Railway Company of Kansas, the Fort Scott Central Railway Company of Kansas, Kanopolis and Kansas Central Railway Company of Kansas, the Kansas Southwestern Railway Company of Kansas, and the Leroy and Caney Valley Air Line Railroad Company of Kansas.

The bonds of many of these roads are deposited as collateral for the Missouri Pacific's first collateral 5 per cent. bonds of 1920, of which there are $9,636,000 outstanding.

Of the Iron Mountain lines, the St. Louis, Iron Mountain & Southern Railway, which are excluded from the unification plan, the Missouri Pacific owns all but $54,689 of the $44,390,008 outstanding stock. In this system a number of affiliated railroads are controlled by stock ownership which operates 2,593 miles of road in Missouri, Arkansas, Louisiana, and Illinois.

BANK CLEARINGS BOOMING.

Total for Last Month Exceeds That of the Record Made in May, 1906.

Bank clearings during May at the 110 leading centres showed a continuance of the upward movement which has been marked in recent months. According to statistics compiled by Dun's Review, the total exchanges for the month were $12,960,936,085, an increase of 19.5 per cent., compared with last year.

May, 1906, which made a record for this month, was unfavorably affected in comparison with this year by having one less business day. Eliminating this difference, the average daily figures for May show a gain of 1.6 per cent. this year over 1906. Dun's says:

> The increase over last year is shared by all sections, but in the comparison with 1906 the depression this year in the iron and steel trades reduced the totals at Philadelphia and Pittsburg and in turn that of the Middle Atlantic division, but a number of other cities, notably Scranton and Reading, show considerable increases over both years. Large gains appear in New England over last year, but there are small losses at Boston and other leading New England cities, in the comparison with May, 1906. Springfield and Worcester being notable exceptions.
>
> In the West improvement is well maintained, especially at Chicago and Kansas City, where the exchanges were the largest ever reported for May. Considerable increases were also made by Detroit, Milwaukee, St. Paul, Omaha, St. Joseph, Denver, and many of the smaller cities.
>
> The majority of the leading centres of the South and Southwest report gains, St. Louis, Memphis, Baltimore, Richmond, Atlanta, and other cities contributing to the increase, while New Orleans and Louisville still report decreases. At Pacific Coast points exchanges are very much larger than in either preceding year.

Mine Promoters Sentenced for Fraud.

KANSAS CITY, June 2.—Frank H. Horn, E. S. Horn, S. M. Snyder, and Raymond P. May were sentenced to serve a year and a day in the United States prison at Leavenworth and to pay a fine of $500 each, and John E. Horn was fined $500 in the Federal Court here to-day for fraud in promoting the "Two Queens" mine in Arizona. Leniency was shown to John E. Horn, who is only 22 years old.

NEW ATCHISON BOND ISSUE.

About $26,000,000 to be Raised for Extensions and Betterments.

The Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fé is about to raise new capital to the extent of $26,000,000 or more through an issue of 4 per cent. convertible bonds, which was approved yesterday by the Directors of the road at their regular monthly meeting. The bonds are offered to the stockholders at 104 and accrued interest, and the entire issue has been underwritten by J. P. Morgan & Co.

The proceeds of the bond issue will be used for general improvements and for the construction of new lines. No definite announcement of the details of the new work to be undertaken was made yesterday, but it was said that the construction work would probably include work on the proposed new line from Texico to Brownwood, which will give the Western lines in the Atchison system a short line to the lumber districts of Louisiana and Southeastern Texas.

Approval has been given to this proposed issue by the Kansas State Commission, which was empowered by a recent act of the Legislature of that State to pass upon the issue of securities by public utility companies in that State. This bond issue was about to be announced three months ago, but was postponed because this new law was then about to go into effect.

This statement of the conditions of the new issue was put out by the Atchison yesterday:

> The company to-day offers to its preferred and common stockholders the privilege of subscribing at 104 per cent. and accrued interest, during the period beginning July 20 and ending July 22, 1909, for an amount of 4 per cent. convertible gold bonds of the company, issue of 1909, equal to 12 per cent. of their respective holdings of stock as registered on the company's books at the close of business on June 16, 1909. The bonds will mature June 1, 1965, and will be convertible prior to June 1, 1918, at the option of the holders, into common stock of equal par value.
>
> The subscription price of each $1,000 bond will be $1,040 and accrued interest, payable as follows: At the time of subscription, $260; between Feb. 2 and Feb. 4, 1910, $260; between Aug. 2 and Aug. 4, 1910, $260, and between Feb. 7 and Feb. 9, 1911, $260, and adjusted accrued interest.
>
> The company has on hand ample cash for all current capital requirements, but it intends in the near future to make important extensions and betterments, which are expected greatly to increase its earning capacity, and has deemed it prudent to make this provision for new capital at this time in contemplation of such proposed work.

The outstanding 4 per cent. bonds of the Atchison are selling at about 100. The new issue is limited to $35,000,000, but only so much of this amount will be issued as will be required to make up 12 per cent. of the present outstanding stock of the road and of any stock which may be taken out in exchange for existing convertible bonds before June 16. As the amount of stock stood at the opening of business yesterday, the 12 per cent. clause would call for the issuance of $26,208,000 of new bonds.

THE EUROPEAN MARKETS.

Trading Irregular in London—Buoyant Tone on Paris Bourse.

LONDON, June 2.—Money supplies were increased on the market to-day on dividend disbursements. Discounts were firm.

Trading on the Stock Exchange developed irregularity in the morning under profit taking, but it rallied later on renewed support, especially of mining shares, although the closing was below the best. Foreigners benefited on Continental purchases, and some gilt-edged securities received attention in the late trade, but consols weakened on realizations.

American securities were uncertain in the early morning. Southern Pacific attracted the most attention and rose seven-eighths of a point over parity. The changes in the rest of the market were irregular, and at noon ranged at ¼ below to ¼ above yesterday's New York closing. United States Steel and Canadian Pacific received attention in the afternoon, but with New York selling a reaction occurred and the market finished easy.

Copper shares were easy on unfavorable statistics.

Bar silver quiet, 24 5-16d per ounce.

PARIS, June 2.—The tone on the Bourse to-day was buoyant.

At closing, 3 per cent. rentes, 98 francs 12½ centimes for the account.

Exchange on London, 25 francs 17½ centimes for checks.

BERLIN, June 2. — Trading on the Boerse to-day was inactive, and prices, with the exception of American rails, had a downward tendency.

MEXICAN RAILWAY BONDS.

Issue of $24,000,000 Offered for Subscription by New York Bankers.

The banking group consisting of Kuhn, Loeb & Co., Speyer & Co., Ladenburg, Thalmann & Co., and Hallgarten & Co., which early in 1908 financed the merger of the Mexican Central and National Railroad of Mexico in the National Railways of Mexico under the auspices of the Mexican Government, are making a public offering of $24,000,000 of the 4½ per cent. prior lien sinking fund gold bonds of the merged lines. The bonds are offered at 95 and accrued interest, at which price if held to maturity they yield about 4¾ per cent.

These bonds are part of a total authorized issue of $225,000,000, of which $89,225,077 have been issued. The bonds are practically a prior lien charge on the entire Mexican Central Railway system, (about 3,510 miles,) and are a charge on the National Railroad Company of Mexico system, (about 3,477 miles,) subject to outstanding indebtedness of about $50,289,000.

The prior lien 4½ per cent. bonds rank before the $160,000,000 authorized amount of general mortgage 4s, guaranteed unconditionally as to principal and interest by the Mexican Government.

Subscriptions will be closed at the offices of the bankers on June 7. A first payment of $50 for each bond must accompany subscriptions, the balance being payable on June 22, when engraved bonds will be delivered upon surrender of the allotment letter.

Foreign Trade Opportunities.

Special to The New York Times.

WASHINGTON, June 2.—The daily Consular and trade reports for to-morrow note the following trade opportunities. Further information regarding these can be obtained by addressing the Bureau of Manufactures, care of Department of Commerce and Labor, Washington, D. C.:

AGRICULTURAL ENTERPRISES—An enterprise of more than ordinary importance and one that is attracting attention is now under way in a Latin-American country as a result of an agreement between a Government official and a concessionaire, by which the latter received the right to irrigate 100,000 hectares of land along two rivers. A company has been organized to colonize the land with 5,000 families for the purpose of conducting the cultivation. The engineers selected for this work, of an American firm, are now on the ground, and the undertaking will be commenced at once. The Consul forwarding the report states that the prominence of the parties and their financial standing assure the success of the enterprise.

BRIDGE AND TUNNEL CONSTRUCTION—An American Consular officer in Australasia has forwarded a detailed report in regard to the proposed construction of a bridge and tunnel connected with certain projected harbor works in his district.

AGENCY IN MEXICO—A business man in Mexico writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that he would like to enter into correspondence with firms in the United States with a view to acting as sales manager either for Mexico alone or for other countries in Latin America. He states that he is a former bank manager, with long experience in Europe and the United States, and is familiar with the language necessary to carrying on business relations. He also states that he has good business connections in Mexico and is willing to furnish satisfactory references.

AMERICAN-MADE EGG BEATERS—A New York firm of import and export commission merchants writes to the Bureau of Manufactures that one of its customers in Continental Europe is in the market for American-made egg beaters, and the New York house would like to get in touch with firms producing the article.

CANNED LOBSTERS AND SIMILAR GOODS—An American Consul located in Eastern Europe reports that a well-known wholesale grocery house in the city to which he was formerly assigned is anxious to enter into correspondence with firms in the United States exporting canned lobsters, shrimps, and similar goods. This house has traveling agents covering the territory in Eastern Europe and could build up a good trade if satisfactory terms were quoted by American firms. All goods must be of standard quality and guaranteed.

AMERICAN GOODS OF VARIOUS KINDS—An American Consul in a European country reports that a business man in his district is planning to establish in the city a firm which will be devoted solely to the importation of American-made goods. It is his intention to open a large sample room, in which he expects to exhibit all kinds of American goods, with the view of taking orders for direct shipment from the United States. The Consul states that he considers this an excellent chance for American manufacturers to display their products in that market, and he strongly recommends that they profit by the opportunity presented.

Big Day on Consolidated Exchange.

Members of the Consolidated Stock Exchange, which has recently been made the subject of a Stock Exchange edict prohibiting members of the big Exchange from any business dealings with its active brokers, were jubilant yesterday over the comparatively large total of the day's transactions, which numbered over 119,000 shares. This is the largest day's business since the Stock Exchange ruling went into effect last month.

Prior Lien Bonds of the Mexican International Railroad Company or other bonds which may have been issued to retire them). Of the amount authorized $89,225,077 have been issued, of which $28,465,100 are pledged as collateral or are in the Company's treasury, and a portion thereof forms part of the present issue of $24,000,000 bonds.

"The Prior Lien 4½% Sinking Fund Redeemable Gold Bonds of the Company were originally secured under a Mortgage and Deed of Trust to Central Trust Company of New York, as Trustee, by the deposit and pledge by way of first charge on the securities of the Mexican Central Railway Company Limited and National Railroad Company of Mexico acquired by the Company, but as the properties of the Mexican Central Railway Company Limited and the National Railroad Company of Mexico have been deeded to the Company, the Prior Lien 4½% 50 Year Sinking Fund Redeemable Gold Bonds are now a direct mortgage on the properties formerly owned by both these Companies subject to the liens of the outstanding bonds of the Mexican Central Railway Company Limited and National Railroad Company of Mexico. Additional securities of the above-named Companies as acquired are also to be deposited with the Trustee of the Prior Lien Mortgage.

"The bonds (by means of the deposit of bonds) are practically a prior lien charge on the entire Mexican Central Railway System (about 3,510 miles), and are a charge on the National Railroad Company of Mexico System (about 3,477 miles) subject to outstanding indebtedness of about $50,289,000 charged upon the property of the National Railroad Company, and subject, as to the lines of the Mexican International and Interoceanic Companies, to their respective outstanding issues, a large amount of which, comprising the voting control, is held by the National Railroad Company and this Company respectively.

"Sufficient Prior Lien Bonds and General Mortgage Bonds are reserved to redeem the outstanding Bonds and other obligations of the Mexican Central Railway Company Limited, and the National Railroad Company of Mexico, with the object that ultimately the Prior Lien Bonds may become an absolute first charge on the combined properties formerly owned by the Mexican Central Railway Company Limited and National Railroad Company of Mexico.

"The Bonds are to be further secured by the mortgage and pledge of all property acquired by the proceeds of any of the Prior Lien Bonds, and by the mortgage and pledge, with priority over the General Mortgage, of all property at any time embraced in the General Mortg

INDUSTRIAL ISSUES ADVANCE

Railroad Department Irregular in Spite of Further Excellent Traffic Statements—More Gold for Paris.

During the greater part of yesterday's stock market session the movement of prices was extremely irregular owing to the heavy buying and advances in a limited number of issues which went on side by side with equally heavy profit taking and recessions in other quarters. The net result at the day's end was a mixed list of gains and losses, with the former slightly predominating both in number and extent. United States Steel was again the conspicuous feature of the trading, rising in a final burst of strength almost 3 points from the low quotation of the morning. This movement differed from similar exhibitions in the past, in that in place of its usual exhilarating effect upon the general market it seemed yesterday to possess a somewhat disturbing influence. St. Paul was the strongest issue of the railroad department, but this department was in all respects subordinate to the industrial section, where striking gains were made by many stocks, including American Chemical, Virginia-Carolina Chemical, American Cotton Oil, Steel Foundry, and New York Air Brake. Developments of the day in which financial markets were directly interested were again uniformly favorable. In the iron and steel trade reports of expanding business continued to pour in. The regular weekly summaries of trade conditions published by the accredited organs of the steel and iron world were optimistic, as usual, reporting the receipt during the week of excellent orders for fabricated materials with a prospect of steady improvement in demand. The month of May was noted as the most satisfactory in at least two years. Copper metal prices moved definitely to the thirteen-and-a-half-cent level, with producers unwilling to make any quantity of forward sales even at this price owing to the general expectation that the figures of the Producers' Association to be published next week will disclose a substantial reduction in supplies. Additional railroad earning statements for the month of April were fully up to the favorable exhibits of the previous day, that of the New York Central in particular receiving much attention owing to the remarkable increase of $909,000 in gross. A commercial agency which keeps careful tables of those figures reported May bank clearings as nearly 20 per cent. greater than those for the same month in 1908, this in itself affording an index to the scope of the recovery in business.

The day's chief incident in the money market was the engagement of a trifle less than $1,000,000 gold for export to Paris. The resumption of the gold movement was not unexpected owing to the continued firmness of exchange here and the persistent money ease. The foreign exchange market itself closed higher. The announcement of the Atchison's offer of $26,000,000 of its 4 per cent. convertible bonds to its stockholders at 104 was accompanied by the statement that the road was simply taking advantage of an exceptional situation in the money and bond markets to provide for future requirements.

BOSTON STOCK MARKET.

Special to The New York Times.

BOSTON, June 2.—The local market was steady at the opening this morning, but the selling of Massachusetts Mining, which was so noticeable yesterday, soon appeared, and the whole list took on a somewhat weaker tone. The market closed steady at some recovery from the low prices of the day.

TOPICS IN WALL STREET.

Buying on Recessions.

On the moderate recessions in the stock market yesterday morning commission houses were among the heaviest buyers. Apparently the commission house clientele, while seemingly very anxious to buy stocks one or two points under the prevailing quotations, appears to lose confidence as soon as the market begins to decline, and lowers its limit a peg or two. Instead of acting that manner yesterday, however, brokers reported that their customers were standing by their original orders, previously placed under the market, and taking stocks in as they touched those figures. The professional element has come to look upon the second business day of the week as reaction day, which, of course, under ordinary circumstances, falls on Tuesday. They figured that their theory would still hold good yesterday, however, and sold stocks in some volume. One of the most prominent members of the professional crowd, it was said, is planning to go on an extended vacation about the middle of the month, and the rest of the fraternity suspected that he might have some large lines of stock to liquidate before departure, which, they argued, ought to depress prices. But the market has already taken some pretty heavy liquidation, apparently without feeling it very much.

Popularity of Syndicates.

Not many years ago, when the word syndicate was mentioned, about two-thirds of the heads of bond houses retired to the recesses of their private offices and locked the door, leaving word outside that they wanted to see no one on syndicate business. It was not a popular word in those days, when most of the houses on the Street were loaded up with syndicate participations that they could not get rid of. But now all this is changed, and the word again has a magic influence. The offices of bankers bringing out new bond issues are besieged with applicants for a share in the underwriting. The demand is so great that most of the applications have to be turned down, or allotments reduced to very small proportions. The reason for the changed attitude is simple. Every first-class bond issue brought out for months has found ready subscription from the public, and about all the underwriters had to do was to cash their commissions.

Atchison Rights.

Disappointment experienced by certain enthusiastic bulls on Atchison, when the common dividend was not increased a few weeks ago in accordance with their predictions, was somewhat mitigated yesterday in the announcement of the new bond issue which the stockholders are permitted to subscribe for at 104. The rights thus accruing are just about sufficient to offset the dividend increase which did not take place. On the Curb transactions in the rights reached considerable volume, with sales freely being made at one-half of 1 per cent., which, in addition to the usual dividend, may be regarded as a 3 per cent. disbursement for the half year. From the stock market point of view, of course, the granting of rights to shareholders worth about ½ per cent. is not nearly as impressive as a formal advance in the dividend rate to the same extent, and, curiously enough, Atchison common lost just ½ per cent. net on the day's transactions. The outstanding convertible 4s and 5s also receded fractionally on the board, but this was regarded as more or less natural, in view of the increase in the amount of convertible bonds outstanding in consequence of the new flotation.

New Record in Street.

Wall Street has at last found a partial solution of the puzzle on which it has been guessing for several weeks, as to where the United States Steel stocks were going. The large block of the common shares taken by Paris in connection with the listing of the issue on the Bourse there explains in some degree the growing scarcity of the stock in this market, which has been noted for some time back. It also, doubtless, explains why certain local bankers had loaded up with calls on the stock, purchased chiefly in London. According to reports in brokerage circles here, the stock for Paris was accumulated in the local market from the low 40s up to around 60. The issue made another new high record yesterday, rising to 67¾, a maximum advance of 1¾ per cent., some of the heaviest buying developing late in the day, when more details regarding the Paris listing came out.

St. Louis Southwestern Dividend.

Word was passed around quietly, early in the session, that some announcement of importance was to be made on St. Louis Southwestern very shortly, in response to which the preferred shares made a maximum advance of nearly two points, reaching the highest point of the movement at 71½. It was not until after the close of business that the financial community generally knew exactly what was impending, but then it received the news that the directors had declared an initial semi-annual dividend of 2 per cent. For the last month there has been accumulation of this stock with the idea that it was going to be placed on a dividend basis, some insisting that the action would be taken early in June, while others were of the opinion that it would be deferred until Fall. The fact that the directors saw fit to declare the dividend now was construed as meaning that they were confident of a very good crop outturn in the section traversed by the company's lines.

FINANCIAL NOTES.

William G. McAdoo, President of the Hudson & Manhattan Railroad Company, was elected a director of the Lincoln Trust Company at a special meeting yesterday.

At the annual meeting of the stockholders of the Quincy Mining Company yesterday the retiring Directors were re-elected. At a subsequent meeting the board organized by re-electing the retiring officers.

J. P. Morgan & Co. announce that until further notice they will continue to purchase at par the coupons due June 1, 1909, of the New York & Erie Railroad Company fifth mortgage 4 per cent. bonds and the Buffalo, New York & Erie Railroad Company 7 per cent bonds.

The Iowa Central Railway Company has sold to Tailer & Co. an issue of 5 per cent. equipment bonds, under the usual car trust conditions, maturing annually to 1919, inclusive. This equipment covers 12 locmotives, 50 gondola cars, and 250 coal cars, valued in all at about $400,000, against which it is understood that about $320,000 of equipment bonds have been issued.

OUTSIDE SECURITIES

Bad Day for Heinze Stocks, Which Make Heavy Declines Under Active Trading.

UNITED COPPER BREAKS

Sells Down to 8¼, but, Like Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper, Recovers from Low Point Before Close.

The Heinze stocks again yesterday reflected the troubles of F. A. Heinze and United Copper. Davis-Daly and Ohio Copper all suffered substantial losses, with selling in large volume. Davis-Daly, which reported transactions of 5,500, dropped from 5⅛ to 4 1-16, recovering at the close to 4⅜. United Copper, in which trading was heaviest, after opening at 10¼ rose to 10⅝, but sold down to 8¼. From the low point, after transactions of 11,400 shares, recovery was made to 9⅛, which was the closing price. Ohio Copper sold down from 5 9-16 to 4⅜, recovering at the close to 4½. Transactions of 10,000 were reported. The general list of copper stocks was strong in contrast to the so-called Heinze shares. Miami moved up from 14⅞ to 15⅛. Cumberland-Ely from 8⅝ to 8 11-16, and Greene-Cananea from 10⅝ to 10¾.

THE COTTON MARKET.

Strength Follows Early Weakness—Closes Firm, 8 to 21 Points Up.

Cotton showed nervousness and irregularity early yesterday, which was followed by increasing activity and pronounced strength. The close was firm at a net advance of 8@21 points.

The market opened steady at an advance of 1@7 points in response to higher cables and wet weather in the Central belt. Old crop positions were fairly well sustained by reports of a better spot demand, but new crop months worked off to a net decline of about 4 points during the middle session. After the local close New Orleans advanced about 6 points. New Orleans will be closed to-day.

The range of contract prices follows:

GRAIN AND PROVISIONS.

WHEAT—Interest, yesterday was centred chiefly in the July position, which made new high records, but later all this advance was lost. Late months were relatively easier during the forenoon, but closed quite steady. Light rains prevailed throughout the West, furnishing almost ideal conditions for the growth of the plant. News from abroad continued generally bullish. Budapest was up 2⅝c, making 4⅝c advance since Saturday. Berlin was ⅝c higher over night, and Liverpool ½ to 1⅝d above Saturday's close. Interior receipts amounted to 227,000 bushels, compared with 336,000 bushels a year ago. Cash wheat in New York was quoted as follows: No. 2 red, $1.47 asked, elevator, and $1.47 nominal, free on board, afloat; No. 1 Northern, Duluth, $1.35½, and No. 2 hard Winter, $1.40½, free on board, afloat, both nominal.

CORN—A new high record was also established in corn yesterday on reports that smaller receipts were in prospect, the estimate for to-day being only 182 cars. In the afternoon prices reacted moderately. Cash corn in New York was still nominal. No. 2 corn, 86c., elevator, and 82c., free on board, afloat; No. 2 white, 84½c, and No. 2 yellow, 84½c, free on board, afloat.

PHILADELPHIA PRICES.

Special to The New York Times.

PHILADELPHIA, June 2.—More reassuring reports concerning the increased number of cars operated by the Philadelphia Transit Company and the strong support given the stock by traction "insiders" caused it to rally to 32⅝ soon after the opening of the local market to-day, but traders sold on the rally, and further advance was checked. Union Traction recovered a half point, to 56, but both stocks were only moderately active. The extraordinary strength of United States Steel, which was very heavily dealt in in this market, influenced a further advance in Cambria Steel shares, which crossed 41 for the first time since 1907, when they sold as high as 47½. The market closed strong.

MANHATTAN CAP COMPANY.—Judge Hand has granted a discharge from bankruptcy to Sperber & Weiss, who did business as the Manhattan Cap Company, 57 Bond Street, who filed a petition in bankruptcy on Nov. 22, 1906, with liabilities of $2,514.

CHARLES W. GRAY.—Charles W. Gray, otherwise known as Charles W. Bowser, an actor, living at 102 West Forty-sixth Street, has filed a petition in bankruptcy, with liabilities of $1,094 and no assets. There are six creditors and the liabilities are for room rent, $464; hotel bill, $350; doctor, $75; nurse, $150, and note, $55.

C. A. DUERR & CO.—A list of creditors of C. A. Duerr & Co., (corporation,) auto selling agents, 2,182 Broadway, has been filed, showing liabilities of $94,702 as follows: Wages, $885; accounts payable, $20,392; bills payable, $55,095; bills payable, secured, $3,830; advances, $15,000. Among the creditors are the Standard Oil Company, $3,000; H. B. Phinney, $26,580; C. A. Duerr, $6,095, and Charles H. Hyde, $5,000.

JACOBS & ROSEN COMPANY.—Schedules in bankruptcy of the Jacobs & Rosen Company, cloaks, millinery, &c., 46 West Fourteenth Street, show liabilities of $75,457 and assets of $30,000 in stock and fixtures. There are 190 creditors, among whom are the National Discount Company, $5,000, secured; Joseph Levy, $4,500, secured; Leon Rosen, $4,200, secured; Joseph Jacobs, $4,300; East River Bank, $1,700; Meiselman & Titner, $2,383; S. Shwerenski, $2,136; M. Altman & Co., $2,018, and J. Bass & Co., $2,015.

ELEANOR M. TEAL.—Nathaniel A. Prentiss, referee in bankruptcy, at 120 Broadway, has closed up the bankruptcy proceedings of Eleanor M. Teal, wife of Ben Teal, the theatrical manager, as she did not deposit the indemnity money necessary for the first meeting of creditors, and the time to call the meeting has elapsed. No claims have been filed, and no other proceedings were before the referee. She filed a petition in bankruptcy on March 25, 1908, with liabilities of $4,379 and no assets. Since then she has been convicted of attempted subornation of perjury in the Gould divorce case and sent to the penitentiary for a year.

HIRSCHFIELD & ASCH.—Judge Hough yesterday denied a discharge from bankruptcy to Hirschfield & Asch, cloak manufacturers, 66 East Eighth Street, and in a memorandum said that within three days of bankruptcy they assigned and transferred most, if not all, their assets, assets to raise $3,000 cash, which they at once devoted for the most part to paying so-called "private creditors" related to the members of the firm by either blood or marriage. "It appears to me," said the Judge, "in view of all the circumstances shown in this case that the conclusion is irresistible that these partners sold their quick assets (accounts) with intent to enable themselves not only to prefer their relatives who happened to be creditors, but to hinder, delay, and defraud the body of their creditors. And it is further entirely evident that the scheme was in a large degree successful." The only charge was opposed by James Schell & Elkus, attorneys for some of the creditors.

A. A. WEEKS-HOSKINS COMPANY.—A petition in bankruptcy has been filed against the A. A. Weeks-Hoskins Company, wholesale and retail dealers in stationery, supplies, and office furniture at 354 Broadway, by Henry W. Gray, attorney for these creditors: Roger R. Bamber of Summit, N. J., $5,000; Alex McBride of East Orange, $5,000, and Frederick T. Davies of New York, $3,000, all for money loaned to the company. It was alleged that the company is insolvent, and on June 2 the Board of Directors adopted a resolution that the company is unable to pay its debts and is willing to be adjudicated bankrupt. Judge Hand of the United States District Court appointed Albert B. Kerr of 40 Wall Street receiver, with a bond of $50,000, and authorized him to continue business until further orders of the court. It was stated that the liabilities are $150,000, of which $81,992 are notes and the balance open accounts, all of which are now due, and the company is unable to raise money to pay its debts and to carry on the business. The assets consist of stock on hand, which cost $100,000. The company was incorporated Sept. 7, 1906, with a capital stock of $650,000. When the company started it took over the business of the A. A. Weeks Manufacturing Company and the C. H. Newman Company, and in March, 1908, absorbed the New York business of a Boston desk manufacturer. On Dec. 5, 1906, a fire damaged its stock, and the company, it is said, received $40,000 insurance. Officers of the company are Charles H. Marshall, President; Frank A. Weeks, Vice President, and E. E. Garrison, Treasurer and manager.

LATEST CUSTOMS RULINGS.

Supreme Court's Refusal of a Writ Affects Over 7,000 Importers' Protests.

The United States Supreme Court having denied the Government's application for a review of the recent decision of the Circuit Court of Appeals in the case of Berlinger, Brown & Meyer involving the classification under the Dingley law of millinery articles composed principally of feathers, but in part of wire, it is expected the Government will accept the finding of the appellate court for lower duty.

If the Government acquiesces, as is expected, more than 7,000 importers' protests now on the suspended files of the Board of United States General Appraisers raising claims similar to those decided by the court in favor of the protestants will be taken from the files and decided between now and the close of the Government's official year ending June 30. Large refunds will also be paid by the Treasury Department to the importers and their attorneys.

The Board of General Appraisers has sustained a claim filed by Siegman & Weil regarding the classification of metal boxes with painted porcelain tops. The Collector returned the articles at 60 per cent. under the provision in the Dingley tariff for decorated china. General Appraiser Hay, who writes the decision for the board, says that the importer's contention that metal is the component of chief value is correct and should be sustained. It is therefore held that the proper rates is 45 per cent.

JEROME RESTRAINING IMPETUOUS FRIENDS

He May Not Announce His New Candidacy Until July Is Well In.

CHANCES OF INDORSEMENT

Tammany Considered Likeliest to Favor Him—Woodruff Is for Him, but Parsons Prefers Whitman.

Following the publication in Monday's TIMES of District Attorney Jerome's answer to all the questions of interest submitted to him prior to the Cooper Union "heckling" bee last week, Mr. Jerome, it was learned yesterday, has received many letters from persons who declare themselves willing to take off their coats and begin work immediately in the interest of his renomination for his present office.

Mr. Jerome, however, does not feel that there is any hurry about it. He is biding his time. He believes that the Cooper Union meeting and the publication of his complete defense in THE TIMES have accomplished what he expected them to accomplish in the way of setting people thinking. Now he is striving to restrain those of his friends who would begin a fight for his renomination at once. His friends who are in his confidence do not believe that he will announce his candidacy any earlier than July.

In the wake of the Cooper Union meeting have followed many invitations to Mr. Jerome to address meetings or speak at dinners here. Mr. Jerome is keeping most of these invitations under consideration at present. He may accept some. So far he has only accepted three. One is to make a speech at a dinner to be given to him by his east side neighbors at the Café Liberty, in East Houston Street, next Thursday; another is to address the Democratic organization of the Tenth Assembly District in Progress Hall, Avenue A, and a third is to speak at a German dinner uptown late this month. The invitation from the Tenth came to Mr. Jerome through Coroner Julius Harburger, the Tammany leader.

Mr. Jerome's first speaking engagement will be at the Café Liberty affair. This will be known as a "Neighborhood Dinner." It is being arranged by Mr. Jerome's friends in a section of the city where he has made his home since he took office eight years ago. About 400 guests will attend.

Invitations were sent broadcast through the east side yesterday to Republican and Democratic politicians, east side business men and shopkeepers and settlement workers. It has been suggested that this dinner may see the formal launching of Mr. Jerome's third boom for District Attorney. The men who are arranging it, however, insist that it will have no political significance. They desire to have it looked upon as a mark of respect and regard for a public officer from the people who know him best.

It was intimated yesterday that Mr. Jerome would take advantage of this occasion to say something about the accusation leveled against him that at the Cooper Union meeting during his administration of the District Attorney's office there has been "one law for the rich and another for the poor."

The belief is now general among politicians that if Mr. Jerome receives the indorsement of either of the regular parties it is more likely to come from Tammany than from the Republicans, and will come after he has declared his independent candidacy for District Attorney. When he ran for this office last the reverse was the case. Tammany Hall had its own candidate in James W. Osborne. The Republicans, too, had nominated a candidate of their own in ex-Magistrate Flammer, though before the campaign had been under way very long Judge Flammer retired in the interest of Mr. Jerome. The courts decided that Mr. Jerome's name could not be substituted for his on the Republican ballot, but Judge Flammer invited his friends to turn their support to Mr. Jerome, and he received the bulk of the Republican vote.

Mr. Jerome has many friends among the rank and file of the Republican organization, and one or two of the Republican district leaders would like to see his name go on the Republican ticket. County Chairman Herbert Parsons, however, so friends who have talked with him recently have been led to believe, has a candidate of his own in ex-Judge Charles S. Whitman, State Chairman Timothy L. Woodruff, who favors Jerome, may, however, be in a position to bring pressure to bear on Mr. Parsons.

As to the attitude toward Mr. Jerome's candidacy of the Committee of One Hundred, soon to be created, it is a foregone conclusion that the District Attorney will have many friends in the movement. The Republicans naturally will be anxious to bring about fusion against Tammany Hall with such an element. It is already hinted that the nomination of Mr. Jerome may be part of the price demanded by the independents for a coalition.

The various sub-committees of the Committee of Nineteen which is to nominate the Committee of One Hundred, were busy yesterday with the Central Committee going over some 1,500 names which have been sent to them for consideration in selecting the larger committee. It was said yesterday that the mass meeting to which the names, when selected, will be submitted for ratification, would be called for some date, yet to be determined, prior to June 15.

Rumor About Lawyer Unexplained.

Nothing more was learned yesterday by the friends of Isaac Moss of the law firm of Moss & Feiner of 35 Nassau Street to confirm or explain the report that he had disappeared from the North German Lloyd liner Prinzess Alice, on which he sailed for Europe last Friday. An effort is being made to communicate with the Prinzess Alice as soon as she establishes communication with the Marconi European stations. Mrs. Moss was too ill yesterday to see callers. At the Van Cortlandt Apartments, where the Mosses live, it was said that Mr. Moss had been ill for several months.

Lawyer Braun Sent to Reformatory.

Rudolph A. Braun, a lawyer of Newark and former New Jersey Assemblyman, who was convicted of embezzling money from clients, was sentenced yesterday by Judge Ten Eyck at Newark to an indefinite term in the State Reformatory at Rahway, N. J. The maximum penalty for the offense is thirty years. Under the law the deposed lawyer cannot ask for parole before thirteen months.

YOUR CHOICE FOR MAYOR.

Municipal Democrats Circulating Postcards Whereon It May Be Shown.

A system of unofficial direct nominations was introduced last night at the open-air mass meeting with which the Municipal Democracy opened its campaign.

The meeting was held at 125th Street and Seventh Avenue, perhaps the most frequented spot in Harlem at night. The truck from which the Municipal Democrats made their speeches was surrounded by something like a thousand men and women. In this crowd members of the organization distributed postal cards, on which was printed an informal ballot for Mayor, including the names of most of the men so far mentioned for the Mayoralty nomination by the various organizations. Beside each name was a square in which to put a cross, indicating the choice. Below were questions, the answers to which would indicate whether the person making reply favored construction and operation of subways by the city or by private corporations. The questions were so put that a person might indicate simply by putting a cross in one of the squares opposite the questions that he favored city constructed subways operated by a private corporation.

Nearly 2,000 cards were distributed last night. Some of these were returned. The early returns showed preference for many different candidates for Mayor, but in every instance the voters indicated that they preferred to have subways both constructed and operated by the city.

The candidates for Mayor named on this informal ballot were William S. Bennet, Nicholas Murray Butler, Leroy B. Crane, William M. Ivins, Seth Low, Charles S. Whitman, and William R. Willcox, Republicans; Bird S. Coler, William R. Ellison, William J. Gaynor, James W. Gerard, E. R. L. Gould, George B. McClellan, Herman A. Metz, Samuel Seabury, Nathan Straus, and John De Witt Warner, Democrats; William R. Hearst, John J. Hopper, Lawson Purdy, and Calvin Tomkins, Independents.

The Municipal Democracy intends to hold open-air meetings and distribute cards every week day evening throughout the Summer and to announce the result of its canvass from day to day, counting only the ballots returned from registered voters.

John T. Cronin, J. J. Murphy, formerly of the Citizens' Union, and Frederick Leubuscher, Chairman of the Municipal Democracy, were the speakers at last night's meeting. They attacked District Attorney Jerome and the present city administration.

FAVORS M'ADOO FRANCHISE.

Estimate Committee to Advocate Granting Grand Central Extension.

The special committee of the Board of Estimate, appointed to consider the application of the Hudson & Manhattan Railway Company for permission to extend its tunnels from the present terminus at Thirty-third Street and Sixth Avenue to the Grand Central Station, held another public hearing yesterday, and decided to report in favor of granting the franchise at the next meeting of the board.

A letter from Chairman William R. Willcox of the Public Service Commission was read, in which he assured the committee that the McAdoo extension would in no way interfere with the Steinway Tunnel or the future extension of the present Subway. This objection was raised by Frank Hedley, General Manager of the Interborough, at the previous hearing.

Mr. Hedley still objected yesterday, declaring that the simple assurances of Mr. Willcox were not sufficient. "What good would this letter be," he asked, "if the present commission went out of business?"

In reply to a question from the Controller as to just what the plans for the operation of the Steinway Tunnel are, Mr. Hedley replied: "That is not the only thing that will be effected by this extension. The Lexington Avenue Subway is equally important."

"Why don't you build that route?" asked President McGowan.

"We haven't the money just now," replied Mr. Hedley.

"And still you want us to hold up every other improvement that is suggested on your account," remarked the President.

Lucien Knapp appeared before the committee to ruge further delay. "This matter was passed secretly by the Public Service Commission," said he, "and the public has not been sufficiently consulted. Over in Queens we have always thought that the Steinway Tunnel was to have four tracks in Forty-second Street. This extension cuts this down to two. I have also understood that the owners of the tunnel intended some day continuing the route down Fifth Avenue to the Battery."

Mr. Hedley was asked after the hearing if the extension mentioned by Mr. Knapp was part of the Interborough's $100,000,000 subway plan. He replied that he did not think it was, but intimated that some such plan is being considered.

MOVING PLATFORM BACKERS.

Leading New Yorkers in the Continuous Transit Company.

Strong interests were disclosed yesterday behind the Continuous Transit Securities Company, which is an applicant before the Public Service Commission to construct moving platforms in different parts of the city. The Directors of the company, of which Edward P. Ripley, President of the Atchison, Topeka & Santa Fe Railroad, will be one, are likely to be Cornelius Vanderbilt, Moses Taylor Pyne, Stuyvesant Fish, Stephen S. Palmer, President of the New Jersey Zinc Company; August Heckscher, President of the Commonwealth Real Estate Company, Albert R. Gallatin, and John F. O'Rourke, President of the O'Rourke Engineering Construction Company. Max E. Schmidt of 45 Broadway is President of the moving platform company and controls the patents.

"I am interested in the Continuous Transit Securities Company and own a block of the shares in the corporation," said Mr. Ripley. "It is true that I am much interested in the plan for the establishment of moving platforms in New York.

"It seems to me that in the present congested condition of some of our cities that the moving platform idea probably offers the best solution of the transit problems right here in congested New York. The streets will surely be relieved as to the surface traffic, and it is evident at once that large crowds of people can be handled.

"I most certainly think that the experiment will be well worth trying. I am confident that it would not prove a failure in New York, and it is equally evident that if the experiment is tried with private capital the city does not stand to lose if the plan should by chance prove a failure."

Plans for Subway Extensions.

The Directors of the Interborough Rapid Transit Company held a dividend meeting yesterday and at its conclusion considered, informally, the details of the plan to be submitted shortly to the Public Service Commission for the construction of extensions to the Interborough Subway under the recent amendments to the Rapid Transit act. The plan will be ready within a week or ten days. Certain engineering features of it, however, and matters relating to the finances have not yet been concluded.

CALL THE POLICE TO CLUB ELECTION

Isaac A. Hopper's Effort to Regain Control of His Old Headquarters Raises a Row.

MANY MEMBERS BARRED

Inspector and Eight Patrolmen Finally Summoned to Stir Up Some Harmony.

Isaac A. Hopper, ex-Tammany leader of the Thirty-first Assembly District, ex-Building Commissioner, and a former power in Democratic politics in Harlem, went down to defeat last night in an effort to regain control of his old organization, the Harlem Democratic Club, of which he was once President. William J. Wright, present Tammany leader, who ousted Hopper from the Executive Committee of Tammany Hall, splitting the old Harlem Democratic Club and organizing the Cayuga Club, the present Tammany stronghold of the district, voted against his old leader.

Democrats in Harlem professed last night to see a reunion of the Cayuga Club and the Harlem Democratic Club as an event of the near future, and Thomas B. Leahy, who fought Hopper to defeat, admitted after the election that harmony was henceforth to be the order of the day. There was talk, however, by constituents of the one-time leader of the district of organizing a new and independent Democratic club in the district.

The trouble, which culminated last night in the sending for the police to preserve order at the election, began several months ago. At that time Leahy, the successor of Hopper with the latter's full consent, aroused the enmity of his former friend by holding a housecleaning in the Harlem Democratic Club, which resulted in the dropping of some eighty-five members of the club for non-payment of dues. Among the eighty-five were many friends of the former leader, and they carried tales of their trouble to him. Hopper protested, to no purpose, and then announced that he would back an opposition ticket at the annual election. Milton M. Goldsmith was selected to head this ticket, and the war began.

When the polls were opened last night in the clubhouse, at 106 West 126th Street, every present and former member of the club was on hand. Leahy had caused guards to be placed at the door, and as a man presented himself for admission his record was looked up, and if the guards decided that he was not up to date in his dues admission was denied to him.

Several Hopper adherents who were thus barred from the club protested that they had paid their dues to date and, declaring that their exclusion from the clubhouse was simply a ruse to prevent their voting, went to the West 125th Street Station and returned with Inspector Thompson and eight men.

The election proceeded after this in a fairly orderly manner, and at 9 o'clock the defeat of Hopper was announced by a vote of 64 to 29. The failure of the former leader to regain control of the club which had once been his headquarters was said by politicians last night to mark the final downfall of the ex-leader.

TROLLEY LINES PICKING UP.

More Income for the Metropolitan Lines Under the Receiverships.

An abstract of the quarterly report of the receivers of the Metropolitan Street Railway for the first three months of 1909, made public yesterday by the Public Service Commission, shows a substantial increase in income as compared with the corresponding period of 1908.

The gross earnings for the quarter ended March 31, 1909, were $2,927,503, as against $3,360,345 in the same quarter in 1908, but in the same period operating expenses were reduced from $2,913,310 to $2,036,103, and fixed charges from $996,674 in the quarter ended March 31, 1908, to $975,247 in the corresponding quarter of 1909. Thereby a deficit after payment of interest and rentals amounting to $421,793 for the three months ended March 30, 1908, was changed into a surplus of $24,044 for the same period of 1909.

Figures on the operation of the Third Avenue system for the quarter ended March 31 last show a gross income of $1,360,702, a gain of $187,855 over the quarter ended March 31, 1908. Operating expenses in the same quarter of 1909 were $1,109,869, an increase of $171,428. A slight increase in miscellaneous income brought the gross income of the Third Avenue Road up to $417,693, an increase of $68,960 over the same quarter in 1908. Receiver Whitridge had $240,235 to pay the fixed charges, a decrease of $80,049 from the same quarter of last year. He therefore came out with a net income for this quarter of $177,457, which, added to previous net of $750,772, made a total surplus of $928,230 for the nine months ended March 31, 1909.

TO RAISE TREASURE SHIP.

Boat on Delaware River Bottom Is Believed to Contain English Gold.

CHESTER, Penn., June 2.—Government officials are agitated over the discovery of an obstruction in the Delaware River, in the vicinity of Fort Mifflin, which they think may prove to be a treasure ship which went down in 1812. It is known that there is a boat at the bottom of the river at that point, and that war equipment of value, as well as gold and silver, are still confined within the hold of the ship.

While the Government boat Cataract was working in the vicinity yesterday the suction pump became clogged, and when it was brought to the surface it was found to contain several fancy and costly helmets, such as were worn by the English soldiers, and equipments of other description.

This discovery has led to the belief that it is one of the boats of the English Government, which brought gold to this country to pay its soldiers during the war of 1812, and which was sunk at this point.

For the purpose of bringing the boat to the surface the Hell Gate, which has been dredging the river off this city, will be sent to Fort Mifflin.

MURDER IN SLEEPY HOLLOW.

Woman Tells of Finding a Man's Body on the Rockefeller Estate.

Special to The New York Times.

TARRYTOWN, N. Y., June 2.—The entrance to Duck Farm on John D. Rockefeller's estate, in the Sleepy Hollow section of this district, was the scene of a murder some time on Sunday night, according to a story told by Mrs. A. Tophit, a Slav woman, who lives a few hundred feet away from where it was committed.

Because Mrs. Tophit speaks no English the case did not come to the attention of the police until to-day. The woman delivers milk in Tarrytown, and, according to her story, she was driving down the Sleepy Hollow Road past the Rockefeller estate about 5 o'clock Monday morning, and when passing the entrance to the farm she saw a man lying, face up, in the road.

There were two cuts in his head and a stab wound over the heart. Mrs. Tophit says she saw a knife in the road a short distance from the scene, but did not pick it up. She drove on to Tarrytown and spoke to a Slav butcher in the employ of Fred Muskat about seeing the man. He told Muskat, and it was through the latter that the police heard of it.

Policeman Hennessey went to the scene this afternoon and persuaded the Tophit woman to show him where she saw the man lying. She took him to the entrance to the Duck Farm on the Rockefeller estate, and an examination plainly showed pools of blood. What happened to the murdered man is a mystery.

Mrs. Tophit says that the body had been removed when she returned from town. The police here inquired of all the undertakers in Tarrytown, Ossining, and Pleasantville, and no case has been reported.

The woman says the murdered man was well dressed in a black suit and had on a new pair of shoes. The police believe that the body had been thrown into the wild fields on the Rockefeller estate.

Mrs. Tophit says that one night two weeks ago as she was driving to Tarrytown to meet her husband a man jumped out into the road and tried to stop her, but she struck him in the mouth and knocked him over. Since then she has carried a revolver.

MOB WRECKS A BAKESHOP.

New Outbreak by Strikers—12 Places Unsanitary, Women's League Finds.

A mob of several hundred striking bakers and their sympathizers wrecked the bakery of David Posen, at Market and Madison Streets, last night. They smashed Posen's plate-glass windows with stones. Policemen Sullivan and Cahill of the Madison Street Station, who were guarding the bakery, were swept back by the mob, but Capt. Schlottman and Policeman Struss heard the rumpus and hastened to their aid. Together they charged the mob and scattered it and arrested four men.

A committee appointed a week or two ago by the Women's Trade Union League to investigate twelve non-union bakeries which, according to the downtown union of bakers, were unsanitary, has completed its investigation.

It is said that the committee found a child asleep in a large bread tray in one bakery, and that the clothing of two bakers was found hanging from a rafter over the tray, while in another a man was asleep on a tray. Six men were seen baking bread in a room which had no ventilation and which measured 8 feet by 12 feet.

The union committee says that all the bakeries visited were non-union shops, and the commission's report says that the sanitary laws were violated in twelve bakeries inspected.

THIEF IN COLLEGE, GIRLS SEARCHED

Students at Adelphi and Their Parents Indignant at the Faculty.

TRAP SET FOR PILFERER

Professor Spies Through a Keyhole, but the Thief Was Too Quick for His Eye.

The girl pupils of Adelphi College, Brooklyn, and their parents are at a white heat of indignation over the alleged action of the Faculty of the college in having several of the students searched to find a pocketbook, which had disappeared.

Dr. Charles H. Livermore, President of the college, who lives at 30 St. James Place, Brooklyn, refused to see a reporter for THE TIMES last night, but a member of his family said he had nothing to say about the matter. The other members of the Faculty also refused to discuss the affair.

Many small thefts have been committed in the college, and in an attempt to catch the thief the Faculty determined to set a trap. A certain girl in the school has been under suspicion for some time, and yesterday a marked dollar bill was placed in a pocketbook and the pocketbook laid carelessly on a table in a room in which this girl would be.

One of the professors watched the table through a keyhole. There were several students in the room at the time, and when they left the pocketbook was missing, but the vigilant professor had seen nobody take it.

Then the girl who was suspected was searched, and as nothing was discovered the other girls who had been in the room were searched also, despite their indignant protests.

The news of the affair spread through the school, and the 600 pupils are said to be on the point of holding a mass meeting to express their disapproval of the action of the Faculty. The parents of the girls who were searched were especially angry. Several of them, it is said, called at the college to demand an explanation.

New Ocean Liner Makes 20 Knots.

A cablegram was received yesterday at the office of the North German Lloyd Line from Managing Director Heineken announcing that the new steamship George Washington had had a successful trial trip. At the trial run off Bremen, on Tuesday the vessel maintained an average speed of 20 knots an hour, developing 21,500 horse power at a mean draught of 26½ feet. Dr. David J. Hill, American Ambassador to Germany, and the members of the Embassy staff were among those who made the run.

THE W&H SHOPS

"To Men Who Know"

ANOTHER example of our value-giving policy.

We have always featured standard brands of merchandise on which the price was fixed and widely advertised, in preference to less known brands that might bring us a larger margin of profit.

Why? The customer's satisfaction was assured, and on our buy back policy we naturally could not afford to take chances.

That is the reason we adopted Manhattan Shirts, for instance. Whether you buy a $1.50 or a $6.00 Manhattan, you are sure of getting the best Shirt Value at the price.
